BARE PLAN TO CUT UP REICH

WON'T DESTROY GERMANY OR ITS PEOPLE: STALIN

30 Salvos of 1,000 Guns Hail Victory

MOSCOW, May 9 (AP)—The soviet union will not "destroy Germany or its people," Marshal Stalin declared tonight in a blunt, matter-of-fact six minute victory broadcast.

Speaking from his study in the Kremlin, around which a million or more Russians crowded in a noisy, happy holiday mood, the soviet leader claimed his nation's greatest celebration.

Fifty-four minutes after he finished speaking 1,000 Moscow guns fired 30 salvos into the cold, clear spring sky, fingered by thousands of searchlights and arching rockets.

"Fascist Germany has been forced to her knees by the Red army and by the troops of our allies. She has admitted herself defeated and has declared unconditional capitulation," Stalin said.

"Provisional Protocol"

"On May 7, in Reims, the provisional protocol of capitulation was signed. On May 8 representatives of the German high command in the presence of representatives of the supreme command of the allied troops and of the supreme command of the soviet troops signed in Berlin the final act of capitulation.

"Being well aware of the subterfuge of the German leaders who consider their treaties as scraps of paper, we have no reason to accept their word. Nevertheless, this morning German troops, in the execution of the act of capitulation, have begun to surrender their arms en masse to the soviet troops. This is no longer a mere scrap of paper.

"It is actual capitulation of the armed forces of Germany.

"Crowned with Full Victory"

"Now we have every ground for declaring that the historic time has come of the final defeat, the day of the great victory of our people over German imperialism.

"The age old struggle of the Slav people for their existence and independence has ended in victory over the German invaders and German tyranny. Henceforth the great banner of freedom of the people and peace among the people will fly over Europe.

"Three years ago Hitler stated publicly that his plan included the cutting up of the soviet union and depriving it of the Caucasus, the Ukraine, White Russia the Baltic, and other areas. He said directly 'we shall destroy Russia so that she will never be able to rise again.'

"But Hitler's insane ideas were

Churchill Atop Car Joins Wild VE Celebrants

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 9—A rollicking Winston Churchill tonight led hilarious Londoners in celebration of V-E day plus one on almost as wide a scale as the one set off yesterday by the official end of the war. Armed with his proverbial cigar, the prime minister squatted atop an automobile, hanging on with one hand and wildly waving a hat with the other.

When word swept around the West End that Churchill would appear in Downing st. the thousands of celebrants packed Whitehall and vociferously cheered him. After waiting patiently for a while the roaring crowd got out of hand and rushed, 30 to 40 abreast, toward No. 10 Downing st.

Sweep Police Aside

As they marched on his official residence, sweeping a cordon of police guards aside, Churchill came out and scrambled onto the car.

With Churchill perched on its bonnet, the auto, which was almost completely hidden by the police hanging on as a bodyguard, emerged into Whitehall, crawled thru the swaying sea of gay people, giving the premier the triumphal drive of his life among the Britons he had led to victory.

More than 30,000 persons surrounded Buckingham palace, cheered the king and queen as they made several appearances on the lighted palace balcony and roof. Even the princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, slipped out of the palace unobserved and joined the throng in front of their home.

Yanks March Too

Piccadilly Circus and Trafalgar square also were scenes again of good natured rioting and snake dancing processions wound in and out to the accompaniment of tremendous firecrackers. At Trafalgar a cockney kid's oil drum band headed several impromptu parades in which American service men marched with happy British girls clad in red, white, and blue ensembles of skimpy dresses improvised from allied flags.

EXPLOSION KILLS AT LEAST 22 IN UTAH COAL MINE

Sunnyside, Utah, May 9 (AP)—At least 22 miners were killed today in an explosion in the Utah Fuel company coal mine here, company officials announced tonight.

Officials said the explosion was believed to have been caused at about 7:15 p. m. [8:15 p. m. Chicago time] when miners struck a "gas pocket."

Eleven bodies have been recovered and six other men have been treated for injuries.

Altho mine officials were unable to say how many men were in the section of the mine where the explosion occurred, they admitted that the loss might exceed 22.

Quisling Seized; 'Orates' in Cell

OSLO, Norway, May 9 (AP)—Nazi Puppet Premier Vidkun Quisling of Norway, the man whose name has become a synonym for traitor, was locked in the Oslo jail today and two high German officers were reported to have taken their own lives as a result of Norway's liberation.

Quisling and six of his cabinet members surrendered to Oslo police while members of the Norwegian home forces rounded up 400 of his followers thruout the city.

Josef Terboven, Nazi civil governor for Norway, and SS Lt. Gen. Rediess, chief of the German police in Oslo, were said to have killed themselves by shooting.

The 57 year old Quisling was ordered arraigned immediately under Norwegian law. The puppet premier objected vigorously when he was locked in a cell, asserting, "Statesmen like me should not have an ordinary cell."

Makes Speeches in Cell

He also objected when the police took away a satchel he brought to the jail. It contained chocolate and a bottle of cognac. For some time after the cell door clanged shut, it was reported, the prisoner made speeches about "all the good things I did for Norway."

Quisling, who five years ago was plucked from obscurity by the conquering Germans to head a government that never was able to command the respect of the Norwegians, drove up to the Oslo police station with his six associates in a luxurious bulletproof limousine.

[The Norwegian radio said the six who surrendered with Quisling were Axel Stang, minister of physical education; Johan Lippestad, minister of social welfare; Rolf Fugelsang, minister of propaganda; Ragnar F. Schanke, minister of church and education; Anders Vasbotten, minister of the interior, and a former minister named Von Kirsch, not further identified. The broadcast said Dr. Alf L. Whist, minister without portfolio, and Hans Skarphagen, minister of transportation, also had surrendered.]

British Troops Hailed

OSLO, May 9 [Reuters]—The first British troops arrived today in Oslo by air. Veterans of North Africa and Libya, dressed in camouflage overalls, formed part of the force. Oslo went wild over the British soldiers who were hailed as heroes.

THE SCABBARD OR THE HEART?

Goering Says Hitler Doomed Him; Kesselring Sits and Sits

Who Gets Credit?

ABOARD THE KESSELRING TRAIN AT SAALFELDEN, Austria, May 9 (AP)—Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, after sitting in a nine car headquarters train in the railroad yards for three days waiting for some one to come and get him, was still "unsurrendered" tonight while the red tape unraveled.

The successor to Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt as commander in chief of the German army in the west, was bearing up good naturedly. He even broke precedent and received war correspondents in the super-de luxe quarters of his special train.

He gave them a hint that the Nazi leaders, including Hitler, actually did plan to hold out in heavily fortified underground tunnels of the Salzburg-Berchtesgaden area after all else was lost.

"I was most surprised at the decision of der fuehrer at the last moment to fight with his soldiers in Berlin," he said.

Against Yielding to Reds

He said he had "the absolute conviction that der fuehrer was unwilling to fall into Russian hands alive," but that he did not know which version of the stories of Hitler's reported death was true.

The way things look now, Kesselring will surrender officially to Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor of the 101st air borne division some time tomorrow.

A lieutenant from the 3d division, which has been bird dogging Kesselring since Maj. Gen. W. O. [Iron Mike] O'Daniels' outfit took Salzburg and Berchtesgaden, tried to take him away from the 101st this morning.

Kesselring's aids firmly informed them all that he would stay put until the Americans get together. Kesselring then phrased a message to Gen. Eisenhower informing him of the train's exact location and assuring the allied commander that he awaited the general's pleasure.

Back to Headquarters

But that didn't stop the Yanks. A courier dashed back to headquarters of the 506th regiment and reported the 3d division was trying to kidnap its field marshal.

Col. Rinaldo Vanbrunt of San Antonio, Tex., chief of staff of the 21st corps, went back with him to try to straighten things out.

Meanwhile a platoon from the 116th cavalry reconnaissance squadron—it saw him first—was relegated to the role of referee. It was just supposed to see that Kesselring didn't get away until it was decided who was going to capture him for the record.

Tells of Escape

U. S. 7TH ARMY ADVANCED HDQ., Bavaria, May 9—Hermann Goering, air marshal of Germany and for many years second in the nazi hierarchy only to Hitler himself, was removed to army headquarters today after being taken prisoner by the 36th infantry division yesterday.

Brig. Gen. Robert Stack

Goering, who told of having been condemned to death by Hitler on April 24 and of being rescued in spectacular fashion by his air force, surrendered personally to Brig. Gen. Robert J. Stack, assistant commander of the 36th.

Placed in custody with the marshal were his wife, child, military aides, and personal retainers. Goering's party met the Americans on a road near Radstadt, 35 miles southeast of Salzburg.

He's in Good Spirits

Goering was in good health and good spirits today. He is bulky in the wrong places, such as the stomach, rather than a mountain of flesh as he has been described. There were many rings on his plump hands.

He wore his favorite gray uniform with heavy gold braid, but only three medals instead of the rows on rows that he had sported in the past.

When told that he would be transported in a Cub plane, he laughed incredulously and asked whether the craft was sturdy enough to carry him. He was jocular but vain. He appeared to be not too concerned about his future, but indicated he didn't know just what was in store for him.

He posed willingly for photographers, but after a time asked them to hurry because he was hungry.

"You want to eat and drink?" a photographer inquired.

"Nein, nein," Goering replied. "Only to eat. The drinking is for you."

Surrender Negotiated

The negotiations for Goering's surrender were initiated by his personal adjutant, Col. Berndt von Brauchitsch, son of the commander in chief of the German armies in the early part of the war. The colonel reached the 36th division's headquarters at 9 a. m. yesterday with a message from Goering to Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. Devers, 6th army

NO FREE DRINKS; FRISCO FRETTING

Ah Well, There's Still Lend-Lease!

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 9—There is some consternation here among foreign delegates who have discovered that Uncle Sam does not foot the bill for whisky and soda, but investigation today revealed that the American taxpayer will fork over an estimated $1,500,000 after picking up the rest of the check as host to the world security conference.

The emissaries from 47 other nations are strictly on their own in paying for hotel rooms, food, and other personal expenses, the state department said. Many of the visitors were dumfounded at this evidence of parsimony in the host country, believing that the United States might break precedent in this regard since it is well known that Americans have so much money it is a nuisance to them.

Anyway There's Lend-Lease

However, most of the visitors are said to be financing their stay with lend-lease funds so the complaining has been confined to well bred murmurs.

Secretary of State Stettinius helped to alleviate this discontent with a lavish cocktail party in his $1,500 a month penthouse at the Fairmont hotel this evening. Only the upper levels of conference society were invited but it was a nice gesture [estimated cost $1,000], the guests agreed.

All the delegates have at their beck and call some 400 state department experts, translators, stenographers and clerks whose salaries are paid by the United States. The American delegation has a staff of 150 assistants on the government pay roll.

$40,000 for "Miscellaneous"

An unofficial table of conference costs with many items yet to be listed, for which congress must provide the funds, was compiled by one authority as follows:

Sal. [350 employes for two mos.]	$ 450,000
Hotel bill for same	132,000
Clerical supplies, typewriter, etc.	55,000
Expenses, delegates and advisers	60,000
Expenses, opera house, vet. bldg.	45,000
Per diem exp. [$6] of subordinate employes	180,000
Printing	80,000
Pre-conference exp. includ trans.	125,000
Transportation [limousines, buses for 2,000]	80,000
Army and navy personnel [salaries and expenses]	120,000
Miscellaneous, includ'g entertain't.	40,000
Total	$1,347,000

FIRST 45,000 TO RETURN BY END OF MONTH

Thereafter at Rate of 10,000 a Day

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—The war department is going to bring American troops home from Europe at a rate of from 270,000 to 500,000 a month, but it will take about a year to reduce our forces there from the present 3,500,000 to the 400,000 that will remain as a garrison force, it was disclosed today.

Simultaneously the office of war mobilization announced that draft calls would continue heavy despite army plans to release 2 million officers and men, which as reported a few days ago, would be at the rate of 100,000 a month. To implement the military's continued need for man power, President Truman today signed into a law a bill extending the selective service act another year—to May 15, 1946, or until the end of the war with Japan, whichever is the sooner.

Average to Be 10,000 a Day

Gen. Somervell, commanding general of the army service forces, and his aides told reporters at a press conference of the tremendous job ahead as the army shifts men and material from Europe to the Orient. The movement of men home at an average of about 10,000 a day will start this month with an estimated 45,000 being returned before June 1.

Most of the men who are deployed from the European fronts to the Orient will go by way of the United States, where they will receive furloughs averaging 30 days, but some, especially service forces men, will go direct to the Pacific theater, Somervell said.

The Plan in Detail

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, chief of the transportation corps, said the return to the United States of the men for demobilization, reassignment, or retraining as a prelude to further redeployment will proceed on this plan:

Approximately 845,000 men, or slightly more than 280,000 a month, will be returned in the first three months starting with V-E day, approximately 1,185,000 or 395,000 a month in the second quarter, and approximately 807,000 or 269,000 a month during the third quarter.

"After the completion of the third quarter, the redeployment program will be maintained at the same rate until only the necessary garrison strength remains in Europe," Gen. Gross said. "This figure, estimated at 400,000, should be attained in slightly less than one year after V-E day."

The bulk of the men will return

400 SUPER FORTS BEGIN 'BIGGER RAIDS ON JAPAN'

16,425 Casualties

GUAM, May 10 [Thursday]—(AP)—American casualties on Okinawa totaled 16,425 thru Monday, Fleet Adm. Nimitz said today. The figure included 2,107 soldiers and 577 marines killed; 10,402 soldiers and 2,800 marines wounded, and 501 soldiers and 38 marines missing. Japanese casualties were previously listed at 36,535.

GUAM, May 10 [Thursday]—(AP)—More than 400 Super Fortresses—the largest B-29 fleet ever to attack Japan—bombed important naval oil storage areas on southeastern Honshu and air fields on Kyushu today. Honshu is the main Japanese homeland island. Kyushu is the southernmost of the home chain.

The B-29s daylight strike on Honshu hit the Tokuyama and Otake fuel storage and manufacturing areas on the Inland sea with the objective of destroying a major source of Japan's supply of aviation fuel.

The raid came as battlefield signs pointed to the approach of a powerful American offensive to wind up the campaign on Japan's doorstep island of Okinawa.

The Nipponese empire was warned that Japan will soon feel the blasts of more bombs than were used to beat down Germany.

United States Pacific fleet headquarters reported that battleships and cruisers had bombarded the Japanese pillbox and cave line on the southern Okinawa front for the fourth straight day. Carrier aircraft and marine Corsairs flying from Okinawa fields also continued to pour bombs into the Japanese fortifications.

Ground Forces Gain

Ground forces "continued to move south" yesterday, headquarters said without giving details, after having been held to no gains Tuesday because of adverse weather.

Presence of the 3d marine amphibious corps on the Okinawa line, along with the 24th army corps, which has borne the brunt of the fighting there, also was disclosed. This indicated that the 6th marine division was on the line, along with the army's 7th and 77th divisions, which have been participating in the push toward Naha, the island capital.

The 1st marine division took over a sector last week, relieving the 96th army division, which had shared the battle along the front where the Japanese have staged the stiffest resistance since the American 10th army of marines and doughboys invaded the island April 1.

Predicts Heavier Air Assaults

Lt. Gen. Barney Giles, new commander of the army air forces in the Pacific, predicted steadily increasing American air assaults on Japan.

Giles, former deputy commander of army air forces under Gen. Arnold, said the famous B-17 Flying Fortresses, which figured so prominently in destroying German opposition, would supplement the B-29 Super Fortresses in pounding Japan.

Many air wings will be transferred from Europe to the Pacific as complete units, Giles said.

Twenty-six minor American fleet units, ranking from ammunition ships to landing craft, have been sunk by Japanese aerial attacks during the Okinawa operation "but these losses have not slowed up the Pacific campaign," Adm. Nimitz said yesterday.

ZONES ASSIGNED TO 4 NATIONS IN OCCUPATION

All Industry and Wealth Controled

France to Get Mines

San Francisco, Cal., May 9 (AP)—The major allies were reported in French circles tonight to have agreed that the future use of the Saar valley coal mines shall be entirely in French hands. These mines once furnished one-third of France's coal.

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—Allied military occupation of Germany—by the United States in the south, Britain in the north, Russia in the east, and France in the Rhineland—is already under way in established zones.

Secretary Morgenthau

Directives were issued from Washington, it was learned tonight on high authority, upon the unconditional surrender of Germany, establishing the American occupation under a pattern prepared largely by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

French Get Rhineland

The American zone of occupation consists roughly of Bavaria, Thuringia, and Wuerttemberg.

The Russian zone of occupation runs roughly along a line from Wismar to the border of Czechoslovakia at Asch.

The British zone of occupation takes all the North sea and Baltic ports from Wismar down to a line roughly between Halle and Coblenz.

The French zone of occupation embraces the Rhineland.

Rules of Occupation

The directives, now issued or being issued, call for the following moves in the American zone of occupation:

1. Complete disarmament of Germans with a division of arms among occupied countries.
2. Destruction or removal of arms plants.
3. Removal from Germany to devastated countries of industrial machinery needed by these nations.
4. Organization of German labor battalions for repairing destruction in Europe.

Patents to Be Seized

5. Transfer of the German chemical industry to allied countries.
6. Seizure of German patents and inventions.
7. Establishment of a commission to supervise German banking and all types of businesses.
8. Dissolution of large German land holdings into small farms.
9. Sending raw materials to devastated countries.
10. Germans to be barred from building or flying planes or gliders.

Manufactures to Be Limited

11. Control of all stock and bond issues.
12. Limitation of German manufactures.
13. Complete supervision of German local government.
14. Recovery and return of all German loot.
15. Study of forced German payment of compensation to victims of Nazi terrorism in Germany and occupied countries.

It is expected that Britain, France, and Russia will follow the same general pattern in their zones.

The Russian share of Germany is by far the greatest prize. It includes 60 per cent of Germany's bread basket, the heavy wheat and grain areas, and a substantial share of Germany's industries in the heavy industrial area of Silesia. It also includes the Saxon towns of Leipsig, Dresden, and Chemnitz.

The British area contains most of Germany's raw materials and heavy industries in the Ruhr, the principal German seaports of Bremen and Hamburg, and the strategic Kiel canal. The heavy industries in this area competed with British heavy industries in peace years.

The American area is largely agricultural and scenic, altho it contains some industry. This area is without access to the sea and at one time it was proposed that the United States be given a sort of Polish corridor to Bremen for an outlet to the sea, but the British protested against the suggestion. It is expected the United States will be granted free access to this area thru British and French zones.

The French area, which is the smallest of the four, is largely agricultural.

The directives issued here largely carry out the Morgenthau plan for reducing Germany from an industrial to an agricultural nation, according to those engaged in the issuance of the directives. This plan was the center of a heated controversy last fall, when it was charged in the senate that it has caused a frightful loss of American life by steeling Germans to fight to the end.

Morgenthau Guiding Spirit

At that time the Morgenthau plan was shelved largely thru the efforts of former State Secretary Hull, who resented Morgenthau's encroachment into state department fields. On the resignation of Hull, Morgenthau again moved into the foreground with his plan. State Secretary Stettinius offered no opposition.

All meetings of the committee on German policy, it was learned, have been held in Morgenthau's office. The committee is made up of heads of the state, war, navy, and treasury departments and the foreign economic administration. In recent weeks Labor Statistician Isador Lubin, who had been named by President Roosevelt to the committee on German reparations established by the Soviets in Moscow, was brought into the sessions. He has continued to attend even tho he has been topped in this post by Edward V. Pauley, named by President Truman as the President's personal ambassador on reparations. Pauley has been in on the sessions.

Fear Industrial Vacuum

It was understood that the committee was not unanimous on the Morgenthau plan. It was vigorously, but unsuccessfully, contended that the de-industrialization of Germany would create a vacuum, which would throw the world out of industrial balance.

It was understood that Morgenthau favored the granting of the lion's share of Germany to Russia because he is convinced the Russians will treat the Germans harshly as he believes they deserve to be treated.

The Russian zone of occupation is now pretty well occupied by Russian forces except in Saxony, into which American forces pushed rapidly. The Russian line follows markedly the Elbe river, at which the Russians insisted American forces stop almost a month ago.

How Allies Divide Occupation of Germany

Approximate division of Germany for occupation by troops of the allied nations. The Ruhr industrial area falls within the British sphere; Berlin, Frankfurt, and Dresden under Russian control, and the Saarland mining area and the Rhine valley to French occupation. The exact line between the French and American control has not been designated.

BOMBS LEVELED 33 PCT. OF NAZI PLANTS; BROOKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—One-third of Germany's industry was destroyed by allied bombing raids Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] told reporters today after returning from a tour of German atrocity camps and American military centers in Europe. Most of the damage was caused by American strategic air forces, he said.

"Great industrial centers like Cologne, Coblenz, Essen, and Frankfurt are completely leveled," Brooks said. "They probably never can be rebuilt. That job of destruction, combined without tactical air forces' defeat of the German air force, is what defeated Germany. Von Rundstedt and other German generals admit this."

Brooks said the tour of German concentration camps, made with a congressional committee of six senators and six representatives, convinced him the Nazis followed a systematic program of starving their political prisoners to death. Similar views were contained in a press statement issued today for the delegation by Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], leader of the senate group.

Systematic Torture

"We found," the statement declared, "this entire program constituted a systematic form of torture and death, administered to intellectual prisoners and all others, including the Jews who would not embrace and support the Nazi philosophy and program."

Two house members of the delegation, representatives Thomason [D., Tex.] and Short [R., Mo.] recommended in interviews the death penalty for four million Nazi storm troopers and 400,000 Gestapo members.

SS Troops in Charge

The delegation's press statement said the concentration camps at which evidences of atrocities were found were under the supervision of SS troops "who, in addition to their own brutality, assigned some of the punitive duties to prisoners, especially the habitual criminals who had charge of the barracks in which all types of prisoners were subject to their vicious and inhuman methods.

"We found the extent, devices, methods, and conditions of torture almost beyond the powers of words to describe. They reached depths of human degredation beyond human belief, and constituted no less than organized crime against civilization and humanity for which swift, certain, and adequate punishment should be meted out to all those who were responsible."

TELL HOW NAZI BAYONETS, DOGS PACED CAPTIVES

Yanks Bitten, Slashed in Torture March

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, May 9—The ordeal of 2,500 American prisoners of war at the hands of the Germans was told today by a group of American flyers, many of whom are from the Chicago region. Last July they were handcuffed and forced to shoulder heavy packs and race at top speed to their camp at Kiefheide in a hot sun, while German marine guards prodded them with bayonets and vicious dogs slashed at them. When they reached the camp exhausted the Germans refused to give them water.

The group was composed mostly of noncommissioned officers of the air force wh. first were interned at Heidekrug, East Prussia When the Russians approached, the Germans packed the 2,500 Americans in a tiny steamer which landed them at Stettin. There they were loaded in boxcars, handcuffed, and their shoes and belts removed. Each man was given three cigarets, which the marine guards lit for them.

36 Hours in Locked Cars

They traveled for 36 hours in the locked boxcars without water or sanitary facilities. When they reached Kiefheide on July 18 they were forced to race from the station to the camp. The men who suffered the most serious cuts and bites were placed in a hospital.

When the Russians were advancing toward Berlin the flyers were moved to Nuernberg. An American soldier from New York was smothered to death en route in one of the boxcars.

Chicagoans Listed

During their detention the Americans were given insufficient rations but stated, "The Red Cross packages enabled us to remain alive."

Flyers from the Chicago area who were in Kiefheide include Sgt. Paul Young, Chicago Heights; Staff Sgt. Leroy Bechmann of Wisteria av.; Staff Sgt. Gust Karallis, Pierce av.; Tech. Sgt. Robert Ownes, Jackson blvd.; Staff Sgt. Ross Klinger, S. Harding av., all of Chicago; Sgt. Howard Kallal Blanchan, Brookfield, Ill.; Sgt. Cyril Cummings, a radio operator, Spring Green, Wis.; Tech. Sgt. William Hofer, Burlington, Wis., and Sgt. Dale Minard, Lebanon st., Aurora, Ill. These men finally reached the Moosburg camp near Munich and expect to start homeward today. A total of 10,500 American, French, and British flyers and flying personnel left Moosburg Tuesday and will be flown to embarkation ports.

The international group in the big camp at Moosburg includes Russian Gen. Alexander Kalinin, who was taken prisoner by the Germans in Kiev in 1941. The Russians suspect that he worked with "Russian volunteers in the German army" and requested his arrest. The general claims that he was detained by the Germans in a camp at Thuerna, near Nuernberg, because he refused to fight for them.

15,000 Rescued Near Linz, Austria

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LINZ, Austria, May 6 [By Courier]—Six varieties of nazi murder, including starvation which forced the inmates to cannibalism, were uncovered in a concentration camp ten miles east of here. Two Americans, one an officer, the other a civilian, were among the 15,000 prisoners rescued from the murder mill which has claimed an estimated 120,000 victims since 1939.

Lt. [j. g.] Jack Taylor, U. S. N. R., Hollywood, Cal., was the survivor of six weeks in the camp following his confinement by the Gestapo in Vienna since his capture last December. A prisoner of one year identified himself as Charles Negrin, an American citizen formerly employed in the United States embassy at Budapest.

The American officer had identification tags from two murder victims.

1,147 Died in Day

Lt. Taylor said that 1,147 inmates died from violence or deliberate deprivation last Tuesday. The average rate approximated 800 daily in recent weeks.

The officer described the six methods of death inflicted by the guards: gassing in a specially designed tile chamber; benzine injections; exposure naked upon the prison walls; slow starvation; quick exit by clubbing or shooting; and literally being tossed to the dogs, pushed into a kennel of ferecious Dobermanns and police dogs to be torn apart.

Starvation was the most common form of death, and the one most dreaded by the prisoners. Any one who faltered at work or reported sick was confined to an infirmary where the men slept six to a bunk naked and were fed half a liter [slightly more than a quart] of some soup and one thin slice of bread daily. The only exit was by way of a crematory with a capacity of 360 daily.

Tell of Cannibalism

It was in the starvation barracks on the night of April 25 that the cannibalism occurred. A French doctor prisoner was among the inmates who told of the cannibalism.

Negrin, who gave his last United States address as 276 Madison av., New York, N. Y., said that 3,000 were gassed in 10 days. The prisoners were told that they were to be given showers before a hike. With 120 at a time crowded into the tile shower room, the doors were locked and sealed and the gas was turned on.

The officer said that the exposure method consisted of having the prisoners take hot showers and then forcing them to stand naked on a wall exposed to freezing winds until they collapsed and died. Sometimes buckets of water were thrown on the hardy who appeared to be resisting the cold.

The camp, a limestone building with tall stone walls on the crest of a hill near Wauthausen, was discovered yesterday afternoon by mechanized cavalry on a scouting trip. The arrival of United States armored cars set off a riot in which the prisoners killed the guards who were not able to escape.

POPE PLEADS FOR END OF WAR IN FAR EAST, EQUALITY OF NATIONS

VATICAN CITY, May 9 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in a broadcast of "humble and ardent gratitude" on the end of the war in Europe said today: "But our canticle of thanksgiving is accompanied with the suppliant prayer to implore also of divine omnipotence the termination, in accord with justice, of the sanguinary warfare in the Far East."

The pontiff, who spoke from his private library said: "The war has created on all sides chaotic ruin both material and moral, such as mankind has never before known in the entire course of human history. The task of this hour is to rebuild the world."

The pope called on enlightened allied leaders to bring about a peace founded on the equality of all nations weak and strong. He urged the speedy return home of war prisoners and interned civilians as the "first element" in European reconstruction.

88 Die as Belgian Ship Sinks in Gale Off Africa

PORT ELIZABETH, Cape of Good Hope, May 9 (AP)—The Belgian steamer Astrida sank in a gale 75 miles off Port Elizabeth on March 19 with the loss of 88 lives, it was disclosed today. Harbor tugs and a British warship rescued 29 persons who clung to wreckage.

MORE YANKS SET FREE FROM NAZI PRISON HOSPITAL

SPITTAL, Austria, May 9 (AP)—The British 8th army was spreading out in lower Carinthia today, cheered by thousands of liberated French, American, Russian, and British prisoners of war. Cossacks of a German slave division were bivouacked in the green fields along the highway, with their thousands of horses and wagons. Many of the Cossacks had their wives and children with them.

British and American soldiers in a German hospital prison at Spittal greeted the first allied soldiers almost hysterically.

ARMY TO BRING 3,100,000 YANKS HOME IN A YEAR

Huge Transport Task to Begin This Month

by boat but about 50,000 a month will be flown home. All transportable hospital cases will be brought home within three months, Gross estimated. He said 20 troop transports and the Atlantic hospital fleet have been earmarked for this job. Americans freed from German prison camps also will have priority for transport home.

Gross said withdrawal of United States forces from Europe will be accelerated provided captured enemy passenger ships are in usable condition. Such ships, however, would not be available for about three months as they will have to be converted and refitted. He estimated that by using captured shipping withdrawals may be speeded up by as much as 60,000 men in the second quarter and 117,000 men in the third quarter.

Fort Sheridan to Be Used

The rate of withdrawal will exceed that by which our men were sent to Europe and will be nearly one and a half times the rate of return after the World war when 2 million men were evacuated in 10 months after the armistice.

When the troops arrive in the United States they will go directly to disposition centers near the ports where the units will be sorted geographically and sent by special trains to the 22 personnel center reception centers scattered in the various states.

Ft. Sheridan, Ill., will be the reception center for men whose homes are in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Ft. Snelling will be the center for men from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Men from Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee will be sent to Camp Atterbury, Ind., and Iowans will be sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Back After Furloughs

"At the personnel center the returned soldier will be issued required clothing, paid and his record put in shape before he leaves for a furlough," Gen. Somervell said. "It is expected that the average soldier returning from Europe will reach his home within a week to 10 days after his transport docks."

When furloughs are completed the men will return to the reception centers where they will be given new assignments. Those who are going to fight against Japan will not necessarily come home first, Gen. Somervell said, as the entire movement must be geared into the movement of material into the Pacific from the United States so that the men and their equipment will arrive at the Pacific bases at the same time.

Gen. Somervell also announced that the movement of German prisoners to the United States had been stopped Monday and that Gen. Eisenhower has been asked to perfect arrangements for the return of those in the United States to Europe "at our convenience."

"Will Call the Shots"

"We want to get them out of the country as fast as the people they are working for can spare them," he said. "I think we should repatriate at least one man for every man we discharge and also for those who are being released from civilian war work. However, they will be returned strictly in accordance with our convenience. We will call our own shots."

War material moving from Europe to the orient will go direct to the Pacific, Maj. Gen. Walter A. Wood Jr., director of plans and operations, said.

"Contrary to rumor, the army is definitely depending upon a big return [of material] from Europe and we are going to demand that it be returned," he said.

Much Recoverable, He Says

Estimates on the percentage of material recoverable run from 60 to 75 per cent, depending on the branch of service. The estimate in the ordnance section is 70 per cent, with heavy artillery estimated 85 per cent recoverable. In the first quarter it is estimated 16 per cent of the recoverable ordnance will be ready for shipment from a European port and that 19 per cent of it will be available in each of the succeeding three quarters.

Gen. Somervell said that for each man sent to Europe 6 tons of supplies had to be sent initially plus about a ton a month thereafter for each man prior to combat. He said it took two years to build up supplies in England for D-day, but warned the reporters not to infer that it will necessarily take two years in the Pacific, even tho the supply line distance is twice as far and port facilities inferior. "But if it does take two years don't be surprised," he added.

Deferments to Be Scarce

In revealing plans for continuance of heavy draft calls, War Mobilizer Vinson said that deferments for men under 30 will continue to be relatively few and will become fewer as more veterans return to industry and the farms. He said the exact size of the induction calls ahead cannot be calculated at this time.

Release of men with long and hard service, he said, will require a higher level of calls because of the desire to spread the burden of military service among the largest possible proportion of the population.

He said almost every soldier in this country, except those who have already been overseas or who are physically disqualified, already is earmarked for foreign service.

At the present time, Vinson reported, about 1,400,000 are in training to go overseas. However, "only part of the needs can be met from the ranks now in the United States."

This means, he said, large numbers of troops will go direct from the European theater to the Pacific.

"The soldiers to be released thru the cut in the size of the army will be selected from among fathers and those who have had the most extended and arduous service," Vinson said.

To mount the final phases of the war against Japan and occupy conquered territories, the army plans to maintain the total force of 6,968,000 for a year and the navy to maintain an authorized strength of 3,389,000, beginning June 30.

VICTORY DAYS MEAN KISSES FOR CHICAGO SOLDIERS IN PARIS

BY ANNE BRUYERE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 9—Jubilant Chicagoland GIs and WACs joined merry throngs of dancing French today as Paris continued to celebrate the victory.

Capt. Bernard Burg, 24, of 3600 Flournoy st., Chicago, distributed truckloads of American flags, paper hats, noise makers, toy horns and drums, and red, white, and blue streamers to gleeful French children in the flag bordered boulevards.

Improvised Yankee bands conducted by Seymour L. Jurbin, 817 Lakeside pl., Chicago, and Sgt. Edward M. Powell, 205 Vine st., Hinsdale, Ill., led rapturous crowds who left their stores and houses to take part in the celebration.

Among the joyful Chicago WACS who carried tricolored flowers and handkerchiefs in harmony with the red, white, and blue clad civilians dancing about them were Sgt. Mildred B. Karlsen, 3826 N. Octavia av.; Sgt. Edna E. Williger, 4708 N. St. Louis av.; Corp. Jane McCray, 2909 Archer av.; Dorothy Herdt, 4740 N. Lavergne av.; Charlotte E. Jenkins, 6530 Harvard av., and Mildred Irmen, 5130 W. Bloomingdale av.

Among GI's who were soundly kissed on both cheeks by hundreds of celebrating Parisians were Blair Cullem, 1230 S. Oak Park av., Berwyn, and Arthur Perez, a military policeman, 849 W. Taylor st., Chicago.

VALOR OF AMERICANS AND IKE'S LEADERSHIP LAUDED BY CHURCHILL

LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said in a message to President Truman tonight that "the valiant and magnanimous deeds of the United States of America" during the European war will forever stir the hearts of Britons and predicted they will "lead to even closer affections and ties" between Britain and America. He was replying to the President's V-E day message.

Churchill heaped high praise on Gen. Eisenhower, saying:

"Let me tell you what Gen. Eisenhower has meant to us. In him we have had a man who set the unity of the allied armies above all nationalistic thoughts. In his headquarters unity and strategy were the only reigning spirits, the unity reached such a point that British and American troops could be mixed in the line of battle and that large masses could be transferred from one command to the other without the slightest difficulty. In the name of the British empire and commonwealth, I express to you our admiration of the firm, far-sighted, and illuminating character and qualities of General of the Army Eisenhower."

U. S. SHIFTING SOLDIERS FROM ITALY TO PACIFIC

ROME, May 9 (AP)—Some American combat troops already have been transferred direct from Italy to the Pacific war zone, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of United States forces in the Mediterranean area, disclosed today.

Only a relatively small number of the troops in this area will be demobilized and these probably won't leave Italy for several months, McNarney said. Most of the soldiers in Italy, he said, would be needed either for European occupation assignments or for more campaigning in the far east.

The movement to the Pacific theater, he said, would be via the United States.

"For most of you," McNarney told the troops under his command, "your return to civilian life will come only when Japan has been utterly and finally defeated."

FOUND HANGED IN GARAGE

Harry Leonard, 54, of 333 W. 76th st., an electrician at the United States customs house, 610 S. Canal st., was found dead by hanging in the garage at the rear of his home last night. He was a disabled veteran of World War I., and his widow, Margaret, told police he had been despondent over ill health.

WON'T DESTROY GERMANY OR ITS PEOPLE: STALIN

not destined to come true. They were blown to dust in the course of the war. In fact, the exact opposite happened to what the Hitlerites threatened. Germany is utterly destroyed. The German troops are capitulating. The soviet union is rejoicing in victories, altho it does not intend either to destroy Germany.

"Comrades, the great patriotic war has ended with our complete victory. The period of war in Europe has ended, and the period of peace is beginning."

[A London dispatch noted that Stalin made no reference to Japan or the far eastern conflict.]

A few minutes after his broadcast Stalin issued his final order of the day to the Red army and navy in which he said: "I congratulate you on the victorious conclusion of the war. . . . Long live the Red army and navy."

The Moscow press praised the great soviet victory over the foe and Red Star said: "In this victorious war of the united nations over German imperialism the most important and decisive role belongs to our native land, to the Red army."

After the tremendous artillery salute and pyrotechnic display, Red air force planes swooped and circled over the gay scene, their roaring motors adding to the din of victory. From the planes showered muticolored flares.

More than 100 bands and orchestras played in the squares and parks for the thousands who rollicked thru the night.

Joining with them were the nationals of others of the allied nations, including many Americans.

In a great tribute to the United States, thousands of persons assembled in front of the American embassy during the afternoon shouting: "Long live America. Long live Truman. Long live the memory of Roosevelt. Long live the American people."

Officers and GI's and staid diplomats joined in the wild tribute and were hugged and kissed by the Russians. The demonstration was touched off anew when George Kennan, United States minister, hung out the soviet flag beside the United States flag which was at half staff for the late President.

Thruout the day the center of the celebration was the vast Kremlin square where the people shuffled over the old cobblestones shouting: "Long live Stalin. Long live victory." American GI's danced over the ancient stones with pretty Russian factory girls released from their duties to celebrate the victory over Germany.

One American corporal, after about an hour's celebrating, gasped: "Boy, O boy! If I'd played postoffice every day until I got into the army, I wouldn't have been kissed as many times as I've been kissed today."

BERLIN A DEAD CITY AND WEIRD DESERT OF RUINS

Center of Fallen Capital Nothing but Rubble

BY HAROLD KING

(For the combined allied press)

BERLIN, May 9 (AP)—Berlin is a city of the dead. As a metropolis it has simply ceased to exist. Every house within miles of the center seems to have had its own bomb.

I toured the Nazi capital from the east to the center and back to the south this morning in company with Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder and the Russian military commander of Berlin, Gen. Berzarin.

The scene beggars description. I have seen Stalingrad; I lived thru the entire London Blitz; I have seen a dozen badly damaged major Russian towns, but the scene of utter destruction, desolation and death which meets the eye in Berlin as far as the eye can rove in all directions is something that almost baffles description.

"The blitz on London was a bank holiday compared with this," one of my colleagues remarked.

Unter den Linden Wrecked

Dozens of well known thorofares, including the entire Unter den Linden from one end to the other, are wrecked beyond repair.

The Alexander platz, in the east end, where the gestapo headquarters were, is a weird desert of rubble and gaping, smoke-blackened walls. From the Brandenburg gate, everything within a radius of from two to five miles is destroyed. There does not appear to be one house in a hundred which is even useful as shelter.

Among hundreds of well known landmarks which have disappeared or been irreparably damaged are the former kaiser's palace, the opera house, the French, British, American, and Japanese embassies, Goering's air ministry, Goebbel's propaganda ministry, the Bristol and the Adlon hotels.

Hitler's chancellery in the Wilhelmstrasse is like some vast abandoned ancient tomb of the dead. It has had several direct hits.

Civilians Are in Suburbs

There are 2,000,000 German civilians in the town, Russian authorities told me, but they are mostly in the suburbs. In the central part of the town you only see a few ghost-like figures of women and children—few men—queing up to pump water.

If Stalingrad, London, Guernica, Rotterdam, Coventry wanted avenging, they have had it, and no mistake about it.

Several red flags fly on top of the reichstag which is burned hollow. The Tiergarten opposite the reichstag looks like a forest after a big fire.

The Russian command has erected at all main squares and crossings huge sketch maps, without which it would be impossible to find one's way about.

Freed Slaves Move Thru City

Columns of displaced persons of all European nationalities are moving thru Berlin in various directions. These columns of freed slaves are sometimes a mile long.

They trudge along slowly, one or two abreast, drawing tiny carts, or six or eight of them at a time dragging with ropes wagons which need a lusty horse. In these columns there are many little groups, carrying the flag of their nationality—Italians, French, Belgian mostly. Many are in uniform and appear to be escaped or freed prisoners of war.

The Russian military command of this modern Carthage is thousands of Berliners. The Germans get 500 grammes of bread a day [more than many got in Moscow in the winter of 1942], a litle meat, sugar, coffee, and potatoes. Attempts are being made to get the water supply working.

Many wounded German soldiers lying in underground hospitals have been sent to Russian-organized hospitals, and are looked after by German doctors and German nurses.

TRIBUNE WRITER VISITS HITLER'S TWO LOVE NESTS

Describes His Flat and Villa in Munich

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

MUNICH, Germany, May 9—To sit in Hitler's own secret study, turn on his radio set and hear the announcement of the fuehrer's death proclaimed by his successor may sound fantastic, but that is what happened to Col. W. P. Grace, Snow Hill, Md., and to Capt. Hurd Greeves, Tampa, Fla. They were on duty in Munich at the command post of their regiment, which was established in a flat which had been Hitler's since 1925 and which he kept as his secret pied-a-terre even after he built himself palaces in and near Munich.

After watching the Munich citizens scurry about their daily tasks on V-E day as if they were trying to forget that this day seals the greatest military defeat in German history, I went in search of their erstwhile fuehrer's flat and the home he built for his lady love, Eva Braun.

Finds Love Nest

I found the apartment on Prinzregenten-strasse occupied by the command post of the 179th regiment. A small group of Americans was busy editing a news bulletin, "The Peace-pipe." The floors were laid out in heavy, tomato colored carpeting and the walls were covered with paintings, while the furniture was similar to that in all the palaces and offices furnished in Hitler's era—light colored but square and somewhat heavy.

One room was filled with unpretentious, cheap, lower middle class furniture. It was the former bedroom of Hitler's niece, the great love in Hitler's life, who was shot in his apartment shortly after he emerged from detention at Landshut. The room had been kept closed ever since and was opened for the first time when the Americans took over.

Hitler's Coat of Arms

Close to the radio over which Col. Grace heard the news of Hitler's death is a coat of arms which Hitler had designed for himself in 1932, even before he was fuehrer. It is a gaudy affair, topped with roosters' feathers and displaying a swastika and what looks like a sunflower. There is also a huge, beautifully engraved brass plate, displaying the alleged genealogical tree of the family Schickelgruber back to the 16th century.

Hitler's housekeeper, Frau Winter, who ran the establishment all these years, decamped six hours before the Americans arrived, while two nights earlier the king of the Belgians had been quartered in his flat guarded by a company of SS troops. The paintings in Hitler's apartment included lascivious nudes and a portrait of Eva Braun done in 1939.

Built Villa for Girl

From Hitler's flat we went to the unpretentious looking villa which Hitler built for Eva, the girl who made him forget his niece when he met her as an apprentice of the photographer, Heinrich Hoffmann, in 1929. The neighbors say that they saw Eva there about six weeks ago when big vans arrived to remove a great deal of furniture.

One of the bedrooms evidently was Hitler's. Even the pillow casings are embroidered with the Nazi eagle and Hitler's initials, which also appear on the red taffeta of the pillow itself. The house now is occupied by an American officer of the allied military government, and the portrait of Eva has been relegated to the garret.

Elaborate Air Raid Shelter

Hitler took good care of his lady friend by equipping her home with a gasproof air raid shelter that has the same complicated air purifying system as the underground headquarters of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring and Hitler himself near Bad Nauheim. Eva had an ample supply of liquors, chocolates, and foodstuffs and clothes in the shelter. Close to the entrance to her house is a bombproof shelter for the guard who was on duty when she occupied the house.

Policewoman Helen Bowden reported to police yesterday that a .38 caliber revolver was stolen from her home at 746 W. Garfield blvd., while she was out.

PRAGUE FREED; RUSSIANS FIGHT LAST HOLDOUTS

LONDON, May 10 [Thursday] —(AP)—Marshal Stalin announced the liberation of Prague yesterday and said that while a small group of die-hard Germans still was resisting in Czechoslovakia, "We must believe that the Red army will succeed in bringing it to its senses."

Just after midnight the Moscow radio broadcast a soviet bulletin which stated that the capitulation of the Germans was proceeding on all fronts except in Czechoslovakia, where a group of German troops, "avoiding capitulation to soviet forces, is retreating hastily to the west and southwest."

Moscow said soviet troops had linked up with Americans in Austria in the area of Amstetten.

Stalin's order of the day concerning Prague was the 368th of the war in a series which began on Aug. 5, 1943, with the proclamation announcing the liberation of Orel and Belgorod.

Invite Benes to Return

Like every soviet order with the exception of that announcing the historic linkup of soviet and American forces, it ended with the exclamation "death to the German invaders."

Prague, a city of 848,823 population, was occupied by the Germans on March 14, 1939, in one of the Hitler strokes that culminated in history's most devastating war.

Shortly before Stalin announced that Prague had been freed, the Prague Patriot radio broadcast an invitation to President Eduard Benes and the national government to return to Prague from Kosice.

The unconfirmed Czechoslovak broadcast said Prague and three other points in Czechoslovakia were attacked by air. Meinik, Kralupy, and a Jewish concentration camp at Terezin, 40 miles north of Prague, were said to have been bombed.

Last German Bulletin

The German high command, in what the announcer on the Flensburg radio said was the "last communique," announced last night that all German arms had ceased firing on order of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz.

The French defense ministry in Paris announced that German Atlantic port garrisons at La Rochelle, St. Nazaire, and Lorient had surrendered.

The only Germans remaining unsurrendered on French soil were some 12,000 at Dunkerque, the channel port thru which the British expeditionary force escaped in 1940.

About 79,000 Germans were believed to have yielded in the three surrendered ports—all important submarine bases.

Minor Nazis, Not Hitler, Landed in South Ireland

DUBLIN, Eire, May 9 [Reuters]—There is no foundation whatever in the rumors that Adolf Hitler, Gestapo Chief Himmler, and "Lord Haw Haw"—William Joyce—were on board a German plane which landed in southern Ireland during the week-end, it was stated here today. Those on board were three minor personnel of the luftwaffe.

British to Employ Nazis in 'Considerable Numbers'

LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Great Britain has decided to use German prisoners "in considerable numbers" to help the government housing program, Duncan Sandys, minister of works, announced today.

KEITEL APPEALS FOR MORE TIME; ZHUKOV REFUSES

Wehrmacht Chief Signs Amid Berlin Ruins

(Pictures on back page)

BY JOSEPH W. GRIGG JR.

[FOR THE COMBINED ALLIED PRESS]

BERLIN, May 9 (AP)—The final seal was set on the German army's defeat and humiliation before the world early this morning by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, titular head of the once proud German high command.

Brought to Marshal Gregory Zhukov's Russian headquarters in the devastated German capital, he signed the formal ratification of Germany's unconditional surrender.

The signing was in the large whitewashed hall of an army technical school in the eastern residential suburb of Karlshorst.

The document had more or less identical terms to that signed at Reims on Monday morning, with certain additions requested by the Russians, defining more closely the details of the surrender of German troops and equipment.

Tedder Signs for Eisenhower

On the allied side it was signed by Zhukov for the Russians and by Air Chief Marshal Tedder on behalf of Gen. Eisenhower, and was witnessed by Gen. Spaatz [American] and Gen. De Tassigny [French]. On the German side Keitel signed, together with Adm. Friedeburg, commander in chief of the German navy, and Col. Gen. Paul Stumpff, commander in chief of the air force.

With signatures of the heads of all the German armed forces appended, the document forestalls any future German claim that the German army ended the war unbeaten.

Keitel, a tall, haughty, and gray haired figure, wearing the full dress uniform and red striped pants of a German field marshal, maintained his Prussian arrogance to the end.

After his signature already had been appended to the document and while the allied chiefs were signing, Keitel made a last minute attempt to play for time.

Protests Not Enough Time

He beckoned the Russian interpreter to him and began haranguing him, bitterly protesting there was insufficient time to notify the forces under his command of minor modifications in the capitulation text and asking for another 24 hours' grace before it became effective.

"I insist you go to the colonel general—I mean Marshal Zhukov—and tell him I must demand another 24 hours' respite," he said.

The interpreter hesitated and appeared uncertain what to do, and finally went to consult members of Zhukov's staff. As no reply was conveyed back to Keitel it appeared that the Russians ignored the request.

For Zhukov, commander of the 1st White Russian army, the ceremony was the triumphant climax to a bitter 1,400 mile battle from the ruins of Stalingrad into the heart of devastated Berlin.

Drive Thru Berlin Shambles

Zhukov's headquarters were established at Karlshorst because there is not a single building in the devastation of central Berlin which could house even a company headquarters.

Keitel, too, had the final supreme humiliation of being driven in a Russian staff car to meet Zhukov thru the blasted shambles of central Berlin, which witnessed the greatest triumph of his and Hitler's armed forces a bare three and a half years ago.

Tedder, Spaatz and other members of the supreme allied headquarters delegation left Reims yesterday morning and touched down on the airstrip at Stendal near the Elbe at 11 a. m., where a rendezvous had been made with a Russian fighter escort and a plane bringing Keitel and Friedeburg from Flensburg.

The supreme allied headquarters delegation was met at Tempelhof air field by a guard of honor of a soviet guards' regiment with flags of the soviet union, United States, and Britain. Cameramen and newsreel men swarmed around the delegation.

Whisked Off to Headquarters

The day was warm and sunny. The band played the three national anthems and a guard of honor in Russian helmets and carrying long bayonets fixed on their rifles gave three hurrahs and staged a formal parade.

The planes landed at 2 p. m. Immediately after the ceremony the allied delegation and the newsmen were whisked off in a cavalcade of cars thru Berlin's devastated east end.

In a brief informal ceremony, Tedder presented Zhukov with a silken SHAEF [supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force] banner sent as a personal gift by Gen. Eisenhower and Zhukov replied with a brief speech of thanks.

Tedder and Zhukov Confer

Keitel and the Germans, meanwhile, had been escorted to a nearby villa to await the capitulation document. Zhukov asked Tedder to stay behind and confer alone with him for a few minutes. The two remained closeted about a half hour while Tedder gave Zhukov the draft of the capitulation terms embodying certain changes which the Russians desired. At 5:30 p. m. they came out and Zhukov asked Tedder to give him until 8 p. m. to consider the exact wording.

A long wait then began. At 8 p. m. Zhukov and the supreme allied headquarters experts had not yet agreed on the final text. At one point Tedder was called away to confer again personally with Zhukov. It was not until shortly before midnight that the document was finally completed, typed, and presented to the Germans.

Keitel Notified to Enter

At midnight Zhukov notified the delegates to enter the hall for the signing.

The hall was brilliantly lighted, spotlighting the soviet, American, British, and French flags immediately behind the chief allied delegates. The long tables were arranged like a letter "E."

Zhukov, stern faced, took the middle seat, with Tedder and soviet Assistant Foreign Commissar Andrei Vyshinsky and Adm. Harold Burrough [British], the allied supreme naval commander, on his right, and Gen. Spaatz followed by Gen. de Tassigny.

Other members of the allied delegation included Maj. Gen. H. R. Bull [American], head of the SHEAF G-3, and Maj. Gen. K. W. D. Strong [British], head of SHEAF G-2. The correspondents were escorted by Capt. Harry Butcher, U. S. N. R., Brig. W. A. S. Turner, and Col. Ernest Dupuy of SHEAF public relations.

Pose for Photographers

The delegates spent several minutes posing for the Russian photographers. At 12:07 a. m. Zhukov rose and read the text of the capitulation document and then ordered the German delegation to be brought in.

Keitel walked in and was followed by Friedeburg and Stumpff. Keitel, his face slightly flushed, slammed his marshal's baton down on the table and took a seat, looking straight ahead, ignoring the photographers who swarmed around him.

[CBS Broadcaster Howard K. Smith said "Keitel alone of all the German officers in the room wore the gold badge of honorable nazi service to Hitler."]

Once or twice Keitel fingered his collar and nervously wet his lips. He was determined, however, to carry his old school Potsdam arrogance thru to the bitter end. The Germans sat at a separate table near the door with four uniformed aides and two allied interpreters standing behind.

Puts Monocle in Place

Tedder rose and asked in a cold voice in English, "I ask you: Have you read this document of unconditional surrender? Are you prepared to sign it?" After the translation Keitel picked a copy of the document off the table and replied in a harsh Prussian accent in German, "Yes, I am ready."

Zhukov then motioned him to come over to the table. Keitel picked up his cap his marshal's baton and gloves, and slowly and carefully inserted his monocle in his right eye, walked over and sat down to sign in a long scrawling hand the single word "Keitel." The first signature was appended at exactly 12:15 a. m. central European time.

There were nine copies to sign—three each in Russian, English, and German, of which the Russian and English texts were official for the record.

Banquet of 25 Toasts

After signing, Keitel returned to his seat and Friedeburg and Stumpff followed immediately. Zhukov then signed for the Russians, Tedder for Gen. Eisenhower, and Spaatz and De Tassigny signed as witnesses. It was while this was proceeding that the incident of Keitel demanding an extra 24 hours' grace took place.

As the signing was completed Zhukov rose and said coldly in Russian, "I now request the German delegation to leave the room." Keitel rose, snapped together the folder in which he was carrying his copy, and marched out haughtily followed by the other Germans.

The allied leaders then shook hands all around. Later Zhukov gave a banquet to the allied delegation which lasted till 6 a. m., during which no less than 25 toasts were drunk. In one toast to Eisenhower, Zhukov described him as "one of the greatest generals of present times," adding "I want him to know how much the soviet army and people appreciate his tremendous achievements."

Report New Big 3 Parley Plans Are in the Making

LONDON, May 9 [Reuters]—Preliminary steps are being taken to arrange a further three power conference, according to well informed political circles. Prime Minister Churchill is understood to favor an early consultation with his war leader colleagues, President Truman and Marshal Stalin, and they in turn are believed to be equally aware of the necessity for early mutual consultations on the big tasks still ahead.

CHICAGOAN CREDITED WITH 1 OF LAST 2 NAZI PLANES DOWNED

U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE HDQ., Germany, May 9 (AP)—Lieutenants Manuel W. Geiger, Clarkston, Mich., and Stanley S. Newman, 5325 Hyde Park blvd., Chicago, Ill., are believed to have shot down the last two German planes before the war ended. They each downed a Focke-Wulf 190 yesterday morning while on reconnaissance patrol duty 15 miles south of Pilsen. They said the Germans fired first. At least 20 German planes flew from Czechoslovak bases yesterday to land and surrender at American bases. One air group commander brought his family in an old Junkers 88 bomber.

Lt. Newman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Newman, also of 5325 Hyde Park blvd. The father said Newman, 21, a P-51 Mustang pilot, had shot down two planes previously. Newman enlisted 27 months ago while in his third year at the University of Illinois.

U. S. WILL SEIZE NAZI PROPERTY THRUOUT NATION

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—Germany's defeat was so complete that in an unprecedented diplomatic step the United States today served notice it would take over official German property in this country.

Acting State Secretary Grew disclosed that the state department had requested the Swiss delegation to turn over all German premises, archives, and property now under Swiss protection in this country.

This would include the German embassy here and consulates thruout the country, it was understood.

The state department's act left the implication that at present, anyway, the vestigial regime headed by Adm. Karl Doenitz does not qualify as a German government.

ORDERED TO BUY $250 BONDS FOR V-E VIOLATION

One tavern owner's failure to close on V-E day and another's celebration of the occasion landed both of them in courts yesterday. Casimer John Lenart, 30, of 13201 Baltimore av., tavern owner at 9921 Ewing av., admitted to Judge Joseph B. Hermes in South Chicago court that he knew taverns were to close on V-E day, but only from newspaper reports.

Lenart was told he must buy $250 in war bonds by May 25 or be fined.

For John McGovern, 37, manager of Liberty Inn, 661 N. Clark st., the trouble was not keeping the place open but shooting a .38 caliber revolver in celebration. McGovern faced Judge Harry P. Bean in S. State st., court on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and firing a gun within the city limits. Judge Beam discharged him when he promised to give $10 to the Chicago service men's center.

group commander, offering to give up.

The 36th's commander, Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, then dispatched Gen. Stack and a driver with Von Brauchitsch in the direction of Goering's secret hideout. Goering and his family and retinue were in motor cars on the road and Goering stepped out as Stack's auto approached. Stack identified himself and the two shook hands.

The captive spent last night in a castle near Kitzbuhel, Austria.

Tells of Hitler Rage

In a conversation with Gen. Stack, Goering told why he had gone into hiding. His story was that on April 24, when the allied drive was rising to a climax and there was no question but that Germany was doomed, he telephoned from Berchtesgaden to Hitler. He did not say where Hitler was at that time.

Goering said he reminded Hitler of statements made by him that if the worst came he [Goering] was to take command. Goering suggested that the hour had arrived and he was prepared to become head man.

Hitler went into a rage, Goering said, and accused him of having lost faith. Hitler shouted he was signing Goering's death warrant, but after a few moments added, "If you renounce all your titles and high honors, you will be forgiven."

Goering said he made the renunciation requested, but Hitler nevertheless directed that he be executed. SS [elite guard] troops at Berchtesgaden closed in and arrested him.

The air force men heard of this and came to his aid, Goering added. He asserted they shot a way for him thru the SS men and hurried him to the mountain retreat. He remained there till the 36th division came into the area.

Execution Ordered by Bormann

Von Brauchitsch asserted that the order to execute Goering, directed to the major in command of the SS troops guarding him, was not signed by Hitler, but "by Reichsleiter Bormann [Martin Bormann, one of Hitler's oldest counselors] with the notation that it was signed in der fuehrer's name."

"Thus the major did not regard it as an authentic order from der fuehrer," Von Brauchitsch said. "Furthermore, the troops did not want to execute the reichsmarshal, because he was a soldier and a commander and they were soldiers."

After a whispered conference with Goering, Von Brauchitsch declined to give the SS major's name because he might be subjected to some form of retribution for not carrying out Bormann's order.

Von Brauchitsch said Goering had not piloted his own plane for some time.

The aide said during the time he was on Goering's staff he took part in some air operations over France, but, he added hastily, "I never went past the channel."

Goering said that while he was under arrest he heard the German radio announce that he was ill of heart trouble.

"That wasn't true," he said. "I am in perfect health."

KING TO OPEN CANADA VOTE DRIVE NEXT WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 9—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada plans to depart from the San Francisco conference Monday to open the campaign in the June 11 Canadian federal election, which is the equivalent of a Presidential election in the United States.

During the drive for a Canadian war loan which ends Tuesday there has been an armistice in the campaigning. The prime minister will open the battle for the Liberal party with a speech at Vancouver, British Columbia, to be carried over a radio network Wednesday afternoon. Friday he will speak at Edmonton, on Saturday in Saskatchewan.

During the conference leaders of the three leading parties have been here as delegates. Besides King, head of the delegation, the other members include Gordon Graydon, leader of the Progressive-Conservative party in the house of commons, and M. J. Coldwell, president and parliamentary leader of the Cooperative Commonwealth federation.

DANES PLEDGE QUICK TRIAL FOR COLLABORATORS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 9 (AP)—Pledging "hard but just punishment" of Danes who collaborated with the German invaders, Premier Vilhelm Buhl told Denmark's parliament today that all would receive prompt, fair trials.

It was the first parliamentary session in 18 months, and was attended by King Christian who, because of his ill health, was rolled in on his royal throne for his first public appearance in two years.

Denmark, Buhl said, will sign a new treaty with the United States for defense of Greenland. He said the country wants preservation of the present border with Germany because it desires only Danish citizens on its soil.

LAST LST SHIP TO BE FINISHED BY YARD JUNE 22

The Chicago Bridge and Iron company will complete its 157th LST [landing ship, tanks] and will wind up its contract for the construction of these landing craft when it delivers the vessel June 22 from its Seneca, Ill., ship yards on the Illinois river, Capt. Paul S. Goen, supervisor of ships for the navy in Chicago, announced yesterday.

Capt. Goen said that at the peak of operations at Seneca 10,800 men and women were employed. The company now has 5,000 on its rolls and will cut back its employment to 2,500 by June 1, as job assignments are finished on the seven remaining craft to be completed. Most of this number will be released by the time the last ship is delivered.

The company will keep a maintenance force of more than 250 workers until the end of the war with Japan, so that ship production may be resumed on short notice if it becomes necessary, it was revealed.

Goen praised the company's production record since the first keel was laid June 15, 1942. He gave special praise to C. S. Pillsbury, vice president, who managed the project; Merle Trees, vice president; Clarence W. Hines, general manager of the shipyards; and Don Leach, ship yard manager.

Chicagoan Taken in '42 on Corregidor Reports

The provost marshal's office in Washington yesterday notified Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Glennon, 6425 N. Richmond st., that their son, David Glennon, 27, a naval machinist's mate captured at Corregidor in 1942, had been heard over a Japanese radio station, and quoted him as saying that he was "in good health and the best of spirits." This was the first word of Glennon since receipt of a letter last August.

VINSON PLEDGES MORE GAS AND FEW APPLIANCES

But Less Food Is Due as Shipments Continue

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—Less food, but more gasoline and some new household appliances and automobiles are in prospect for American civilians in the coming months now that the war in Europe is over, War Mobilization Director Vinson said today in a special report submitted to President Truman.

Vinson said rationing and price and wage controls will continue as long as they are necessary in the war against Japan. He predicted the Japanese war will grow in severity over a long period.

Curfew Lifted

Vinson made the report public at a press conference at which he announced removal of the midnight entertainment curfew and race track ban, which had been in effect since early in the year. The restriction on outdoor illumination was lifted yesterday. The war mobilization director said he saw no hope of rescinding the convention ban—another home front crackdown ordered by his predecessor, James F. Byrnes—because of the transportation situation.

Meat, sugar, and butter will be the most serious of the food shortages, Vinson said in his report, which outlined his views of the conditions under which the American people will live until the defeat of Japan. He said meat supplies are expected to be 26 per cent less than estimated requirements for the third quarter of this year, and that the total food supply for the year probably will be 5 to 10 per cent smaller than last year.

Food Shipments to Continue

Vinson said the United States will continue to feed liberated Europeans. Cereals and fats and oils will be the largest group of foods shipped abroad, he reported, and other foods, such as meat, sugar, cheese, rice, and evaporated milk, will be supplied only to meet the most urgent needs because supplies are so limited.

Washing machines, refrigerators, radios, vacuum cleaners, and furniture "should be available" in limited quantities within a year, Vinson said. A few new automobiles may come off assembly lines in six to nine months, he continued, but no large quantities for a "long time." There will not be enough automobiles to satisfy pent-up civilian demand in less than three years, he predicted. The most essential motorists will receive the first new cars under the present rationing program, he added.

No Nylons Yet!

The home-front report said that in view of military demand in the Pacific, gasoline rationing must be continued for "some time," altho it estimated that civilian supplies will increase 100,000 or 200,000 barrels daily, or 8 to 16 per cent. Vinson said any additional gasoline will be divided among "A" and commercial ration holders and perhaps among some "B" ration motorists, but added that any increase in civilian gasoline may be temporary.

Production of low cost clothing is expected to be expanded to meet at least minimum demands, the report continued. Textiles needed for military purposes, nylon and silk stockings and "luxury" fabrics will remain scarce until after Japan is defeated, Vinson said. Shoe rationing must continue because of the leather shortage, he said, but civilian demand will be filled by the manufacture of nonrationed footwear made with fabric and leather substitute soles.

Discussing jobs, Vinson said that the "vast majority" of the nation's 52 million civilian workers are in work which will continue during the next six months regardless of decreases in war production. He said that during the next six months about 1½ million workers probably will lose their war jobs, and in the following six month another 3 million may be out of war work.

Reconversion, industrial expansion, and the needs of many basic industries for workers, however, should provide jobs for most of those who will lose them thru "cut backs" in munitions production, Vinson said.

Soviet 'Atrocities' on Poles Denounced in House Speech

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—Russia's arrest of 16 members of the Polish underground army was denounced in the house today as Rep. O'Konski [R., Wis.] charged Red atrocities in Poland are "worse" than those committed by the beaten Nazis.

Declaring Russia has made a farce of the Atlantic Charter and the four freedoms, O'Konski said this nation's suffering of 800,000 casualties to win the war in Europe was "in vain."

"We hear a lot about German atrocities," the congressman said. "But bad as they were, the atrocities of today under Red fascism in Europe are worse. That seems to have been the chief accomplishment of the war in Europe.

Blot to Decency

"The 16 Polish patriots who were lured to Russia and arrested is a blot to all decency. They are probably executed by now. But this is mild, compared with other atrocities inflicted on the Poles.

"Red army men are stripping the country of all its stores of food and live stock. The stores in most cities are closed. The Polish people are starving. A state of planned terror prevails. The underground army is being systematically destroyed by wholesale arrests, deportations, and executions.

Outdo Nazis on Arrests

"The soviets have arrested more Poles during a few months than the Nazis did during five years of occupation."

O'Konski said he based his assertions on "reports from former leaders of the Polish underground which have reached the state department."

Meanwhile, Rep. Sadowski [D., Mich.] told the house Moscow's arrest of the 16 Polish leaders was an act of "lawlessness" that has made enemies for Russia thruout the world. He said the only apparent Russian complaint against the 16 was that they were not Communists.

Polish Groups Protest

New York, May 9 (AP)—The arrest of 16 Polish underground leaders by the soviet government was called "but a symbol of the general method of red terror in Poland" in a telegram sent to President Truman by the coördinating committee of American Polish associations in the east, it was announced tonight. The committee claimed to represent 117 councils, parishes, parish societies, and local branches of fraternal organizations of Americans of Polish descent in eight eastern states.

Britain Seeks Facts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 9—The British charge d'affaires in Moscow has been instructed to renew inquiries of the soviet government on the fate of ex-Premier Wincenty Witos and of other Polish leaders following their visit to Gen. Ivanov for discussions on the future of Poland, it was disclosed in the house of commons today by Minister of State Richard Law. When asked if he had any reason to believe that any of the Polish leaders were still alive, Law replied: "I regret very much we have no further information than that with which the house already is familiar."

CHICAGO NIGHT CLUBS SALUTE END OF CURFEW

Chicago's taverns and night clubs and those restaurants affected by the midnight curfew hastily rearranged their schedules yesterday to take advantage of the lifting of the curfew, announced earlier in the day in Washington, D. C.

Owners were busy all day getting in touch with bartenders, musicians, and entertainers. Most of the spots operated on their old schedules last night, many giving three floor shows instead of the two that had been the rule under the curfew.

At the same time there was a rush to the office of Mathias Bauler, city collector, by former holders of late hour licenses, permitting them to remain open until 4 a. m. week days and 5 a. m. Saturdays. The second license period began May 1, but none of the late hour licenses was sold under the curfew.

Bauler said he issued 30 such licenses thru the day, 15 of them in an hour and a half in the afternoon. The cost of the late hour licenses is $385 for six months in addition to the basic $440 license fee.

James D. Crowley, president of the Chicago Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers union, local 278, said the lifting of the curfew probably would furnish employment for some 400 bartenders.

N. Y. GAY AGAIN; EVEN ARMY, NAVY LIFT CURFEW

New York, May 9 (AP)—It was like old times along Broadway and the swing streets tonight as the lights came on and the curfew went off.

Some entertainers, left jobless by the midnight closing order, were back at work; so were more bartenders, waiters, and others as the nighthawks flocked into the clubs.

For a time it looked as tho the GI's were going to be out of luck, for the second service command said all soldiers would have to leave places of fun by midnight unless it received official word from Washington of the lifting of the curfew. The word came in time. Navy officials said the bars were down—or, rather, open—to their personnel.

Mayor La Guardia gave his blessing to the order rescinding the curfew but said the removal of the ban on horse racing "just adds to our troubles."

U-BOATS SINK 2 MORE SHIPS OFF EAST COAST

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Submarines sank at least two ships off the Atlantic coast in the closing weeks of the war, it became known yesterday. A third vessel was lost April 23 off Cape Elizabeth, Me., after a mysterious explosion, and a fourth was towed into port April 5 after being damaged in an underwater blast.

Report Submarine Sunk

The disasters added 62 victims to the roll of dead and missing merchant seamen.

Twelve crew members were missing after a U-boat attack Saturday night that sank the 5,353 ton American coal freighter Black Point off Point Judith, R. I.

An official of the Sprague Steamship company, owners of the ship, said one attacking submarine was sunk in subsequent naval action.

One life was lost April 18 when a U-boat sank the merchant marine tanker Swiftscout 150 miles off the coast of Maryland.

Towed to Port by Navy

A navy court of inquiry was investigating the loss of the third vessel, the navy patrol ship PE-56, which was shattered by an explosion off Cape Elizabeth. Forty-nine crew members were missing and 13 were rescued. Loss of the ship was announced Tuesday night. Survivors said the blast occurred during a lull in target practice maneuvers. Among the missing were Ensign Roy F. Swan, mother, Mrs. Frances Swan, Oakville, Ia.; Harold Samuel Glenn, machinist's mate first class, wife, Mrs. Esta Glenn, San Diego, Cal., parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Glenn, Marissa, Ill., and Norris Wilbur Jones, fireman first class, father, James W. Jones, Radisson, Wis.

No casualties were listed, however, aboard the fourth vessel, the Atlantic Refining company tanker Atlantic States, which made port in tow of a naval patrol boat despite an "underwater explosion."

The blast, which the navy said could have been a last minute evidence that some of the once powerful U-boat fleet still lurked off the coast, occurred off Provincetown.

YANKS STOPPED BY STALIN, SAYS WAR REPORTER

British Allowed to Free Dutch, Norse, Danes

BY HENRY WALES

Historically, the war against Germany ended Tuesday. Actually, from a military standpoint America's participation in the European conflict terminated April 12, exactly 28 days ago.

A dictate from Moscow halted American activities in Germany on the Elbe on the day that President Roosevelt died. The order was issued from the Kremlin in conformity with a decision taken by Marshal Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference in February.

For the first time in history a victorious, advancing army was halted dead in its tracks for purely political considerations.

Ends in Reverse

Unfortunately for the United States military tradition, our part in Europe's World War II. ended with a reverse—the loss of the bridgehead over the Elbe by the 2d armored division of the 19th corps of the 9th army.

The bridgehead established opposite Schoenebeck on April 12 was abandoned on April 14 and the two battalions isolated on the east bank of the river were left to their fate when German SS units and elements of the 116th Panzer division counter-attacked without cessation.

The bridgehead was lost because American aviation was unable to provide cover for the cutoff battalions and to silence the dual-purpose German flak guns. Our planes were based at flying fields as far as 400 miles to the rear.

Only Principal Armies Stopped

Only the principal fighting armies of the United States expeditionary force were affected by the Russian ukase to halt their advance—Gen. Simpson's crack spearhead organization, the 9th; Gen. Hodge's solid 1st army, and elements of Gen. Patton's thundering 3d.

Stalin's command to halt was not directed at the British army immediately to the north of the American forces, fighting for Bremen and Hamburg, and the Russians specifically permitted Field Marshal Montgomery's troops to pass east of the Elbe in the movement to reach the Baltic and cut off German elements in Holland, Denmark, and Norway.

The last blow wins a prize fight and the last battle wins a war. But for devious diplomatic reasons the mass of the American army was neatly sidetracked by its allies during the final 26 days of the campaign against Nazi Germany, leaving the glory of final victory to the Russians with the capture of Berlin and the death of Hitler; to the British for liberation of The Hague, Copenhagen, and Oslo.

True, certain elements of Patton's army were summoned by the Kremlin when the Russian advance thru Czechoslovakia and from Vienna was slowed down.

Rewards for Victors

Far more than pride and prestige is implicit in the unexplained arrest of American troops on the Elbe, the last river barrier protecting Berlin, nearly four weeks ago. The weight of its consideration will be felt immediately at the San Francisco conference and later at the peace parley.

The nation that can claim a preponderant part in smashing the enemy can demand a predominant voice in deciding the fate of the vanquished. The nation that freed three countries from the Nazis can count on support of the governments of those three states in its negotiations at the conference table.

Since 1939 the United States has endured privations and restrictions, and rationing and curtailments to forge the greatest military machine ever assembled. She has provided military equipment for her own mammoth, superb armies, and military equipment and supplies for her allies in China, Russia, and Great Britain.

"A Natural Corollary"

Because Marshal Foch accepted Germany's surrender in World War I, while the kaiser's army was still fighting on French and Belgian soil, before even one acre of the fatherland had been invaded, "experts" and propagandists have insisted that World War II. was a natural corollary of the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918.

They have contended that the allied armies should have fought across Germany and hacked a path down the Unter den Linden in Berlin to prove to the Germans that they were defeated militarily and by force of arms. American spokesmen insisted that this time, in World War II, the United States army would not lay down its arms until it reached the Wilhelmstrasse to convince the German people that once America became involved in a struggle she would never relent until she had crushed its enemy.

When the Red army broke thru the eastern front and rolled across Poland and to the Oder river, 40 miles from Berlin by last Jan. 25, the American army, still west of the Roer river, and only a few miles deep into the fatherland made preparations to participate in any Russian onslaught on the German capital.

Since it seemed impossible for the American army to fight its way forward more than 350 miles, crossing the Roer, the Rhine, the Weser, and the Elbe, before the Russians crossed the streamless corridor separating them from Berlin, a plan was set up whereby a parachute drop and an airborne contingent of American troops, set down in Potsdam and Charlottenburg, would synchronize with the Red army penetration into the eastern outskirts of the city.

How Government Felt

That betrays how strongly the United States government felt about taking part in the capture of Berlin. When Gen. Simpson's 9th army leaped successively from the Roer to the Rhine and from the Rhine to the Weser, as the Russians remained halted on the Oder, it seemed as though an allied accord for a concentric attack on Berlin had been achieved.

The first hint of trouble came when the 9th reached Minden and Hamelin on the Weser. The last rubber float had been emplaced and the first tanks and guns had hardly began to rumble over the pontoons, when a mysterious "stop order" was flashed to corps and divisional headquarters.

The army was to stand on the Weser and not continue its drive on Berlin. But in a matter of hours, the green light flashed on.

Somebody, apparently, had rescinded the arresting order, and the dash toward Berlin went on. No bones were made about the objective. The 2nd armored division, under Gen. White, was selected to deliver the coup de grace to Nazism by breaking thru the Brandenburg gates. The 5th armored division of Gen. Gillam's crack 13th corps, and Gen. Bolling's 84th division of the same outfit, as well as the 30th, the 35th and the 83d infantry divisions, all were scheduled to roll into the reich capital just behind the 2d armored.

Few Casualties

Casualties were negligible, chiefly from accidents, as the spearheads thrust 20, 25, 28 miles a day eastward. Weakly defended road blocks, occasional burp guns, a few deflected flak batteries were the only resistance, speedily blasted by our tanks and self propelled guns, as Piper Cubs hovering low spotted them and radioed their location.

The 9th army reached the Elbe April 12 and the 2d armored crossed in the morning of the afternoon on which President Roosevelt died. The next day the red light flashed, and the army halted. It has remained halted ever since.

Halted that is until yesterday, when it began to retreat. Because by the terms of the Yalta agreement, the American zone of occupation is farther south.

Already the 83d division is handing over its Barby bridgehead to the Russians. Tomorrow the retirement will begin, back across the Weser to a line generally west of the parallel in which Hannover lies.

In Strong Position

"Possession is nine points of the law" and Russia will be in possession of Germany by being the occupying power of Berlin and two-thirds of the reich's territory. If the soviet government is unable to ram all its demands into the treaty of peace with Germany, it will be in position to ignore any alternate condition agreed upon by the United States, with or without Britain's support, and apply its own claims.

Since the great controversial point, apart from territorial matters, will be Russia's demand for German man power to rebuild the soviet union, the Kremlin's position will enable it to override any American or English objection to this "slave labor," by simply deporting the thousands or millions of reich artisans which it requires.

Sailors Seize Beer in Halifax

GUARD HALIFAX IN FEAR OF NEW VICTORY RIOTING

HALIFAX, N. S., May 9 (AP)—Halifax was under heavy military and civilian police guard tonight as authorities expressed apprehension of a new outbreak of victory riots that cost two lives and damage unofficially estimated at more than $5,000,000.

The military command reported to defense headquarters that it fears a renewal of the disturbances because vast quantities of liquor, looted from smashed stores Monday night and Tuesday, were still in the hands of the lawless elements.

Service police patrols were increased, armored civilian police were called out, and 1,000 picked troops were brought into the city. The 8 p. m. curfew imposed last night remained in force. Several thousand naval personnel, accused of starting the rioting and looting, were confined to their barracks, as were army and air force personnel.

VIEW TRUMAN'S TALK AS EASING JAP PEACE ROAD

Senators See a Hint of Feelers

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—President Truman's statement on unconditional surrender for Japan was widely viewed in congress today as easing the way for the Japanese to end their futile struggle. Some legislators interpreted it too as lending credence to rumors of peace overtures from Tokyo.

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] said he regarded it as "confirmation of peace feeler reports. "But you can expect peace overtures at all times in war. They are a part of psychological warfare," he said.

Distinct Possibility

Similarly, Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] said he would "not be surprised" if there have been peace feelers.

Acting Secretary of State Grew said that he did not know of any peace feelers.

The President's statement issued along with his V-E proclamation yesterday reiterated this country's insistence on unconditional surrender by the Japanese military and naval forces. But Mr. Truman when asked what unconditional surrender means for the Japanese people supplied this answer:

"It means the end of the war.

"It means the termination of the influence of the military leaders who have brought Japan to the present brink of disaster.

Return to Jobs

"It means provision for the return of soldiers and sailors to their families, their farms, their jobs.

"It means not prolonging the present agony and suffering of the Japanese in the vain hope of victory.

"Unconditional surrender does not mean the extermination or enslavement of the Japanese people."

Sen. Taft [R., O.] called this a "tremendously important addition to the unconditional surrender formula."

NEW ZEALAND MAY PUT MORE MEN IN JAP WAR

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 9—New Zealand's campaign in the Pacific, virtually an air war at present, may be enlarged by the addition of veterans who fought in the middle east when the British empire mobilizes its land power against Japan. These troops number more than one division.

The dominion's Pacific air formations have reached a substantial figure, but the exact total is a security secret. Expansion of the air force has been continuous since the New Zealand 3d division, which helped spearhead the attack up the Soloman Islands chain toward Rabaul, returned home.

The troops were returned to relieve a man power shortage that threatened to cut supplies to the Pacific war theater. Officials said the shortage resulted in part from the large number of services being performed for United States forces.

2 FILIPINO BOYS SOLVE PROBLEM; WOUND 2 JAPS

BY DONALD STARR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH 158TH REGIMENTAL COMBAT TEAM, Southern Luzon, May 9—Two under 'teen age Filipino boys solved a problem for American forces summoned to a village where Japs were reported to have returned to steal ammunition from a supply dump they had lost.

When the Americans arrived they found two Japs severely wounded.

The Japs had terrorized the villagers, who were too frightened to move. The youngsters, however, slipped up behind the Japs, pulled the pins on grenades and tossed them at the Japs. The boys also had tapped the former Jap supply dump.

YANKS INVADE SAMAL ISLAND IN DAVAO GULF

MANILA, May 10 [Thursday] (AP)—Elements of Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th infantry division swept across Davao gulf in an amphibious operation Tuesday and landed on Samal island, just off the Mindanao Island port of Davao.

The landing was made to protect the flank during the drive up the western coast of Davao gulf. The landing was unopposed and few, if any, Japanese, were believed on the island, which is 22 miles long and 10 miles wide.

Bridge Mindanao River

In announcing this action today, Gen. MacArthur also said that on Mindanao mainland a bridgehead had been established across the Talomo river north of Mintal in a drive against firm enemy positions.

Thus the Americans opened a battle to liquidate the Japanese force penned in a triangular area west of Davao city and reach a Yank battalion apparently still virtually isolated in this sector. Field dispatches reported yesterday that a Japanese counter-attack penetrated the American lines and almost ringed the battalion near Mintal. Some reinforcements were reaching the Yanks over a little used trail.

Inland on Mindanao, one column of the 31st division advanced seven miles eastward from Kibawe while another, progressing northward, engaged an enemy force near the southern Maramag airstrip.

Tarakan Invasion Nearly Complete

The invasion of Tarakan Island, off Borneo, neared completion as Australian and Dutch troops seized Api hill and closed in on the Djoeata oil field.

Tarakan City, in the middle of the rich Pamoesian oil field, was totally in allied hands. Derricks had been destroyed but the wells appeared salvageable.

Bombers and fighters hit Judat air drome and installations at Brunei bay, Miri, and Bandjermason on the Borneo mainland. Three coastal ships were sunk.

Sink Jap Destroyer

A Japanese destroyer, a subchaser, and two freighters were sunk as heavy bombers ranged from Sumatra to Shanghai and into the North China sea.

In the northern Luzon ground fighting, four infantry divisions carried on mopping-up operations in the Benguet and Caraballo mountains.

Fighting was fierce around the Balete pass, gateway to the Cagayan valley. The 25th and 37th divisions advanced in an encircling move on the flanks while the 32d moved 700 yards along the near-by Villa Verde trail. In two days 55 Japanese cave defenses were sealed up.

East of Maniala, the 43d division launched a drive to capture Ipo dam, source of at least one third of the capital's water supply.

JAPS SAY FALL OF NAZIS WON'T CHANGE PLANS

San Francisco, Cal., May 9 (AP)—Japan announced in a broadcast today that Germany's surrender would not bring the "slightest change" to the nation's war objective and simultaneously the government was urged by one newspaper to seek imperial authority to transform the country into "one big war camp and all the population of 100,000,000 into an armed force."

"Japan . . . indeed is faced with a critical situation, unprecedented since its founding," said Iichiro [Sohol] Tokutomi in the Osaka Mainichi, and "is now fighting against the most powerful of world powers."

The cabinet statement expressed regret at Germany's surrender, said the change in the European war situation would not alter Japan's objective and concluded:

"Together with our allied nations in GEA [Greater East Asia], the imperial government of Japan will devote her total effort toward the complete destruction of the unjust ambition of the United States and Britain, which are attempting to trample down the GEA on behalf of their own principles and exploitations, and thereby it expects to firmly maintain the security of the GEA."

WHEELER ASKS WHY PARLEY HAS SPURNED KOREA

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 9—The state department secretariat tonight admitted it had received a telegram from Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], to Secretary Stettinius demanding an explanation of the American delegation's refusal to give consideration to Korea's plea for admission to the conference of nations.

Sen. Wheeler's wire is under consideration, but a reply has not yet been drafted, a spokesman said.

Fulfilled Conditions

"Why cannot a plea of Korea government for admission to united nations and representation at San Francisco conference be given official consideration now?" Sen. Wheeler asked Stettinius in the telegram from Washington.

"Information I have would indicate Korea has fulfilled fundamental conditions entitling her to membership. To deny a nation of 25 millions even the right to aspire for membership via vote on resolution would seem to be rank discrimination especialy since admissions of other nations after March 1. . . . I believe matter should at least be put to vote and thereby observe democratic processes. Can't this be done?"

Report Yalta Deal

Wheeler's reference to "other nations" was presumably to the admission of Argentina, White Russia, and the Ukraine. The provisional government of Korea, which declared war against Japan on Dec. 10, 1941, applied for admission to the conference early this year, but was given evasive replies by the state department.

Secret agreements at Yalta made by the late President Roosevelt with Dictator Stalin have been authoritatively reported to be the basis for the state department's refusal to act on Korea. Mr. Roosevelt was said to have promised that no recognition would be extended Korea until after the defeat of Japan. The soviets desire to absorb Korea in a far east expansion program, according to the same sources.

Big Hawk Finds It's No Match for 2 Small Boys

Minneapolis, Minn., May 9 (AP)—Two small boys bested a huge hawk here today in a hand-to-talon battle. The fight started when the hawk attacked Richard Dallin, 5. Richard's brother, Gerald, 6, grasped the bird by the wings, but suffered a two inch gash in his wrist. Undaunted, Gerald dragged it to the ground and sat on it while his sister ran for their father, who killed the bird with an ax.

FEAR OF SENATE CHECKS FRISCO ONE WORLDERS

U. S. Aids Halt 'Sellout' of Monroe Doctrine

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 9—Nineteen South and Central American republics, plus the United States senate, today halted the attempt in the San Francisco conference to sell the Monroe Doctrine down the river.

Concurrently, the political and security functions committee of the international conference to abolish war approved the watered-down Vandenberg amendment empowering the general assembly of the proposed new league of nations to recommend measures "for peaceful adjustment of any situations" likely to impair "the welfare or friendly relations of nations."

To Correct Injustices

This is the amendment which Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] a member of the American delegation, said would permit revision of "prior international decisions" involving injustices like the partition of Poland by Russia, Britain, and the United States at Yalta. It is the same amendment which Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov agreed to, as modified, because it would exclude any interference with Russia's annexation of nearly one-half of Poland.

This difference in interpretation will figure prominently in senate consideration of the peace league, as will treatment of the Monroe Doctrine issue.

The overwhelmingly internationalist United States delegation had agreed to the Dumbarton Oaks plan whereby the United States and other American republics could not act to enforce the Monroe Doctrine against an aggression in this hemisphere without first getting the permission of the new world peace league that is being constructed here.

Warned of Senate's Wrath

The Latin American delegations furnished the agitation against this giveaway of American rights and interests while from senate leaders came the warning that such sacrifice of the cardinal American foreign policy for more than a century would prevent ratification of the peace league charter.

The effect was electrical. The American internationalists backed down and agreed to the exemption of the Monroe Doctrine, tho perhaps not permanently, from the Dumbarton Oaks restriction on action under the Monroe Doctrine and other regional arrangements to repel aggression.

A subcommittee of the international conference to abolish war immediately undertook efforts to reconcile the regional enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine with Dumbarton Oaks.

Three Plans Studied

The following three compromise proposals are under consideration:

1. Provision whereby no one of the Big Five powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, and France—could veto permission to the American republics to deal with an aggression in this hemisphere.

2. Provision expressly exempting the Pan-American system from the Dumbarton Oaks restriction.

3. Provision expressly authorizing the American republics to enforce the Monroe Doctrine without obtaining the peace league's permission.

Vandenberg Is Mediator

It was disclosed that the United States delegation is split between those members whose primary devotion is to the American system under the Monroe Doctrine for preserving peace and those whose primary devotion is to a world peace system. Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] is the United States member of the subcommittee that will try to reconcile the two systems in a manner acceptable to the senate.

Vandenberg was asked at an earlier press conference if he cared to comment on a prediction by Gerald L. K. Smith of Michigan at a previous press conference today that Vandenberg and Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] would kill the peace league in the senate.

Hopes He Can Back It

"I am very much interested in commenting on that for that is one of those regional arrangements," said Vandenberg amid laughter aroused by the reference to Smith and his America First party, which will be active in the election next year in Michigan in which the senator will be a candidate for reëlection. [The America First party has no relation to the pre-war America First patriotic organization.]

"I would say," Vandenberg went on, "that I am reserving my judgment on this charter until it is concluded. I am wholeheartedly in favor of its objective. I think the successful conclusion of our efforts here is utterly indispensable to civilization and the world, and I hope the ultimate result will permit me to play my full part, not only in supporting the net result on the floor of the senate but in assisting in the creation of the necessary two-thirds vote to ratify it."

In a radio speech delivered tonight, Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], member of the American delegation said:

"The American delegation is exerting every effort to reach agreement on a world organization which will meet with senate approval. The problem rises above the political fortunes of any individual."

Aussies Fight Veto Power

The Australians also are up in arms against the Dumbarton Oaks provision that would interfere with any regional action by them to repel aggression without express permission of the league. Australian External Affairs Minister Evatt, who is a member of the reconciling subcommittee, wants to knock out the power of a big power to veto authority for regional enforcement. He would also have regional nations authorized to act against an aggression if the league council should fail to act.

Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, who had won from the Big Four, including the American, British, and Chinese delegations, an exception to the same Dumbarton Oaks restriction for the Franco-Russian and other defense treaties aimed at aggression in Europe, took a plane for Moscow this morning extremely satisfied with his accomplishments here. He left A. A. Gromyko, soviet ambassador to the United States to head the Russian delegation.

Kerr, Harriman to Return

Also returning to Moscow are the British and American ambassadors to Russia, Archibald Clark Kerr and W. Averell Harriman, to attempt to continue with Molotov the negotiations for settlement of the Polish problem and to get an explanation of the Red's arrest of the 16 Polish Democrats who had been invited to join the negotiations.

Molotov boarded a plane at 10:30 a. m., accompanied by Lt. Gen. Sreten Zujovich, No. 2 man in the Yugoslav delegation, his interpreter, V. Pavlov, and his secretarial staff and bodyguard.

With the conference settling down to the stage of committee work on the decisions made by the Big Four during Molotov's stay here, many other top drawer delegates also are going home.

Eden Also May Depart

Among them today were Gen. Alphonse Juin, chief of staff of the French national defense, and Rene Pleven, French minister of finance and national economy. British Foreign Secretary Eden also is to depart unless the work of the conference can be speeded up.

According to apologists for the American delegation, it fell into the same trap constructed by the internationalists at the Dumbarton Oaks conference on the regional security question. In that meeting Secretary of State Stettinius, acting for the United States, agreed to the subordination of the Monroe Doctrine to the world peace organization.

In the Dumbarton Oaks plan the Monroe Doctrine comes under the head of "regional arrangements."

"The security council," the Dumbarton Oaks plan provides, "should, where appropriate, utilize such arrangements or agencies for enforcement action under its authority. But no enforcement action should be taken under regional arrangements or by regional agencies without the authorization of the security council."

The Mexico City Pact

At the inter-American conference at Mexico City a few months ago the enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine was made the responsibility not of the United States alone, but of all the American republics. The 20 American republics represented there declared that they would enforce peace in this hemisphere and protect it from any aggression by a non-American nation.

That alarmed the internationalists who had framed Dumbarton Oaks, with its limitation on enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine. Sen. Austin [R., Vt.], leading internationalist who was one of the United States delegates, succeeded in getting this proviso incorporated in the Act of Chapultepec:

"The above declaration and recommendation constitute a regional arrangement for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action in this hemisphere. The said arrangement, and the pertinent activities and procedures, shall be consistent with the purposes and principles of the general international organization, when established."

Latin Americans Fume

That was supposed to put the Monroe Doctrine right back in the leading strings devised at Dumbarton Oaks, and the American delegation accepted this viewpoint.

The United States delegates did not yield until the French and Molotov got here and loosed a loud complaint that Dumbarton Oaks subordinated their defense pact to the league. That, they said, was a great injustice, if not an outrage. Just think of it, they argued, if Germany should revive sufficiently to commit another aggression on adjoining countries, Russia and France would be powerless to act against Germany without getting the permission of the security council. Valuable time would be lost before the council could act and the Germans would be half way across Poland before the Red army would have permission to fire a shot.

The American delegates were impressed by that representation or rather perhaps by a delicate intimation that if the Franco-Russian, the Russo-Polish, and Russo-Czechoslovakian defense pacts were not exempted from the Dumbarton Oaks limitation Russia and France would lose interest in joining the league.

Fix Things—for Russia!

So, the American delegation proposed a proviso under which regional action could not be taken without permission of the security council except action "against renewal of aggressive policy on the part" of Germany, Italy, or Japan "until such time as the organization may, by consent of the governments concerned, be charged with the responsibility for preventing further aggression by a state now at war with the United nations."

Molotov said that was O. K., and the Big Four agreed to sponsor the amendment. That still left the Monroe Doctrine outside the pale, where United States delegates intended to leave it till the heat was put on them by the senators visiting the conference and by the Latin Americans.

She's Homesick

TARHATA KIRAN

JOLO, P. I., May 9 (AP)—Tarhata Kiran, the princess of Sulu whose beauty caused a stir when she attended the University of Illinois a quarter century ago, is homesick—for Chicago.

Tarhata and her brother-in-law, the Sultan, met 41st division soldiers when units hit Jolo.

"It was such a mess, life under the Japs," she said. "I want to go back to Michigan boulevard."

The Nips, she said, burned their castle, stole their jewels and money, and killed many followers.

Doughboys found the sarong-clad Tarhata at 42 still attractive.

After studying at Champaign, Ill., she moved to Chicago as a transfer student. Once her education was complete she returned to Jolo.

G. I. Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

AT A TRANS-PACIFIC WAY STATION, May 4 [Delayed]—Lt. Eleanor Hoppock, Kewanee, Ill., a nurse who accompanies injured men being flown home across the Pacific, is apologetic about her flights for the past 16 months. In that time, she explains, she has traveled only 160,000 miles.

"Some of our girls have gone twice that," she says, fluffing the curly brown hair which she wears in a ring, like a fallen halo.

Much of her time was spent in New Guinea where the flights to the hospital were for only two or three hundred miles.

Lt. Hoppock, who thinks that people gush too much over flight nurses, will never forget the plane load of men who had been released from Jap prison camps. They had been captured on Bataan.

"You never saw such happy kids," she says. "Even the bully beef sandwiches we had aboard the plane were wonderful."

There Also was a Marine

There also was the marine coming home from Iwo. He was a first aid man. As soon as he got aboard he gave Nurse Hoppock detailed instructions on what each of the patients needed. During the flight a bandage came loose on a buddy who had lost part of his jaw. The marine aidman insisted that he be allowed to replace it. He did an expert job.

What's unusual about a marine medic mothering his buddies? This marine was a patient himself. He had lost part of one hand and one eye had been shot out.

Altho all who have seen flight nurses give transfusions and generally act as a one nurse hospital swear that they are wonderful people, Nurse Hoppock says it's "just routine." She likes flying to strange places, but she would rather be "just a housewife."

There's This Case, Too

On one of her memorable trips one of her pasengers had a bandage wrapped around his head. When Nurse Hoppock started to tie him into his stretcher he protested that he was not a patient. When she wanted to look after his bandage he said that he wasn't a patient. When she wanted to take his temperature he said not to bother, that he definitely was not a patient. This was the way it went the whole trip. Shrapnel had hit him, but he was not a patient.

At last, back at the hospital, the passengers were put in ambulances and taken away. After the last ambulance had left, this bandaged individual was still around.

"Didn't you and your shrapnel get overlooked?" Nurse Hoppock asked him.

"O no, I told you I'm not a patient," he said. "I don't have time to go to the hospital."

Nurse Hoppock was upset. "If you're not a patient and you don't have time to go to the hospital and get that shrapnel taken care of, what are you, anyway?" she asked.

The passenger, bless him, answered, "I'm a war correspondent."

FIVE NEW TRIER PUPILS FINED FOR V-E VANDALISM

TITO AID FLYING HOME IN FRISCO RED SHOWDOWN

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 9—A showdown in the tangled affairs of the Yugoslav delegation at the international security conference here appeared near today with the sudden departure of Lt. Gen. Sreten Zujovic, pro-communist Yugoslav union leader. Gen. Zujovic left in Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov's plane, bound for Moscow and Belgrade, the only high conference official traveling with the Russian minister.

Leadership of the Yugoslav delegation, which has been torn asunder in a communist led fight to destroy all political opposition, fell automatically upon Stanoje Simic, Yugoslav ambassador to the United States, who arrived in San Francisco from Washington only last Saturday.

Communist Foe "Has Cold"

Dr. Ivan Subasic, Yugoslav minister of foreign affairs and the original chairman of the delegation, is in St. Luke's hospital here. Reached by telephone, Dr. Subasic reported only that he "has a cold." He has not made any public appearance here in the last seven days, since he gave out a public statement that he feared Marshal Tito, the Partisan-Communist leader of Yugoslavia, would purge members of the Croat-Peasant party, of which he is a leader.

This statement reportedly infuriated the pro-communist members of the delegation, led by Gen. Zujovic, who, in league with Molotov, are trying to primp up Yugoslavia as the shining light of the soviet puppet world, where people of all political beliefs allegedly are living peacefully under communist domination. Dr. Subasic upset that apple cart, embarrassed Molotov, and reportedly has been punished by being withdrawn from circulation.

Reported Held Under Guard

The cloak and dagger rumors which have been heard here all week have had Dr. Subasic [1] held prisoner by a tommy gun toting Yugoslav army officer, [2] confined in the Fairmont hotel under a physician's care, and [3] confined in a hospital.

The Yugoslav delegation press office persistently has denied all these rumors, stoutly maintaining that Dr. Subasic still is in active charge of the delegation. It also denied reports of strife within the delegation, said to have started when Dr. Subasic was asked by Roman Catholic clergy to bring before the conference the blood purges of priests and Catholic worshipers which have taken place under Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

Zujovic, according to one report, scotched the anti-communist opposition by deposing Dr. Subasic. He also consulted with Molotov, and when instructions from Belgrade were not forthcoming, decided to leave with the foreign commissar for a personal audience with Tito.

Guest Guilty of Larceny for Stealing $1,700 Ring

Albert Kennedy, 37, of the Morrison hotel, a paper salesman, was found guilty of petty larceny yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court. He was accused of stealing a $1,700 ring from Miss Florence Redding, 443 Wrightwood av., while attending a party May 6 at 1201 Chase av. The charge was reduced from grand larceny because the ring had been returned. An application for probation will be heard May 31.

KELLY ARRANGES 3 CONFERENCES ON HOME UNITY

Conferences on home front unity will be held in the city hall council chambers May 29, June 5, and June 12 under the auspices of Mayor Kelly's committee on race relations, the mayor said yesterday. About 100 organizations—national, racial, business, religious, labor, and welfare—have been invited to participate.

Theme of the first meeting will be, "Living Together"; of the second, "Forces that Divide Us"; of the third, "Goals for Democratic Living." Edwin R. Embree, chairman of the committee, will preside.

Sessions will be divided between set speeches and discussion.

POUST ASSUMES OFFICE AS STATE WELFARE HEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 9—Brig. Gen. Cassius Poust of Sycamore took office today as state director of public welfare a few hours after his nomination by Gov. Green had been confirmed on a 45 to 0 senate roll call. Poust replaces Rodney H. Brandon, who is retiring to his home in Batavia.

"I am leaving with a great feeling of relief and with a clear conscience," Brandon said in a parting statement. "The nine years I have served the state have been most interesting experiences of my life, and I leave with the hope that I have been able to contribute something to the welfare and happiness of the 50,000 inmates of the departmental institutions."

Brandon's renomination by Gov. Green recently was turned down by the senate.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

DAD CAN SEND GI A FACSIMILE OF BOND IN V-MAIL

Special Forms Available to All Purchasers

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Facsimiles of war bonds purchased for soldiers and sailors by members of Dad to GI Joe clubs, suitable for mailing overseas in V-mail form, will be available at all bond issuing agencies in Chicago and Cook county—all over the United States, in fact—beginning next Monday, May 14, when the 7th war loan drive opens.

This was announced yesterday by Andrew N. Rebori, chairman of the Dad to GI Joe clubs, which were suggested editorially by THE TRIBUNE and immediately indorsed and put into operation by loan officials.

No Limit on Purchases

Rebori said any one who wishes to fill in one of the blanks which pictures a war bond and contains space for writing in names, can get the blank forms from any issuing agent.

"Dad to GI Joe," said Rebori, "includes mother to GI Joe, uncle, aunt, relative, guardian, or friend to GI Joe—any one wishing to give a bond to any member of the army or navy anywhere that V-mail will reach them."

"The treasury has prepared a V-mail message form for use of all who wish to dedicate V-E day by a bond purchase for the benefit of a service man or woman overseas. The use of this blank is, of course, limited for messages to men and women overseas. But the amount of the bond purchases for members of the army and navy is not limited. Let's make this 'Mighty 7th' war loan a fitting tribute to the tremendous fighting ability of our sons and daughters.

Convey Heartfelt Messages

"Bonds purchased by their fathers, mothers, or other relatives for our fighting men and women will convey in the best possible terms to them that every one at home extends a hand of gratitude and affection to them and a heartfelt hope for their early and safe return home."

Dad to GI Joe clubs are springing up everywhere, officials said. One of the best features of the idea is that such bond purchases usually are frozen for the duration—or at least until the beneficiaries get home.

WORD AWAITED ON PRISONERS' FARM FUTURE

Whether prisoners of war will be available for farm work this summer is not known yet, Maj. Gen. Renyolds of 6th service command headquarters said yesterday.

Many German, Italian, and Jap prisoners are stationed in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Last year they helped in harvesting. Reynolds said. No change of instructions as to their disposition has been received and it is not known whether any change will come soon, he added.

The Geneva convention calls for the release of prisoners as soon as possible after the signing of peace. As a result, some of the prisoners may be sent home soon, but transportation difficulties, on the other hand, may keep them here for some time. If they still are here this summer they will be available for farm work, Reynolds pointed out.

MIGHTY AIRSHOW TO OPEN 'MIGHTY 7TH' WAR LOAN

Chicagoans will be given the opportunity to witness the "greatest air show ever given" Saturday, Sunday, and Monday at the airport as a prelude to the opening of the "Mighty Seventh" war loan campaign next Monday. This was promised yesterday by veterans of the army air and ground forces and the troop carrier command who have fought all over the world and now are members of the five air armadas which will take part.

The big show, which will be free, will open at noon Saturday and Monday and at 9 a. m. on Sunday. It will continue each day until 8 p. m. and each day there will be a simulated air borne attack on the city, the first between 12 and 1 on Saturday.

Lt. Robert Kvidera pointed out that the air armadas will be comprised of B-17s, B-24s, B-25s, P-38s, P-47s, and P-51s. More than 100 planes will participate in the daily shows.

TEACHER'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide yesterday on the death of Miss Margaret Noltner, 50, a former school teacher in Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Noltner plunged Monday from the 12th floor of the building at 451 Wrightwood av. where she was living.

URGES REVISION IN PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION ACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Hazleton, Pa., May 9—James A. Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight proposed creation of a special commission to study the entire problem of Presidential succession with a view to making necessary changes.

The man who returned the Democrats to power twelve years ago said the Presidential succession statutes notably lack an adequate provision to cover the problem which might arise if both the President elect and the Vice President elect died before inauguration day.

Speaking before the Hazleton chamber of commerce, Farley said the death of Roosevelt and the succession of President Truman had thrust before the country the grave problems involved in the general problems of such succession.

Laws Passed in 1886

He recalled that the present statutes relating to succession of the cabinet in order of the creation of the posts were passed as far back as 1886.

"Under our present method," he said, "a Vice President who succeeds to the Presidency is able to choose his own successor without reference to the electorate. In his case, a vacancy caused by his death, resignation or removal, is filled by the secretary of state whom he appoints, subject only to senate confirmation. This possible short circuiting of the electorate is a gap in our Democratic procedure that we have not yet solved."

Another, more serious, gap lies in the possibility of death of the President elect and Vice President elect before Jan. 20 of any inaugural year, Farley said.

Might Be Without President

"If the President elect and the Vice President elect both die before Jan 20," he said, "there is now no provision either in the constitution or in the federal statutes which would provide for a successor to the highest office in the land. Presumably the house elect, meeting on Jan. 3, could pass some kind of law of succession to meet the emergency, but here once more another real possibility arises.

"If the house elect should be closely divided in membership, so closely divided that a deadlock might result, then conceivably the date of Jan. 20 might arrive and pass while the house fought over the question of control. The appalling result would be that until such time as the deadlock was broken this country would be without a chief executive."

Decatur, Ill., May 9 (AP)—Cal Waggoner, 85, who says he has bet it would rain May 10 for the last 39 years and has won 31 times, has only one taker for tomorrow's performance. "I'm about out of business," said Waggoner, a former banker. "They're scared out." Last year there was only light rainfall in one section of the city, and four of his bettors refused to pay.

DISCLOSE STALIN URGED LATER V-E ANNOUNCEMENT

Berlin Ceremony Seen as Excuse for Delay

PARIS, May 9 (AP)—At the end of this war, in which Germany surrendered to the allies twice—once in Reims and again two days later at Berlin—it has been disclosed at supreme headquarters here that Soviet Premier Stalin sought at the last minute to have the victory announcement delayed.

The request came from Moscow at a time when Prime Minister Churchill already had arranged his victory broadcast. The time of the broadcast [8 a. m., Chicago war time, Tuesday] already had been announced, and there was no postponement.

The German signing of the second surrender is being treated here officially as "ratification" of the Reims surrender. As far as correspondents here could tell, however, the Russians regard the Berlin signing as the surrender.

Reds Signed at Reims.

Gen. Eisenhower had made it clear at Reims that he would accept nothing but unconditional and simultaneous surrender to the Russians and the western allies equally. He made the Germans go thru with it in the presence of and with the signatures of soviet military representatives. Moscow, however, did not announce the surrender until after the second signing at Berlin.

It seemed probable that if Stalin wanted the announcement delayed beyond Tuesday it was so the Berlin surrender could be reported simultaneously with the one at Reims.

So far as is known here, the Russians are completely satisfied with the Reims terms. In the instrument which was signed at Berlin the text of the Reims capitulation was followed except for the addition of slightly more detail on the surrender of military and technical equipment without damage.

Reds Stopped Allied Stories

The whole question of coördination between the Russian and western allied commands in the final phase of crushing the reich has been of high interest to correspondents here. Censorship has prevented much that might have been written about it. Such censorship now would be purely of a post-war political nature.

However, there never has been any indication here of disagreement between Eisenhower and the Russian command on the job of smashing the German armed force. But the coördination between the two commands, up to the last minute, when they had exchanged military liaison representatives, was clearly limited to essentials.

Probably the nearest approach to a dove-tailed strategy known here came after the Germans' Ardennes break-thru had been beaten back and Eisenhower was gathering power for the blow to smash the Roer river line and wipe out the Germans west of the Rhine. There were weeks of tension then, admitted frankly at this headquarters.

Struck Ahead of Thaws

Spring thaws were approaching rapidly on the Polish plain. If the Red army had not struck before the thaws, the Germans might have been able to risk large scale troop transfers to hold on in the west.

Russia not only promised to strike in time, and did strike in time, to prevent any such troop shifting, but correspondents here were told at the time, off the record, that Stalin had advanced the scheduled time of his eastern front offensive at a special request from Eisenhower's headquarters.

There is no longer any military security in the fact that the American race across Germany was stopped along the Elbe river and at the borders of Czechoslovakia, not by the Germans, but by the pre-arranged zones of what the Red army was to occupy.

The United States 9th army, which wedged its way across the Elbe, was called off, altho it was convinced that it could have taken Berlin without great loss. Berlin was pre-assigned as a Russian victory.

The 9th army forces reached the finish line ahead of time. They were stopped there, and on the 1st and 3d army fronts east of Leipzig, so that the Russians could come up and break the tape. That is why Gen. Patton's 3d army was stopped at Pilsen when the road to Prague was clear. Prague was in the Russian zone.

We have interesting neighbors. My wife wants to see if she can peek thru those curtains.

SERBIAN OPPONENTS OF TITO SAY THEY'LL CONTINUE TO FIGHT

KITZBUHEL, Austria, May 9 (AP)—Field Marshal Milan Nedic, former pro-axis premier of Serbia, declared today he and hi forces would continue to wage war against Marshal Tito and "fight any victory for Stalin in our country." It was suggested to him that he may have no troops left, and that realism might dictate that Balkan politics bow to the welfare of Europe.

The former premier asserted, "We fought with [Gen. Draja] Mihailovitch against Tito and against the Communists and against Stalin. We have been here seven months, coming out of Bosnia when the pressure of the Russian and other armies forced us west."

He and his brother, Col. Gen. Milutin Nedic, former Yogoslav minister of war, were in a hotel room here when the premier made his statement, in which his brother concurred. Their status is being determined, along with that of 33 others found in this health resort.

BOMBED LONDON DISTRICT HAILS ROYAL FAMILY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 9—Britain's royal family today received its greatest welcome when it toured the bombed east end area.

Crowds lined the streets in the working class districts as the car carrying the king, queen, and two princesses passed slowly by. Happy celebrants of V-E day plus one cheered, waved, and beat on the windows of the auto with red, white, and blue emblems and threw red, white, and blue streamers across it.

The royal party visited several scenes of V-bomb disasters, including one at Bethnal Green where a bomb destroyed three blocks of flats and killed more than 130 persons. The king and queen inquired about housing conditions in the blitzed area and expressed the hope that new homes would be built as speedily as possible.

The Mountain that became a Gold Mine!

...and the company that helped build 11,000,000 war-time tires

This pile of discarded automobile tires (the picture was taken in 1936) is as non-existent today as the Big Rock Candy Mountains—where the cigarettes grew on trees and the springs gushed pure lemonade.

Maybe you remember driving past those junk yards where the homeless jalopies used to rust in the rain, and the pile of tires grew mountain-high.

And then, one day in December, 1941, that mountain became a gold mine!

In a few terrible moments, America's access to the raw rubber of the Indies was cut completely.

Throughout America, junk yards, garages, and back yards were scoured for every scrap of precious rubber that could be found. We were on a spot—a bad one.

The fact that we got off the spot is due, to a great extent, to companies such as Phillips. For it was Phillips chemical research ability and Phillips production facilities that produced an important share of the vital butadiene which is so essential to the manufacture of synthetic rubber!

Today, we think we have a well-earned right to stick out our chests—because the Phillips Petroleum Company is one of the largest producers of butadiene in the United States!

With today's ever-increasing emphasis on the chemical production of new and better things from petroleum, let the Phillips 66 Shield remind you that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

Kennedy Denies Story Jeopardized Troops

PARIS, May 9 (AP)—Associated Press Correspondent Edward Kennedy disagreed strongly tonight with Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen Jr., director of the public relations division of supreme headquarters, on whether the jeopardizing of allied lives and possible prolongation of the war were involved in Kennedy's story on the German surrender at Reims Monday.

Allen, in an 800 word public statement dealing with Kennedy's Reims dispatch reporting the German surrender a day before its official announcement, asserted that "to save allied lives on both fronts" Gen. Eisenhower obtained authority from the Russians to negotiate for a German capitulation on the understanding that the greatest secrecy would be maintained "until the Russian high command could be satisfied thru later and more formal contact that the surrender was genuine on all fronts."

Allen stated that these considerations "clearly involved security and the saving of American lives," but that Eisenhower permitted a selected group of correspondents to witness the surrender signatures after they had been pledged to secrecy.

"No Question of Security"

Replying to this statement, Kennedy, who still is under suspension by supreme headquarters, said tonight:

"Gen. Allen and other responsible officers of SHAEF public relations made it clear to me at Reims that no question of military security was involved in release of this news.

"Allen told me, in fact, that Gen. Eisenhower was desirous of having the news published as soon as possible so that the fighting might halt and lives possibly be saved.

"Gen. Allen told me that Gen. Eisenhower's hands were tied by a decision coming from 'high political levels.'"

Kennedy said further that Allen's statement about the need of waiting "until the Russians were satisfied that the surrender was genuine" was astonishing in view of the fact that soviet Russia was a signatory of the Reims agreement.

News Called Legitimate

Allen's statement said that the story was "not one obtained by press representatives in the ordinary course of their activities with this theater," but "by the courtesy of SHAEF" and thru Allen's promise of secrecy.

Kennedy replied that "certainly Gen. Allen must know that the purpose of correspondents in this theater is to report news, and certainly as head of public relations he should realize that the signing of the end of the war was news and, since he himself conceded there was no question of military security involved, it was legitimate news."

As for the secrecy pledge, Kennedy declared, "It is true that Gen. Allen at one point during the visit to Reims [by 17 selected correspondents] said that the story would not be published until the respective heads of the allied government announced it.

"It is also true that at another point he said the announcement was expected to be made at SHAEF even before we could reach Paris. The plans were changed a number of times, and Gen. Allen made a great many conflicting statements concerning how the news would be released.

Announced By Germans

"After my return to Paris, the German government announced officially that it had surrendered, and I was informed that the BBC likewise had announced the capitulation.

"I thereupon went to Lt. Col. Richard Merrick, chief American press censor, and told him that since it was conceded that no military security was involved and that I regarded the suppression as purely political censorship, I therefore could not be bound by it. I intended to send the news.

"I based this statement on assurances given by the late President Roosevelt and other responsible American officials that the sole purpose of censorship was military security and that the surrender of Germany ended the need for military security in Europe except insofar as it might affect the war in the Pacific.

"I also telephoned to Gen. Allen to tell him of my intentions of passing this dispatch, but was told by his secretary that he was too busy to speak to me."

Dispatch Passed, Rescinded

Kennedy also disclosed that the censors had read his dispatch, marked it "passed," and signed it, but that later, when it was decided that the respective governments would make the first announcements, he was informed orally that the passing of the dispatch was rescinded.

Kennedy said they made it clear that this decision was not due to any matter of military security, but to the decision as to the channels thru which the news would be announced.

"I have enough confidence in the censors to believe that if any military security had been involved they would not have marked my dispatch 'passed' and affixed a signature to that statement," he said.

Feared Parley Breakdown

Allen's statement said that as a result of Kennedy's story on Monday Gen. Eisenhower had "feared that the entire chain of negotiations involving an agreed upon later meeting between German, Russian, and allied high commands might break down and therefore prolong the war."

Replying, Kennedy said that if this were true then it must be conceded that the Reims agreement was an empty gesture, altho signed by the Russians and agreed to by the Germans, and that the only signing which counted was the later Russian managed one in Berlin.

"The contention that negotiations might break down is not borne out by the supreme command's action," said Kennedy, "in that, hours before my story was sent out, Gen. Eisenhower officially notified all troops that the surrender was signed and the war was over effective at 12:01 a. m., May 9. This showed that he had no doubts that the Reims agreement officially ended the war."

Stalin Sought Delay

It was learned at supreme headquarters today that Premier Stalin had endeavored to have the official announcement of victory delayed beyond the time chosen by Washington and London—8 a. m., Chicago time Tuesday—but that there was no postponement because Prime Minister Churchill already had announced the time he would make his victory broadcast.

President Truman spoke at the same time, but Premier Stalin did not issue his own victory order until this morning, after signature of the second set of surrender documents in the ruins of Berlin.

"I have been reporting this war since its start," Kennedy said in conclusion, "and I have found that despite assurances given that the sole purpose of censorship was military security, in many instances censorship has gone beyond this point.

"I have always made it perfectly clear to Gen. Allen and to public relations officials generally, both here and in the Mediterranean theaters, that I took the guarantee that censorship was confined to military security very seriously and at its face value and would not voluntarily submit to political censorship, as this would mean the end of the free press and of all freedom in the world."

Other developments in the case were:

The SHAEF suspension of Kennedy and Paris Staff Member Morton Gudebrod, who filed the surrender story to French papers, was extended to include Robert Bunnelle, managing executive for the AP in the United Kingdom, with headquarters in London.

In Bunnelle's case the suspension meant only that he was denied army transmission and travel facilities and could not eat in army messes; he still could use normal civilian facilities. No reason for the suspension was given.

Wes Gallagher, who has been chief of the Associated Press field correspondents on the western front, was appointed acting chief of the Paris bureau, without prejudice to Kennedy but in order to maintain normal operations while Kennedy remains suspended.

The official SHAEF inquiry into transmission of the Kennedy story was reported continuing.

SHAEF'S PUBLICITY CHIEF HAS MEAGER PRESS EXPERIENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9—Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen Jr., storm center of the press controversy over the Associated Press scoop on the German unconditional surrender, is a regular army officer of almost no experience in public relations. The general, who is a lieutenant colonel in permrnent rank, entered the army in the last war. He was born in Ohio in 1896 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the reserve in August, 1917. During World War I. he received the temporary grade of first lieutenant. At the end of the war he elected to stay in the army.

Brig. Gen. Allen

He was a major when this war broke out in Europe and was made a lieutenant colonel in August, 1940. He will revert to this rank at the end of this war. At the war department it was predicted that this grade would be permanent for Allen, as his handling of the press relations at SHAEF would probably bar any future permanent promotion.

Early in this war Allen was assigned to the photographic branch of the bureau of public relations, his first experience with press problems. He was then assigned to a tank force in Italy, where he attained a general's stars temporarily. He was transferred to the head of SHAEF press relations after D-day on the illness of Maj. Gen. Jefferson Davis.

CENSORSHIP ON PRESIDENT'S TRAVELS STOPS

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—War time censorship restrictions on the whereabouts of the President were removed tonight by Censorship Director Byron Price as a consequence of victory in Europe.

Editors and broadcasters were notified that the only remaining restrictions will be on advance information on routes, times and methods of travel used by the President. Similar restrictions were requested in pre-war times by the secret service.

EUROPE

The former Austrian chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg, was first reported, when American troops were beginning to find the missing men of Europe, to have been hanged in mid-April by his Nazi custodians. Now he is reported alive and among the rescued. The night before Hitler, starting his annexations, moved in on him, Schuschnigg was a frantic man on the telephone, trying to get help. The right lines were busy; the right people weren't in. Mussolini, who had been Austria's particular protector, had looked at the stars, didn't see Schuschnigg there, and had made a decision for which Hitler, in Vienna, wired him, "I shall never forget this, Benito."

Possibly Hitler didn't forget it. He rescued the fallen Duce from the Italian carabinieri in a daring raid and, as it turned out, saved him from whatever might have been done to him in orderly processes and thus allowed him to fall into the hands of a lynching party which did disgusting things in killing him. When Schuschnigg was arrested and Austria annexed the war was on. We didn't know it then because later Munich was for a minute to represent peace in our time.

Many other curious discoveries are made as light breaks into darkest Europe. Pastor Niemoeller, the U-boat captain and peace time clergyman, who in his pulpit defended freedom of religion against Nazi dictation, is alive. The most curious survival reported is that of Alex von Stauffenberg, accused by Hitler of placing the bomb which nearly blew the fuehrer to bits.

Among persons rescued by Americans of the 85th infantry division were Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's one time financial wizard, along with a number of generals, including Franz von Halder, former chief of staff, who had given advice the Nazi boss didn't like.

There will be plenty of star witnesses for judicial processes and a valuable crop of memoirs. Four French ex-premiers have recovered their liberty, Blum, Daladier, Herriot, and Reynaud; also the French commander just before the capitulation, Gen. Gamelin, the man who thought that the first belligerent who ran headlong into his opponents' fortifications would have a smashed head and a defeated army. For 10 months he stood in respect before the German west wall and must have been amazed when the Germans broke thru at Sedan and raced to Abbeville. The Maginot illusion was the strongest thing in France at the time.

It may be taken for granted that the pre-capitulation French are not in serious trouble at home. They were prisoners of the Germans and not collaborators. They may have had great responsibility for military weakness as revealed by the test of war. Reynaud said the British and French empires were invincible. He may have believed it. Laval is the man the French want above all others and he made the mistake of thinking that Franco would protect him. Franco is not one of Europe's strong men now. He is only a wishful opportunist.

In these columns the other day it was noted that no American has been executed for treason in our history. That record may be broken. A number of misguided expatriates have been indicted for treason and one of these oddities was picked up by our soldiers the other day. He is Ezra Pound, poet and student of the Romance languages, who hired himself for $10 a week to the Italian ministry of propaganda to do radio broadcasts and didn't quit his job when his country was at war.

Millions of people in Europe are now struggling to master the first stages of a reconstruction of life. There are millions of defeated soldiers who, having laid down their arms, must shift to their homes, if they have any. There are millions of victorious soldiers whose first wish is to return to their homes; there are released labor prisoners, political prisoners, refugee families, and fugitives from justice. War has its own form of order maintained by discipline and command. Peace has its order based largely on habit, routine, and customs. The transition from one to the other, handling so many millions, will tax administrative authority, military and civil.

There will be a sifting of the conquered people to apprehend the persons who will be wanted in several countries for acts called crimes outside the usages of war. If Hitler is not to become a legend like the lost dauphin his body or his living person must be found. A Russian news agency reports that a Russian general said the badly riddled remains had been uncovered in the ruins of the reichschancellery. The whole present fiction of a German government rests upon the statement of Adm. Doenitz that Hitler made him fuehrer before he died in defense of his capital. Doenitz made the announcement and had the proper memorial exercises conducted over the radio. The allies have recognized this fable as a fact and Doenitz has proceeded in the role of a governmental authority who could subscribe to unconditional surrender.

For the present emergency the expedient has worked. The Russians say Doenitz is a war criminal and his government, which really owes its authority to Hitler, dead or alive, probably will be of short term. What has happened to the other key men of the Nazi regime, now formally abolished by the new government it created? Himmler is reported to be in the circle around Doenitz. Goering, after being variously reported as dead or missing, was officially reported yesterday as a prisoner of the American army. Goebbels and his family are reported dead of poison and the Nazi propagandist is also reported so badly burned as to be unrecognizable.

One other little man must not be forgotten. His distinction was to give his name to a tribe of traitors. Vidkun Quisling has been taken by the Norwegian patriots. One story has it that he walked into a Norwegian police station and surrendered himself, pale and trembling, a symbol of the next stage in European internal affairs. He is a symbol of the retribution faced by men who thought that Hitler's new order contained the future of Europe instead of its disaster and theirs.

UNINVITED DELEGATE

Earl Browder, the jailbird boss of American Communists, is not a delegate to the San Francisco conference, but that does not deter him from assisting the Russian delegation in yapping about American policy. Mr. Browder is heard bleating that the moral basis of American refusal to recognize the soviet stooge government of Poland has been destroyed by our support of Argentine "fascism."

Two terms in federal prison, one as a draft dodger and the other as a perjurer who wouldn't even admit his identity in traveling abroad, qualify Mr. Browder to offer expert judgment on morals. As the leading American agent of the foremost totalitarian state left after the fall of Germany and Italy, he is equally well suited to discuss fascism. What would he say they have in Moscow?

Mr. Browder professed to be at least American enough to throw all the support he could muster in the last election to a recognized American party, even if the New Deal has deviated far from what used to be the traditional position of the Democratic party. Under changed management the party no longer pleases him, and he is dropping the pretense that he is acting as a citizen of this country, even if of a skulking kind, and emerges openly as the unregistered agent of a foreign government. He doesn't need credentials from Stalin for that role, for all the support necessary is to be had from a too tolerant department of justice. Surely they must be missing him at morning roll call down at Atlanta penitentiary.

PEACE FEELERS

Of late there have been numerous reports of peace feelers put out by Japan. THE TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau sent a dispatch, published on Tuesday, to the effect that a few days before President Roosevelt left for the Yalta conference he may have received an intimation that the Japanese would surrender everything except their emperor. If we would leave the emperor to them they would clear out of all the territory they had seized, hand over anybody we wanted to try as a war criminal, and permit us to occupy Japan proper with our army. Implied in such an offer seems to be surrender of all arms and armament.

Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have disregarded the proposal as lacking authenticity. That seems to be about the only ground on which it could be rejected out of hand. If the Japanese are really prepared to go that far in surrender peace becomes possible. If we fight on with nothing more to gain than the person of the mikado we convict ourselves of placing as high a value on his carcass as the Japs themselves do.

At any rate, it is not at all unlikely that the Japs are trying to get out of the war. Obviously they have nothing to gain from continuing it. They know they are licked and, what's more, they know that we licked them when by far the greater part of our effort was directed against Hitler.

They know that we now can concentrate against them the air force that wrecked German production and communications in circumstances generally far more difficult than will confront us in Japan, where there are fewer targets to be destroyed and less effective defenses against air attack. They know that we have a veteran army in Europe with a degree of battle experience and a quality of equipment that their soldiers cannot match. They know that their navy is now negligible in relation to ours, that their air force is in no better shape, and that their suicide bombers, tho troublesome, are hardly more than that.

They know we have the merchant marine to supply us across the Pacific. They know that everywhere our armies have met theirs ours have won, and that in these engagements their losses have far exceeded ours. They know, or ought to know, that the American people are determined to carry the war against Japan to a victorious conclusion, whatever the cost.

In these circumstances, the Japanese government and people can look forward only to defeat, and from defeat they must expect terms no more agreeable to them than were laid down at the Cairo conference. The sooner they act on that premise the better for them.

Editorial of the Day

THE BRITISH WERE RIGHT

[New York Daily News]

For the present Asiatic war, we think we should take a tip from an old time British policy. This policy was that, when Britain sent expeditionary forces to Europe under Marlborough, Peterborough, Wellington, and so on, the officers were to be British, but large numbers of the men were to be non-British. Strange as it may now seem, many of Marlborough's and Wellington's soldiers were Germans.

Couldn't we do such a thing in China, if your plan is to add to our own victory over Japan by rooting the Japs out of China? How about United States officers, United States weapons, and mainly Chinese soldiers, rather than United States officers, United States weapons, and mainly United States soldiers? Substitute "Russian" for "Chinese" in the preceding sentence if we also plan to win Manchuria and Korea from the Japs for Russia.

GOOD-BY, SWASTIKA

Minor items of post-surrender news suggest that German civilians, apparently without prompting, are tossing the swastika, wherever easily removable, into the rubble heaps of their ruined cities. Complete elimination of this reminder of their ghastly folly will take time, for the symbol was freely used in architectural ornament as well as on flags and uniforms, but we feel confident that it will become as extinct in Germany as the Jolly Roger of private piracy.

Hitler borrowed the hateful emblem from primitive folklore, and until he hitched his fanatic theories of Aryanism to its spinning arms it was merely one of those things that were commonly explained as a sign for good luck. As an element of design, it can be found on Navajo silver work, Hindu ornament, and numerous knickknacks of exotic origin. The Greek fret, or meander, to be seen on many buildings in Chicago, is derived from it. Nobody knows what it meant to the prehistoric peoples among whom it was born, but this column suspects that it was a symbol of fire, suggested by the rotation of the aboriginal fire stick.

The possibilities of the swastika as an emblem of political propaganda were suggested to Hitler by its appearance in Berlin on the helmets of Ehrhardt's Free Corps. After the armistice of 1918 these veterans fought against bolshevists in Finland, where they picked up the swastika as a bit of military heraldry. In 1920 Ehrhardt led a vicious putsch in Berlin.

Various members of Hitler's small party in Munich submitted designs for a flag, most of them carrying the swastika. Hitler preferred his own design, but a dentist gave him keen competition. A goldsmith of Munich seems to have perfected the emblem for purposes other than flag waving. In 1921 the new banner, red with a black swastika on a white disk, was unfurled for the first time. "The effect was so inflammatory," writes Konrad Heiden, "that Hitler himself was surprised and pleased."

The Nazi swastika, unlike most others, arranges its hooks counterclockwise. In occult lore, this means black magic, an invocation of the devil. Hitler's invention worked that way, and at long last its malignity destroyed its worshipers.

LETTER FROM OKINAWA

"The word has come thru we can write what we like Within certain set limitations."
(A six-inch hole here made it perfectly clear We'd best use our imaginations.)
"Of course, I can't write of the fighting," he said.
"The first week I kept pretty busy."
(The rest of this page was cut off at this stage,
"The air raids each night interfere with our sleep;
Your letters are coming O. K."
(With razor blade neat did the censor delete
The next lines in maddening way.)
"The climate is like California," he wrote.
"I'm fine but right now I must hurry."
We grumbled a while and then read with a smile,
"That's all for this time, and don't worry."

A Dog's Share of V-E Day

So we came home, and there was much dancing around and bouncing up and down. Choppy started hopping around, too, and bouncing from one piece of furniture to the other—both pieces of furniture. He likes whoopee making, but he adds barking and yipping to his whoopee, which we cannot do, but we can sing, and we did, and so can Choppy, on command. We commanded and he sang—but beautifully.

Then we started tearing up paper and throwing it around the flat, and Choppy went over to "my" chair, in which he had dug a hole the day before, and began scattering the stuffing all around the room. We didn't scold him, so he joyously started chewing up the rug and my oldest pajamas.

Then Choppy stopped short and seemed curious about the hilarity, so we told him, "The war in Europe is over, Choppy!"

Choppy looked skeptical, and his actions said: "War's over, is it? Well, the same old battle is still on around here, and I'll bet two to one that I win!"

ADVICE TO A POET.

O poet, learn to know the little things:
A larkspur in the wind; the patient snail
In fluted pearl, leaving a silver trail;
A stone describing growing, pulsing rings
Across a pool; the katydid that sings
Thru summer storms; the castanets of hail;
The detour of a small, bewildered quail;
The hawk moth greeting dusk with happy wings.
Employ such entities for discipline,
And teach your inner self to acquiesce
To music of this lost and gentle art;
Go fortify and wall your genius in,
And challenge grief, and hate, and bitterness
To strike their armored heels against your heart!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks answers questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents. Replies will be given by mail if stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice may be obtained from The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 So. Dearborn st., or by phone, Superior 0200.]

H. Y. writes: "I was discharged from the army for 'habitual drunkenness.' I am not a drunkard, and I believe I got a bad deal. Is there anything I can do to change this discharge so I can qualify for some of the benefits under veterans' laws?"

Any discharged person, including WACs, who believes the character of his discharge or dismissal should be changed, except those given dishonorable discharges by order of a general court martial, may make application to the adjutant general for a review. The adjutant general will refer the application to the discharge review board of the secretary of war. The secretary will make final review of the findings of the board. A veteran or his attorney may appear before the board, but not at government expense.

Mrs. E. R. asks: "To whom may I write to inquire about the personal effects of my husband who was killed in action in France last winter?"

Inquiries about personal effects of soldiers should be addressed to the Commanding Officer, Army Effects bureau, Quartermaster Corps, Kansas City, Mo. To inquire about personal effects of sailors or marines, communications should be sent to either the Navy Department, Welfare Division, Casualty and Allotment section, U. S. Navy, Arlington annex, Arlington, Va., or Marine Corps Headquarters, attention Casualty section, whichever is applicable.

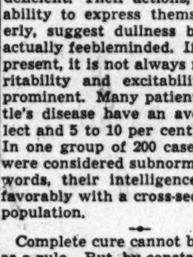
RELAXATION IN SPASTIC PARALYSIS

IN 1861 William J. Little described a type of palsy in children resulting from injury to the brain during birth. Altho sometimes called "spastic paralysis," the muscles, in the strict sense of the word, are not paralyzed. There seems to be a loss of voluntary control so that the arms and legs are used in a peculiar fashion.



At the present time medical men do not agree entirely on the cause of this malady. It is reasonable to assume that a long and hard labor could result in damage to the head. On the other hand, many victims are born under ideal conditions. Perhaps an illness suffered by the mother during the last months of pregnancy is the deciding factor. With others, the origin remains a mystery.

Walking is usually retarded until the fourth or fifth year. The sense of equilibrium or of position may be lost, making this act awkward. The muscles appear to be subjected to great irritability, which explains the irregular, jerking gait. In some cases there is an involuntary and more or less constant contraction of certain groups of "pulleys."

In attempting a given movement, the patient may go thru numerous contortions. When asked to open the mouth the face becomes all twisted with grimaces. Symptoms are increased by a sudden noise, scolding, agitation, or embarrassment. There may be impairment in talking or chewing. Drooling is often associated with difficulty in swallowing.

At one time most of these unfortunates were thought to be mentally deficient. Their actions, and the inability to express themselves properly, suggest dullness but few are actually feebleminded. If a defect is present, it is not always marked. Irritability and excitability may be prominent. Many patients with Little's disease have an average intellect and 5 to 10 per cent are bright. In one group of 200 cases, only five were considered subnormal. In other words, their intelligence compares favorably with a cross-section of the population.

Complete cure cannot be expected, as a rule. But, by constant reëducation, striking improvement can be obtained. The victim must learn relaxation. This is aided by massage and warm baths. Later, carefully supervised exercises are carried out, preferably under water. They must be balanced and follow a set speed and rhythm.

The program is increased gradually until muscle control is such that the patient feels confident of his actions. Sometimes schools supply group training which is more effective because all the little ones are in the same boat.

The personality problem may present a real obstacle. Too often these youngsters hide behind their handicap and never attempt to become articulate. The parents should encourage responsibility by including the child in conversations and other activities about the home. In this way many learn to rise above their infirmity.

VITAMIN K EXPERIMENT

C. G. D. writes: I have hypertension and my physician tells me it will never be normal because certain changes have taken place in the walls of the blood vessels. Now I read that vitamin K is a remedy. Is there anything to this?

REPLY

Schwartz and Ziegler noted that vitamin K lowered the blood pressure in rats with increased tension. To my knowledge, this has never been tried on human beings.

HEAD PAINS

E. H. W. writes: Can the menopause be responsible for shooting pains in the head? I am 47 and going thru that stage for a year.

REPLY

This is not the type of headache that may accompany the change of life. It sounds more like neuralgia, which may appear at any age.

POSSIBLE

L. V. writes: I am 63 years old and am taking care of a 3 year old child who has spots on the lungs. Is this dangerous for me?

REPLY

If these spots represent tuberculosis, consult the family physician. Greater caution is needed should signs of activity be present.

TONSIL AGE

M. B. writes: How old should a child be before the tonsils are removed?

REPLY

Not before the third and, preferably, after the fifth year. The decision should be left to the judgment of the doctor who knows the case.

Two Lines

The unsigned postcard was dated May 8. An American flag had been pasted onto it. On it was written the quotation: "This is the day which the Lord hath made: let us be glad and rejoice therein."

This Time Few Sang

And then there was the letter written on the eve of V-E day. The writer, a woman, had her radio turned on. She heard singing in New York, and in Chicago, and in many American cities. She turned off the radio, her thoughts going back to Nov. 11, 1918, in Paris.

With another American girl she was just out of the hospital, part of a milling, shouting, singing throng. Ever since 11 a. m., when the flags had bloomed so suddenly on the Champs Elysées, they had been swept along in an ever-increasing surge of humanity, composed chiefly of young French girls and men in uniform, principally American. Now it was early afternoon and the two exhausted girls sought a moment's rest in a tiny patisserie on the Rue des Italiennes.

It was dark and dank and cold in the shop. The little chairs and tables were covered with dust. The glass showcases were empty. The shop seemed deserted. The contrast of its dreary desolation with the excitement and gayety outside made her want to cry.

Suddenly she heard a sound in the rear of the shop. It seemed to be strangled sobbing. Hesitantly the two girls ventured back. A woman dressed in heavy black was seated at a table, head on arms, wracked in weeping. Another woman in black, her lips pressed tightly together, stood beside her, patting the heaving shoulders.

The other American girl said gently: "Why does she weep when all of Paris is singing today?"

At that the sobbing woman flung up her head. "Non! non! non!" she screamed. "Not Paris. Not France. Only the Americans! Like noisy, ill-mannered children, at a funeral, singing and shouting while France kneels at her bier." Sobs choked her, but she went on in a torrent of French: Her husband had been killed in 1914. Her three sons soon after. The farm that had been in her family five generations was seized by the Germans and burned. The old grandmother died of shock The Germans carried her [the narrator] away. She escaped and made her way to Paris. The friend with her this day had taken her in and shared what she had.

"You can see for yourselves, it is nothing. She, too, has nothing left. And now to sing! No, no, no! The peace for me has come too late. I have nothing more to lose. O, if they would but stop the singing!"

The two girls quietly slipped from the damp, cold, bare little shop. At the door they collided with five American soldiers, arms linked, walking abreast, singing lustily. They stopped when they saw the girls' uniforms and yelled out the customary greeting: "Who won the war?" From force of habit the girls called back the appropriate reply. The soldiers cheered uproariously, grabbed the girls and hoisted them to their shoulders, and started off down the street, bursting into new song: "Hail, hail, the gang's all here and what the hell do we care now?"

"That," wrote the woman on the eve of V-E day, "was when I cried."

So it must be at the end of all wars. Or is it? Did the soldiers in Europe sing as this war ended? Not if the news reports told all. It was as tho the lines of Stephen Vincent Benet chronicling the Appomattox of April 9, 1865, were being relived:

It is over then. . . .
There are no cheers or words from blue lines or gray.
Only the sound of feet. . . .
It is over, now. . . .
The arms are stacked from the war.

Stacked in Europe, at any rate, and the sound of gunfire quieted for the first time in at least six years.

WRITTEN UNDER FIRE

Chicago, April 18—The following is a letter received from my brother with the 5th marine division on Iwo Jima. Perhaps if letters such as this were reproduced on handbills and posters for all strikers in war plants to read, they might think twice [and I say "think" with my tongue in my cheek] before continuing such definitely un-American tactics in war time. He writes:

"We are still on this lousy rock and pitching for all we are worth. I don't know what the radio or newspapers have to say about the campaign, but it is plenty tough. The Nips have kept us pretty busy. They are dug in under rocks and in caves and in many cases have concrete pill boxes. It is taking quite a bit of work to dig them out.

"I'm still in good condition, Mom, tho I will admit that I am tired and very, very dirty. One of these days I am going to take off my shoes and see if my feet are still there. Another thing I have learned is an unusual thing to find being taught on dry land. I am one of the best fancy divers in the business. So far I have used every known style that there is. Whenever one of these Jap shells whistles, I dive for the nearest shell or fox hole. It doesn't make any difference who you are in a fox hole. The colonel hides the same way that a private does.

"No matter how long it take or how tough it is, one thing is certain—they can't stop these kids. They just don't know what it means to give up. As long as the folks at home stay in back of them, we can't lose." E. M. K.

PACIFIC MAIL DELIVERIES

MARIANAS ISLANDS, April 8—I have recently noticed many letters in the Voice of the People complaining about letters and packages not reaching soldiers overseas. Such letters imply that there is something wrong with the army postal system. I have been stationed in the Marianas Islands for about four months and the postal service has been excellent.

Air mail letters reach here from Chicago in from 6 to 15 days. Average time is 10 days. Considering the distance involved, could one ask for better service? My letters from home are numbered, and I have received every letter that has been sent. Not one of them has been lost, nor do I know of any letters from friends that have failed to arrive. During this period I have received at least 10 packages. They all arrived in good shape, taking an average of five weeks to get here. I know of no packages sent me that have failed to arrive.

Some losses, of course, are inevitable. I believe the army postal service is doing a fine job, and the cases written about in the Voice of the People are isolated, unfortunate instances.

MARIANAS ISLANDER.

TELL THEM THE SCORE

Chicago, April 25—It was good to learn that the allies are planning to have pictures and posters printed, depicting the German torture victims and the editorial comments of the shocked civilized peoples of the world, for display thruout Germany after the war. I suggest that these pictures and posters be printed immediately and placed in prominent places in every German prison camp in this country. Then let some prisoner start reciting the terms of the Geneva convention some day because there's no cream for his strawberries.

MARJORIE CAHILL

A CASE FOR THE WAR WORKER

Chicago, April 30—Within the last week I have read a number of letters in this column from soldiers on the German front and also from war workers, and the idea seems to be, that the war workers in defense plants are a lot singled out, by the hand of destiny, to be scapegoats.

I am a veteran of the first World war, and having been denied service in this war, entered the employ of a defense plant making airplane motors, in March, 1942. During all this time I do not remember losing more than a total of five to 10 hours, not days. This perhaps is a little better record than the average on absenteeism. Also I am a member of the War Workers League of America and the American Legion.

As to earnings, I do not consider them unreasonable or abnormal, and I am perhaps receiving a little better pay than the average.

The average war worker earns from $50 to $55 a week I remember during the last war the average earnings were a great deal more than they are today. But I can get a lowly dishwasher's job any day paying $40 to $45 a week. Waitresses earn from $55 to $65 a week and waiters from $75 to $100 a week. Any job in Chicago that requires the least bit of initiative pays better than war work. These conditions are brought about by the law of supply and demand, but the war workers' earnings are frozen by legislation or by "edictation."

ARMY RATIONS FOR EUROPE

Toledo, O., May 3—There has been much discussion about our drawing in our belts and feeding the rest of the world. I suggest we feed them K and C rations. If they are so healthy for our American service men, surely they will be just as healthy for European civilians.

PROPERTY CONDEMNED

Chicago, May 2—Twenty years ago I paid $600 for two vacant lots in another state. Last year I received a letter informing me that the government was buying up the land and that I would be paid $200 for my property. I didn't want to accept that amount and, because of illness in the family, I didn't reply. This year when I sent the money for taxes, the collector returned the check with a note saying that the government has taken over the land. Could this have been done without my signature?

N. S.

The government can condemn private property for public use, the compensation being a matter for court hearings. It seems probable that the appropriate steps have been taken. We suggest that you get in touch with the agency now in possession and obtain from them the available information. If you are not satisfied, the next step is to look the case up on the court records. If you wish to contest the allowance, employ an attorney.

HOUSE VOTES ITSELF SHARE IN TREATY MAKING

Expect Senate to Kill the Proposed Amendment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—A proposed constitutional amendment to have treaties ratified by a majority of the membership of both houses of congress was approved by the lower house today by a vote of 288 to 88.

The Constitution requires treaty ratification by a two-thirds vote in the senate only. The proposed change now goes to the senate, where it is expected to be pigeonholed.

Senate leaders already have indicated they are cool to any change in the present machinery. To become effective the proposed amendment must be approved by a two-thirds senate vote and by the legislatures of 32 states.

Alter Original Proposal

House administration leaders were successful in marshalling the two-thirds margin today only after backing down from their original proposal.

The measure, as it reached the house floor, would have permitted approval of treaties by a majority of members voting in each house. A revision, proposed by Rep. Schwabe [R., Mo.] requiring approval by a majority of each body's entire membership, was written into the bill today after Rep. Summers [D., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, accepted it as a compromise.

Might Speed Security Plan

Summers and other proponents of the changed machinery argued it would facilitate participation by the United States in post-war world security programs that can be joined only thru treaties. They declared a minority of the senate should not be empowered to block such participation and keep this country from assuming "leadership" in world affairs.

Republican opponents retorted the two-thirds requirement is a sound safeguard written into the Constitution by the founding fathers to protect minority rights and to save the nation from "hasty" action by a majority often dominated by the political party in power.

$50,000 Robbery

Richard Miller, who was shot thru the hand during the jewelry holdup.

Two robbers yesterday took $50,000 worth of unset diamonds from Eduard Van Dam, a New York diamond merchant, in the building at 30 E. Adams st., then shot the elevator starter, Richard Miller, 37, in the right hand before they fled.

The men followed Van Dam into an elevator and robbed him after the operator, Robert J. Kitson, 25, of 6575 Lakewood av., closed the door. They removed the leather pouch containing 610 stones weighing 174 carats from a zipper pocket inside Van Dam's vest.

After getting out of the elevator, the bandits walked up to Miller, who is 37 and lives at 1124 Garden av., Park Ridge, and fired one shot as he warded off a blow from the gun. He was not even aware the robbery had taken place. He was treated at St. Luke's hospital.

Van Dam, a representative of the Van Dam Diamond corporation, 630 5th av., New York, was making a business call to the 8th floor of the Adams st. building. A relative, Henry Van Dam, also a New York jeweler, was robbed of diamonds valued at $75,000 in Chicago on April 1, 1941.

RCA Home TELEVISION almost as BIG as a Newspaper Page!

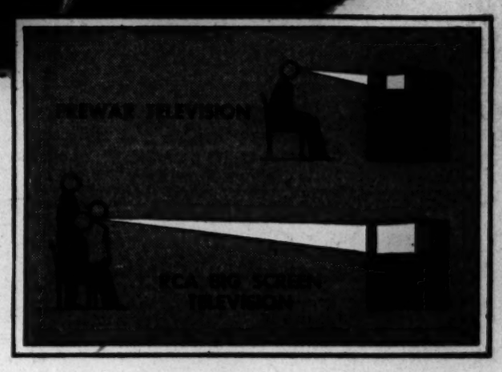
A REALITY... TELEVISION PICTURES THAT CAN BE SEEN BY A WHOLE ROOMFUL OF PEOPLE AT ONCE...

EXPERTS who have seen the laboratory demonstration of RCA Large-Screen Home Television acclaimed the bright lifelike quality of the pictures... almost five times larger than prewar.

This is but one example of the remarkable technical progress that has been made in television largely as an outcome of RCA research before the war. Highlighting the many brilliant achievements of RCA scientists are two developments of Dr. V. K. Zworykin—the Iconoscope, which is the "eye" of the television camera; and the Kinescope, or picture tube, from which the received image is reflected to the screen. These revolutionary advancements did away with mechanical scanning and opened the way for the high-quality, all-electronic television system you will enjoy in the days to come.

The signs are many that for millions television is closer than they think. Already applications for more than 115 new television stations, located from coast to coast, have been filed with the FCC. These stations could provide television program service to more than 50% of the wired homes of the United States.

Today almost 30,000 RCA Victor workers in seven plants are applying their energies to produce America's radio weapons of war. Tomorrow RCA's rich experience in television will assure you of the finest advancements in that art. When television comes to your community, you'll enjoy it to the fullest on the receiver bearing the mark of the pioneer... RCA Victor.



HOW RCA ACHIEVES BIG SCREEN TELEVISION

Strike by Clerks Causes Layoff of Others

Participants in a sitdown strike of 24 billing clerks at the sheet and tin mill of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, Gary, Ind., yesterday took pillows with them to the plant to make their sitting more comfortable. The strike was started Monday when the clerks refused to work in new quarters assigned them because they were not air conditioned. This is the 190th strike at the steel company's Gary plant since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

75 Loaders Sent Home

Seventy-five car loaders were sent home yesterday morning because the strike has already tied up 190 freight cars loaded with more than 8,000 tons of outgoing sheet steel and tinplate needed for the production of ration and ammunition cans, shells, and various other war materials. The cars cannot be moved until the strikers bill the materials.

No effort has been made by the company to remove the strikers, who, admittedly, are trespassing by occupying space which is no longer assigned to them. The strikers are members of local 3008 of the Salary Employes' union [CIO].

Twenty-two Strikers Are Women

Twenty-two of the strikers are women and two are men. When newspaper photographers sought to take their pictures yesterday they complained to their union steward that they were being "pushed around" by the newspaper men. In reality they threatened the photographers and pushed them from the office.

The strikers, most of whom live in Gary, are: Dorothy Curtice, 551 Taft st.; Alice Rogers, 342 Grant st.; Margaret Rees, 524 Hayes st.; Arlowene Stiefenhofer, 4526 Pierce st.; Helene Butz, 1941 Roosevelt pl.; Rosemary Naccarato, 3719 Adams st.; Eleanor Curley, 368 Van Buren st.; Margie Surowiec, 1635 Connecticut st.; Catherine Mary Argon, 742 Virginia st., and Helen Dymanowski, 1219 Rutledge st.

Other Gary residents among the strikers are Dorothy Evanoff, 4125 Jefferson st.; Selma Hollowell, 452 Tyler st.; Ione Choka, 3624 Massachusetts st.; Mildred Herndon, 337 Pierce st.; Patricia Todd, 749 Harrison st.; Anne Rademaker, 836 Madison st.; Janet Gress, 1020 W. 5th av.; Florentine Molnar, 249 Pierce st., Dorothy East, 406 Harrison st.

Male Striker Has Deferment

Mary Davis Zinnen, 209 S. Illinois st., Hobart, Ind.; Amy Roberts, 100 N. Indiana st., Crown Point, Ind., and Helen Popka, 2131 Ripley st., East Gary, were also among those on strike.

The two male strike participants are A. R. Thompson, 317 Monroe st., Gary, who has a 2-B [essential civilian worker] draft classification, and George Drake, 1215 Garfield st., Gary, who has a 1-A classification.

Another strike at the plant, the 191st, in which 21 members of local 1066 of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO] celebrated V-E day by leaving their war jobs in protest against the company's refusal to add an extra member to a work crew, was settled yesterday when the strikers returned to work in the 80 inch hot strip finishing section of the mill.

CHICAGO DODGE UNION BALLOTS FOR NEW HEADS

Election of officers of local 274 of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO], which represents 20,000 employes of the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation, where engines for B-29 Super Fortresses are produced in volume, took place yesterday in eight huge tents outside the plant gates. The voting was to be completed at 3 a. m. today.

Several months ago, 17 officers and executive board members of the local were suspended without prejudice by the international union, and Joseph Mattson, district UAW director, was placed in charge. Most of the incumbent officers, including Henry Tough, president of the local, were candidates in the election. It was conducted by Mattson with the aid of 30 international representatives of the UAW.

Mattson stated that the ballots would not be counted until tomorrow. It was believed a run-off election will be necessary for the two candidates getting the largest number of votes for each union position.

"What is it?" asked the Federal soldiers, when Mathew Brady's rolling darkroom and laboratory first appeared at Bull Run and "the what-is-it" became the name by which this historic vehicle was known throughout the Civil War.

His READING gave EYES to HISTORY

ONTO the smoking battlefield of Bull Run, early in the Civil War, lurched a strange and cumbrous vehicle. From its van-like interior a man emerged and began calmly setting up a camera.

The man was Mathew Brady, first and in many ways greatest of front-line photographers. The wagon was his rolling darkroom and laboratory.

Photography was in its infancy in 1861: Equipment was crude and primitive. Yet before the war ended, Brady made thousands of combat pictures which for clarity and diamond-sharp detail were unequalled in their day.

Some years before the Civil War a book on photographic techniques had been written by Daguerre, the great French pioneer in that field. This book became the "bible" of Mathew Brady. From it he derived the inspiration and technical background for his career.

Like many another genius, Brady died neglected and penniless. But his priceless negatives eventually were unearthed and used to produce a 10-volume "Photographic History of the Civil War."

History Repeats Itself

Through the reading of Mathew Brady, history had been given eyes! Reading long has been the inspiration which has fostered the ideas and knowledge of all mankind. For it is the impression value of what one sees that registers indelibly and is never forgotten.

If Brady had never read the works of Daguerre, perhaps the following success story of another pictorial history, published 33 years later, could never have been told:

The Wm. H. Wise Co., Inc., book publishers, sponsored a back cover color advertisement which appeared in The American Weekly of March 26, 1944. This advertisement featured "The Pictorial History of the Second World War," which sold for $3 and $4 a volume. As a direct result, Wm. H. Wise Co. will fill orders from the readers of The American Weekly for more than 36,000 volumes. This "breaks all records for The American Weekly or any other publication."

Results such as this are a measure of reader influence . . . and reader influence is the product of reader interest multiplied by circulation.

The American Weekly has an abundance of both.

The American Weekly takes all of life for its province. In its pages are true stories of love; struggle and conflict : : : triumph and heartbreak : : : tears and laughter : : : the latest advances of science and medicine : : : art : : : history : : : religion : : : home economics : : : fashions : : : food : : : beauty : : : child care and education : : : all authoritative, all written so simply and clearly that any one can understand them.

The American Weekly, distributed through a group of great Sunday newspapers, brings the boon of good reading, in word and picture; regularly into more than 8,000,000 homes from coast to coast.

The manufacturer who associates his product or his company's name with such an influence is tying in with the most powerful known force in advertising.

HOUSE PASSES 'GATEWAY' BILL UNANIMOUSLY

Makes Changes Easier in Constitution

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 9—Overwhelming approval was given in the house of representatives today to the proposed gateway amendment designed to facilitate any needed revisions of the state constitution.

Speaker Green announced the vote as 136 to 0. Representatives who arrived late asked to be recorded on the unanimous roll call and several hours later the clerk's office reported the count was 143 to 0.

The resolution's sponsors, Representatives David Hunter [R., Rockford] and W. O. Edwards [D., Danville] helped speed the bandwagon rush by discarding speeches for the resolution. Senate action won't be taken before next week. If the gateway plan gets a two-thirds majority approval there, it will be submitted to a 1946 referendum.

Easier to Change

The gateway amendment would open the way to easier changes of the constitution. Amendments would be adopted if they are approved by two-thirds of the members of each legislative house and two-thirds of those voting on the proposition when it is submitted to the people. Now amendments must get a majority of all votes cast at the election, which the records show to be more difficult.

Another gateway provision is that three amendments could be voted upon at each election. Only one at a time is now permitted.

"This showing should stop talk of introducing any so-called party circle bills at this legislative session," Edwards said in an interview. "The organizations backing the gateway amendment were able to get almost unanimous support of the house and should be able to muster overwhelming support. If they can't, it is their fault."

Labor, Farm Support

The Illinois Agricultural association and the Illinois Federation of Labor which were instrumental in defeating the recent constitutional convention proposal, were among the organizations supporting the gateway amendment.

Hunter also said that the party circle method wouldn't be needed. That scheme, widely denounced as a subterfuge, would permit party conventions to approve proposed amendments, after which every straight ballot cast for the party's candidates would also be counted for the amendment.

Loop Sweepers Pick Up 25 Loads of V-E Day Rubbish

The regular shift of loop street sweepers went to work at 5 a. m., two hours earlier than usual, yesterday to remove debris of the V-E day celebration. Extra trucks were put into the loop to facilitate picking up 25 loads of mixed paper, dirt, and rubbish averaging two tons per load. Salvage companies were invited to look over the accumulation to see what paper could be retrieved.

LEGISLATORS REFUSE SELVES 50% PAY RAISE

Salary Bill Still Alive; May Try Again

BY GEORGE TAGGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 9—The most heavily sponsored bill of the session—to increase legislators' pay 50 per cent—fell five votes short of passage in the house today but a new attempt to put it over will be made next week.

When the measure was introduced it was signed by 77 house members, one of them, Rep. Quinn [D., Chicago] was killed in an automobile accident last week, bringing the number down to 76 — just one less than enough to pass it. But one sponsor, Rep. Shaw [R., Dixon] voted "No" today and several others were absent or silent on roll call. There were 60 votes against it.

Plain and fancy debate embellished the proposal to boost legislators' salaries from $5,000 to $7,500 a biennium. The general assembly has a regular session once each two years but sometimes meets in special sessions.

Democrats Support

Chief support for the bill came from the Democrats, including most of those from downstate and nearly all of those from Cook county.

"This bill is in direct opposition to the national policy of fighting inflation," said Rep. Houcek [R., Cicero].

"We ask our old age pensioners to live on $40 a month or less and our fighting men are drafted at $30 a month," said Rep. Upchurch [D., Benton]. "How then can we vote for a 50 per cent raise for ourselves? If we keep on this spending spree we are guilty of oppressing the poor."

Entitled to "Juicy Steaks"

Rep. Davis [R., Chicago], a Negro, said he thought he is entitled to "live like a representative of the people, and eat juicy steaks instead of hamburgers."

Rep. Euzzino [D., Chicago], who headed the higher pay battalion, said that "in comparison with private enterprise, the ability of members of the legislature is poorly rewarded. Allowing for income tax, campaign expenses, and the loss on our travel allowance, we get less than $1,500 a year."

Terms It "Excessive"

Rep. William G. Thon [R., Chicago] said a 50 per cent increase was "excessive and unwarranted" and that a 25 per cent boost was enough. New York and Illinois now pay the highest legislative salaries in the nation, he added.

Rep. John J. Ryan [D., Chicago] immediately began reprisals against members who voted against the bill. He objected to giving unanimous consent in two instances, and later broke up the meeting of the appropriations committee by raising the question of a quorum.

GETS 199 YEARS FOR FIRE THAT KILLED SEVEN

Charles Bohme, 44, of 1135 E. 44th st., yesterday was sentenced to serve 199 years in prison after he had been found guilty by Judge Frank M. Padden in Criminal court, who heard the case without a jury, or a charge of murder by arson. He was charged with starting the fire last Nov. 19 in the Lille apartments, 1353 E. 47th pl., where seven persons perished.

Bohme, a cripple, accepted the verdict calmly but his wife, Luella, 44, sobbed. Both she and his mother, Mary, 70, an inmate of Oak Forest infirmary, testified in his behalf.

In testimony yesterday, Bohme repudiated a purported confession introduced by the state in which he allegedly admitted setting the Lille fire and 26 others in the Kenwood district. He said police had beaten him.

"This man has a peculiar quirk in his nature that makes him dangerous," Judge Padden said. "He might have killed 70 instead of seven persons. This sentence will keep him in prison for the rest of his life."

SENTENCE SLAYER OF SIX TO DIE FOR KILLING YOUNG WIFE

Little Rock, Ark., May 9 (AP)—James W. Hall, 24, cab driver, who, police say, confessed to six killings, tonight was convicted of first degree murder in the death of his 19 year old second wife. He was sentenced to death.

The verdict was returned at midnight, 45 minutes after the case had gone to the jury.

The stocky, red haired, one-time sharecropper was arrested by Little Rock detectives in March, and a day later officers reported he confessed at least six slayings, five of them in Arkansas, since last August.

5 Women Are Injured When Bus Crashes Pole

Five women passengers were injured last night when a motor coach company bus crashed into a light pole at Lake Shore dr. and North av. Two were hurt seriously. They were Miss Kay Cuddigan, 34, of 6526 Glenwood av., and Mrs. Henry Mintz, 33, of 4723 Sheridan rd. They were taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital. Joseph Phillips, 27, of 7743 N. Marshfield av., the bus driver, told police that he skidded on the wet pavement in trying to stop, and struck the pole.

MOTHER, SON, 5 RESCUED FROM ELEVATOR TRAP

A farm mother and her 5 year old son were caught in turn in a moving automatic elevator last night, but are alive to tell about it. They were Mrs. Esther Janssen, 29, and Gene, of Golden, Adams county.

Mrs. Janssen, her husband Eldron, and their son were visiting her sisters, Miss Mildred and Miss Rose Hunziker, of the Winthrose apartments, 5512 Winthrop av. Gene disappeared from their third floor apartment and a few minutes later was heard screaming.

Mrs. Janssen ran out, saw the elevator slowly descending, and ran to the second floor in time to intercept it. She found Gene caught between the floor and shaft. In her effort to free him she herself was caught, and both were carried half way between the second and first floors. Firemen extricated them and they were taken to Edgewater hospital. Mrs. Janssen suffered hip injuries and Gene leg injuries.

Roger Touhy's Brother Found Dead in Hotel

Edward Towey, about 50, identified as a brother of Roger Touhy, now serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, was found dead last night in his room in the Velmar hotel, 2120 Jackson blvd. Dr. E. E. Stearns, 4159 Madison st., said he had been dead several hours. Henry Alisia, 4758 East End av., identified Towey, who also was Alisia's brother-in-law. Police records showed that Towey, under the name of Touhy, had been arrested in connection with safeblowings.

BLAME BUREAUS IN MEAT FAMINE AMIDST PLENTY

Traders Give 4 Reasons for Paradox

BY GAIL COMPTON

America this year is producing one of the greatest volumes of meat in its history and yet per capita consumption is expected to be only 115 pounds for the year, the lowest figure on record, federal figures show.

Meat trade officials yesterday gave four principal reasons for this paradox. They are:

1. The government is taking more than 60 per cent of the meat from all federally inspected slaughtering plants.

2. The housewife, as a result of increased national income, has more money to spend for meat and has boosted demand far beyond supply.

3. Government discouragement of hog production when it was sorely needed has cut pork production, forcing people to search for beef, supplies of which are extremely scarce.

4. Failure of the government to permit cattle feeders to put greater weight on their cattle in a profitable manner. Its theory that grass fed beef was the most economical way to provide the nation with plenty of meat also was assailed.

Slaughtering Gains

In 1938 the total cattle slaughter in all plants and on farms amounted to 14,822,000 head, the United States department of agriculture reported. In 1944 the figure rose to 19,800,000 head, and this year the government expects the slaughter to total 20,500,000 head. The average weight of the cattle slaughtered has dropped more than 20 pounds per head.

In 1938 the slaughter of hogs amounted to 58,927,000 head. In 1944 the figure reached the peak of 97 million. This year federal officials expect 77 million hogs to be slaughtered.

In the last figure lies the key to the present scarcity of meat in butcher shops, trade officials said. The federal government discouraged hog production and farmers shipped their sows to market. Altho there was a shortage of feed it would have been possible to keep the slaughter last year at around 90 million if the government had wanted it, they said.

Beef Demand Boosted

The sudden drop in hog receipts meant that persons who couldn't find a pork chop turned their efforts to finding a beef steak. This meant more money was going into buying beef. Demand has increased so much because of higher incomes that it far overreaches the increased slaughter of meat animals in the last few years, they said.

An economist in Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., has explained the present lack of meat in this manner:

If before the war an automobile manufacturer made 1,000 cars selling for $800 and there were just 1,000 persons who wanted to buy them, there would have been no shortage of cars priced at that figure. If, after war was declared and people had more money, there suddenly were 2,000 persons who wanted to buy the 1,000 cars, there would be a cry of a shortage of cars. Such a development has occurred in meat, he said.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

May 9, 1945.

THIS has been a week of celebration on the Fox River farm. Naturally, all of the farm families were thankful for the end of war in Europe, with its prospect that some of their relatives and friends soon will be home.

In addition, the farmers have been singing a subdued song of thanksgiving for the spring weather, which has been almost perfect from the standpoint of providing needed rainfall without undue interference in the normal spring schedule of work.

410 Corn Acres Plowed

Six tractors were in the fields all Tuesday afternoon. Four of these pulled plows thru a 42 acre field of alfalfa sod that later will be planted to corn. The other tractors were hitched to disks and harrows in fitting a 21 acre field that the men plan to plant to corn next Monday, weather permitting.

The men have plowed 410 of the 480 acres allotted to corn, with only two 35 acre fields still to be turned. The spring rains have been evenly divided, giving the men a chance to get some field work done between each soaking, and the rains have been sufficiently heavy to counter-balance the long drouth of last fall. The farmers are even with their work schedule, their fields are in good condition, and the indications are for an excellent start of the growing season.

Speed in the Gardens

Two of the men on the Wheaton farm wasted no time in getting their private gardens planted early this week. In the oat planting and corn plowing periods they had little time to work on their home gardens, so the other evening they hitched the big triple tilling machine to a tractor and in one operation completed the job usually done by a plow and disc.

The triple tiller, a field variation of the rotary tiller used in vegetable gardens, completely breaks up the topsoil, creating an excellent seedbed about eight inches deep in a single circuit of the plot. Immediately after the tiller was returned to the barn, the men and their wives started the job of planting.

★ The GARDEN ★

A FEW gardeners, particularly in the west suburbs, already have transplanted tomatoes and have successfully protected them on cool nights with bushel baskets and coverings of heavy paper. The average gardener, however, will be wise to defer the transplanting of tomatoes until after May 20, when the ground should be warmer and there will be less danger from cold weather or light frosts.

Gardeners planning efficient production of tomatoes should base plantings upon the space available. If the garden is very small, an earlier and therefore larger yield can be obtained with individually potted plants, which are farther advanced at planting time than are plants in wooden flats.

The average gardener may want to plant four to six of these potted plants for an early table crop, as well as a flat of plants for a canning crop. Gardeners having large plots also can plant tomato seeds. A discussion of tomato seeding will be published tomorrow in this space.

C. A. C. MOBILIZES 200 FOR BATTLE TO KEEP ROTARY

A fight to retain the national headquarters of Rotary International in Chicago has begun with the formation of the All-Chicago committee of 200, with Thomas B. Freeman, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, as chairman. The committee is composed of non-Rotarians with its objective to persuade 227,000 Rotarians in 5,500 clubs thruout the world that international headquarters should not be moved from Chicago, which is the birthplace of Rotary. It has been reported that Rotary officials of Denver, Colo. have offered the organization a new office building as an inducement to move headquarters to that city.

WHISKY LABEL BILL SENT TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Connors Raps Claims of Distillers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 9—Illinois distillery spokesmen today opposed the Connors bill which would prohibit use of the word "whisky" in labeling products containing less than 50 per cent whisky. They said it would ruin their business and cause a serious shortage in bottled goods in this state.

After a hearing before the senate committee on license and miscellany, the bill was referred to a subcommittee. The subcommittee was instructed to report in two weeks on efforts to reach a compromise with representatives of the liquor industry.

Would Dry Up State

"You will do a good job of drying up Illinois if you pass this bill," said Valentine Gunther of Peoria, speaking for the large Illinois distilleries in that region. "It would result in withdrawal of practically all blended whisky from Illinois, and that is 70 per cent of all whisky consumed here."

Alcohol reduced in proof is better than whisky from the standpoint of health, he said. He pointed out that gin is unaged alcohol.

Sen. Connors [D., Chicago] refused to concede this point.

"Wouldn't Drink This Stuff"

"You wouldn't drink this stuff," he told the opponents, pointing to an assortment of bottled goods he had brought in as "Exhibit A." One sample labelled "Spirits Whisky," contained only 5 per cent whisky.

"We couldn't sell it unless it was labelled 'whisky,' said Joseph F. Bartley in behalf of the American Distilling company of Pekin. "If it was labelled 'potable spirits' or something like that, the people wouldn't buy it."

"You're not kidding us, you're kidding yourself," Connors retorted.

Musical Movie Tries to Whet Your Appetite

"DIAMOND HORSESHOE"

By Mae Tinée

This movie begins and ends with a pain—and I am not making wisecracks about any member of the cast. For scenario purposes, an opportune ache can cause or solve a crisis, if properly arranged. All in technicolor, it also features a lot of singing and dancing, and I suppose you could call it an extravaganza.

The personal affairs of the cast are the reason why you have to see the show at Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe. And there is no doubt left in your mind that it is Billy Rose's—even if you're not quick on the uptake, you'll catch on before the film's over.

The show at the famous night spot is all based on food—a singing chef, William Gaxton, explains the menu, and out come tall and lovely girls done up as mustard, salt, pepper, paprika, etc. If you want to know more about these torsos in epicurean disguise, they're all over on the State-Lake screen. I will tell you that there is a salad—green clad girls arranged in a bowl as lettuce, with Betty Grable, dressed up like what I suppose is the curly endive in the center.

Plot? O, yes. Betty Grable and Mr. Gaxton are headliners in the show and intensely jealous of each other, professionally speaking. Gaxton has a son, Dick Hayme., with six months to go to medical school, but son wants to be a trouper like papa, and the sight of Betty backstage cements his determination. Pa doesn't like it, so his girl friend, Beatrice Kay, does a bit of arranging. She offers Betty her mink coat if she will snare the boy, then drop him so hard he'll bounce—right out of show business and back into school. The feminine bait has a yen for mink, but it's soon displaced by one for Haymes, and, if you use even half of your wits, you can guess how the story ends.

Miss Grable does a good deal of dancing, Dick Haymes sings several times in a rather pleasing voice, and Phil Silvers has a rather interesting research into the origin of that old battle cry of the theater—"the show must go on."

A great deal of money and effort undoubtedly were expended on this film, but the only result, as far as I am concerned, was a case of indigestion, and the sight of girls with strawberry shortcakes and banana splits and chocolate cakes on their heads didn't help a bit.

City to Honor Mother on Day of V-E Prayers

Sunday will be a day of prayer in Chicago and a day of tribute to mothers.

Church services in the city, on the military posts, and in the veterans' hospitals will remember mother on the day traditionally set aside in her honor and also will observe a day of prayers of thanks for victory in Europe.

Mothers have been invited by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly to accompany their sons and daughters in service to the Chicago Service Men's centers at 176 W. Washington st., 430 S. S. Michigan av., and 50 E. 49th st., and to participate in the activities.

Men and women in uniform also are invited to bring their mothers along, if they can, to breakfasts to be served from 9 a. m. until noon in the three United Service organization centers at 203 and 131 N. Wabash av., and 1121 S. Wabash av.

Vaughan General hospital's regular all army radio show over station WLS at 1:45 p. m. tomorrow will use the Mother's day theme and will present Mrs. Caroline Lewan, 4129 N. Claremont av., who has been selected as the typical service men's mother. Her son, Pvt. Kenneth Lewan, 20, is a patient at Vaughan. He is a June, 1943, graduate of Lane Technical High school.

For the past several weeks the service centers and the Red Cross in the hospitals have been helping to get mothers' gifts mailed. Men have been making voice recordings at the U. S. O.s. Voice recordings from 13 Chicago marines, made in the Pacific, will be broadcast to their mothers over station W-G-N at noon Sunday.

The fifth annual Mother's day program sponsored by Visitation church, 843 Garfield blvd., will be held in the parkway in front of the church from 3 to 4:30 p. m. Sunday with 3,000 pupils from Visitation Grammar school and High school participating.

A mother herself will provide recognition of the day at the noon luncheon session today of the loop Kiwanis club in Hotel Sherman. She is Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., recently named the "American Mother of 1945" by the Golden Rule Foundation of Chicago. Mrs. Walter Nelser, president of the board of directors of the Association for Family Living will speak on "Mother Makes the Grade."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of hearts.

It is elementary reasoning that if you provide yourself with two chances instead of one, you are bound to have better luck. When a player is heard to complain constantly that his finesses always fail and his suits never break, it is a good wager that his visit to the local pro has been long overdue.

In today's hand, South was declarer at a contract of three no trump. While it is true that a five diamond contract could have been fulfilled by my Aunt Matilda who still plays whist, nevertheless it is rather difficult to visualize it in the bidding and the final contract was normal enough.

The six of hearts was opened and South was in. There was no time to go after the diamond suit, because it would take two leads to set it up and by that time the hearts would be cleared, and if West had five of them which was likely, the contract would be doomed. Declarer, reasoning that everything depended on the location of the queen of spades, immediately finessed the jack. When this failed he was held to eight tricks and Lady Luck came in for considerable abuse.

South had himself to blame, because he allowed himself only one chance, the location of the queen of spades, where in point of fact there were two chances open to him. He was blessed with two very vital cards in the eight and nine of spades. If West had either the 10 or queen the contract could be fulfilled. The eight of spades, therefore should be permitted to ride. If West has the 10 the queen will be driven out and the contract is assured. If East wins with the 10, declarer still has the chance that West holds the queen. The play of the jack will succeed 50 per cent of the time whereas the play of the eight will win in over 75 per cent of the cases.

When two important cards are out against you there is a good chance that they will be in different hands.

'Midsummer Nightmare' . . . . . By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton, with her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupies a cottage on the Jennesma estate, cared for by Tillie. Olivia walks in her sleep. The Jennesma furniture factory, now making gliders, is managed by Dirk Adams, Winnie's fiance. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a car motor, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, owner of a car body company. Sen. North, who is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley, is in love with Olivia. Jason Kimball, very fond of Winnie, handles Jennesma publicity. Hilda Jennesma Paradine is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. The evening before her death Hilda claimed money was missing from her cottage. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him Olivia went downstairs in the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. When the missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom, Kimball believes it is a plant. Eddie Paradine heard nothing during the night nor is he familiar with the terms of Hilda's will. Kimball believes Hilda had a rendezvous with some one she trusted. Dirk was with Hilda from 1:30 to 3 a. m. In Olivia's opinion, Mrs. Jennesma could not have met Hilda later, and bribed Tillie. Questioned, Winnie insists Olivia is innocent. Olivia finds herself turning to Sen. North, but there is a barrier, a secret marriage in her youth. Hilda's first husband, Jerrold Corbin, is upset on learning Hilda left him only $1,000. North wonders if Jennesma is putting pressure on Olivia to influence his decision. Tillie is poisoned. Olivia denies killing her. Arsenic is found in Tillie's chocolates. A box of chocolates with one layer partly gone is found in Olivia's room. North thinks some one is trying to frame Olivia. Dirk has an alibi. The Paradine maid tries to incriminate Eddie Paradine.

INSTALMENT XVI.

ANONYMOUS THREAT

Kim waylaid Miss Warburton in the hall, grasping her arm.

"Why couldn't you leave well enough alone?" he whispered fiercely. "Winnie had got rid of that dope, Adams. She gave him back his ring. It was all over, and a darned good thing, too. Then you had to tell her he was in trouble, and she saw she was 'deserting him in his hour of need.'"

Miss Warburton freed herself.

"What does it matter who told her? The minute she heard about it from any one, she'd have gone rushing back to him. Why didn't you act quicker?"

Kim was lofty. "I haven't the faintest idea what you're talking about. I'm not interested in women, personally."

"That I would have to see," Miss Warburton retorted.

"I'll let you go in a minute. This is important. You seem to have some influence with that little goof. Why don't you talk to her? Open her eyes."

Miss Warburton's smile was cool and yet affectionate.

"Is that all? Because I really am in a great hurry. Mr. Jennesma is waiting for me with Lt. French."

"Okay."

He watched her vanish into Mr. Jennesma's office.

Both Gerrit and Sybrand Jennesma were waiting for Miss Warburton. So was Lt. French.

Sybrand gave her a little nod. He was sadly changed. He was as dour as Gerrit now, altho he was still polite and considerate. Gerrit had lapsed into his normal taciturnity again.

Sybrand unlocked a small upper drawer in his desk and took out three envelopes. Each was addressed crudely, in pencil, to Gerrit Jennesma, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Warburton recognized them at once.

Sybrand began, wearily, "We did not show you these anonymous notes before, lieutenant, because we had completely forgotten them. Our sister's death drove everything else out of our minds. And when we did recall them, they seemed to have no connection with her, at all. But now that two people have been killed, we felt we shouldn't keep any unexplainable fact from you."

"—'Why couldn't you leave well enough alone?' he whispered fiercely."

French turned over the envelopes, inspecting each one carefully. The first had arrived six weeks before, the second four weeks, the last one a week ago. He laid them out in order and opened the first. The message read:

YOU STOLE THAT CAR ENGINE FROM ME AND YOU KNOW IT. MORALLY YOU OWE ME A SHARE OF THE PROFITS. I WANT $100,000. PUT THIS AD IN PERSONALS OF THE HERALD IF WILLING TO COOPERATE:

"HERBIE WANTS TO SEE YOU SOON. DAD"

IF YOU SHOW THIS TO THE POLICE YOU'LL BE SORRY.

The other two notes were more threatening, but in similar vein.

French said, "Do you know who sent these?"

Gerrit shook his head.

Sybrand said, "My brother has had many laboratory and technical assistants and handymen in the course of developing this engine. We can't recall any one man who claimed to have originated any part of it."

Gerrit spat out words like machine gun bullets:

"I gave them work to do. They did it. I had the ideas. Nobody else helped me."

"But I've heard of other new small engines," Frank remarked.

"Of course you have . . . now, it's gotten out. Plenty of men are working on it now. But I had my idea long ago. I beat every one to it. Mine is first and best. And I'm not going to share it with any one."

Miss Warburton was much interested. Sybrand turned to her suddenly.

"You've been with us for years, Miss Warburton. Can you recall any of my brother's former employes capable of sending these notes?"

She said, "I've thought about them a lot since you first showed them to me, Mr. Jennesma, and asked by opinion. I've been wondering if they couldn't be the work of just an extortioner. He might never have worked for Mr. Gerrit."

Sybrand exclaimed eagerly over her suggestion. Even Gerrit forgot his indignation to consider the new possibility.

French asked with excruciating politeness, "Did you do anything about these notes, Mr. Jennesma?"

"Well . . . uh . . . " Sybrand glanced at Gerrit who took the floor again, with renewed irritation.

"No. I wouldn't have it. Sybrand wanted to put in the ad. Get hold of the fellow. See who he was. But I wouldn't have anything to do with him. It'd look as if we feared him or thought he had a shred of right on his side."

"Did you show these to the police?"

"Nah! That's a coward's trick, that letter writing business. In fact, I don't see why these had to be shown to you. They couldn't have had anything to do with my sister's death."

"Could her husband have been concerned in these notes? Is he unduly interested in your work?"

"What poor weak rat?" Gerrit shrugged him off. He stood up. "I don't care what you do about the notes, if you don't bother me. I'm afraid and I'm not going to stop work to fight or argue with anonymous letter writers. If the man's got a case, let him sue me. But he ain't. Just forget the whole thing."

He closed the door behind him.

French said, "I'll take these letters, Mr. Jennesma. They may come in useful."

"You could save us a lot of trouble by not lying, Kimball," said Lt. French. "And causing us needless trouble doesn't prejudice us in your behalf, even slightly," French continued.

"I'm not aware of needing any prejudice," Kim said.

"Wake up, then. Here are four telegrams addressed to you, from New York, since you took this job. All unsigned."

He quoted:

"AWAITING DETAILS AS PER MY LAST LETTER FRANK OPINION AND DETAILS REQUESTED BY RETURN MAIL ARE YOU SICK IN TROUBLE WHY DON'T YOU ANSWER TERMS DECIDED UPON EXPIRE IN FEW DAYS EXPECT REPLY

and then comes this wire to 'James Kimball which you repudiated:

"EXPECT RESULTS BY TONIGHT OR ELSE.

"I'll take your explanation of this telegraphic barrage, Kimball, at once."

Garden Clubs' Lecture to Aid Service Fund

BY JUDITH CASS

A SERVICE performed by members of five Winnetka garden clubs which will not be discontinued with the final victory over Japan is that of providing flowers and plantings for the north shore army and navy hospitals and camps. To raise money to carry on this work, which is appreciated more than ever by the convalescent wounded service men who have returned from overseas, those five clubs and a sixth, the Kenilworth Garden club, will present the program chairman of the Garden Club of America in a lecture at 2:30 p. m. May 22 in the Winnetka Garden club.

The speaker will be Mrs. Edward Emerson of Greenwich, Conn., whose lecture some years ago in the Indian Hill club still is remembered pleasurably by those who heard her. She will speak on "Flower Arrangements in Relation to Home Decoration."

Last year the Winnetka groups, composed of the Winnetka Garden club, the Woodley Garden club, the garden department of the Winnetka Woman's club, the Winnetka Weeders, and the Winnetka Garden guild, gave a flower show.

Convalescent service men help to maintain the gardens planted by the clubs' war service fund. The women workers, who also decorate chapels for Sunday services, sometimes are called upon to provide flowers for weddings, and even for brides' bouquets.

On the Calendar

Those who heard Catherine Drinker Bowen, author of "Yankee from Olympus," when she addressed members and friends of the Colonial Dames in the Casino club recently, may hear her sister, Mrs. Ernesta Drinker Barlow, when she speaks on behalf of the Citizens Committee for Universal Military Training of Young Men, Inc., at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the same club. Mrs. Barrett Wendell has arranged the meeting, which is open to interested persons. Assisting her are Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Clive Runnells, and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter.

Mrs. Barlow, whose husband is Samuel L. M. Barlow, author and composer, is a daughter of Henry Sturgis Drinker, who headed Lehigh university for 15 years. Her brother is Phil Drinker, authority on industrial diseases and inventor of the iron lung. She formerly was married to William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France. Mrs. Barlow is vice president of the committee and chairman of its women's activities.

In line with its current drive to enlarge its functions, the Library of International Relations will hold a meeting at 2:30 p. m. today at 84 E. Randolph st., with a tea following at 4 p. m. Dr. Chiang Mon-Lin, chancellor of the National University of Peking and president of the Red Cross of China, will speak on "Education for Democracy in China." The library, founded and directed by Miss Eloise ReQua, is the only one of its kind in the world, deal-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

That Vital Spark

The president of a certain company was called upon to write a letter recommending one of the firm's vice presidents for membership in a church organization. His secretary signs and mails his correspondence; so he never sees the finished product before it goes out.

He was much surprised when the vice president did not get into the church association and still more surprised when that same vice president blamed the blackballing on the letter the president had sent. A subsequent search of the files disclosed that the letter, in the second paragraph, contained the following: "Further, I sincerely can recommend Mr. ——— for membership in your association as he has that vital spark of personality so valuable in groups. He is a doer, and at heart a great philanderer. I am convinced that you will never be sorry you elected him to membership."

Lunch

[For a Newcomer]

Today a hundred hurried feet
Pass me as I leisurely eat
My toasted sandwich, cheese on wheat;

And scores of faces. Every one peers an instant, then is done.
I pensive, sigh, knowing none.

Originality

Tho satisfied with my own job and work, I'm one of those white collar girls who reads the ads, and here is one I discovered recently.

"Secretary—25-35; initiative, with a passion for detail and accuracy; taciturn to a degree to practice unfailingly, in confidential matters, a silence that is golden."

An eye-appealing ad, yet one that presents the requirements. More ads should be composed in such a manner, and I'm sure employers would not be able to complain they receive only a few replies. ECILA

Proving Doc Johnson Wrong

Please tell the Real Word Expert that, regarding exceptions to Dr. Johnson's one "ear" word pronounced as is "heard"—it is a bit too early for my report, but I'll make an earnest effort to un*earth* more exceptions for the good doctor. TIN CAN SECRETARY

By Pony Express

Maybe you've wondered how to get long distance calls thru in short order. The magazine Telephony tells about the man who, after waiting several hours, told the operator, "If my call isn't completed soon you may have to cancel it, as I'm considering a very attractive offer from the Pony Express." His call went thru in a hurry.

Summer Play Togs Are Smart and Colorful

Here are two smart examples of new summer play clothes. At left: An ensemble of bold striped cotton in contrasting colors. The wavering stripe is of black, the background of yellow. The shorts and bra are scantily contrived to make the most of the stripe motif. The skirt ties on with the bow at the back or front. At right: A black cotton play suit with the new high neckline and sleeveless top, cut in one piece with the shorts. The giddy skirt is of pink cotton dotted in black. Both outfits are available in a Chicago store. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Cotton Attire Ready for Play and Gardening

BY REA SEEGER

Cotton play clothes, designed expressly for off work hours over the week-end, are fashioned for a dual purpose. The shorts and matched bra combination is the approved classic duet for active sports, tennis, badminton, or any out of doors game; also is the gardeners' delight, as the exposed sections permit sun tanning.

Shorts and bras are brief, in fact some are extremely scanty as to yardage and outline. But the materials are as gay and infectiously colorful as ever. Many of the smartest cotton prints will be found almost exclusively in these new summer play clothes for the next few months.

Expert designers have turned out some of the best looking casual and play togs ever unpacked. They've lavished definite skill and imagination in details, used the patterned cotton for ingenious trim and contrast effects, and created outstanding models, equal to anything in one piece summer time town and street clothes of former years.

Black and yellow, navy blue with pink are two top ranking color combinations in the current collections. There's a special emphasis on dull black, available in a range from dull black jersey play suits cut in one piece to the two piecers of dull black cotton. Dashing color contrast is achieved with button-on skirts. Other striking color combinations are found in the striped, checked, plaid, or dotted cottons used in entire outfits of bra, shorts, and matched skirt. See these important new play and casual clothes while the assortments are so complete and new.

Thru the Looking Glass

Are you getting your full quota of sleep these days? In all the flurry and excitement of current events we're apt to forget that the body needs the relaxing and soothing ministrations of slumber and try to coast along on a minimum of shut-eye. It's foolish, particularly for working women who can't snatch a few hours of rest in the middle of the day. Any job requires that we be on our toes, and aside from that consideration there's enough wear and tear on nerves without the added aggravation of too few hours of slumber.

If you're having difficulty in getting to sleep, make a project of it, planning your time so that you can get started to bed at a reasonable hour. When you're jumpy and feel that sleep is only a remote possibility, take a warm, relaxing tub bath, lingering over it as long as you please until you feel tension leaving the body. Pat yourself dry and fluff on a little dusting powder and trot off to bed immediately. If the household is still humming, close your door and shut out the noise of voices and the radio as best you can.

Maybe the rest of the family doesn't have to get up as early as you or hasn't a hectic day to face, and you owe it to yourself to get a full quota of sleep.

Should sleep be evasive, read a quieting book, something not too interesting that you'll be content to put aside when you do feel sleepy. And don't let your mind race over the news of the day or your own particular problems. Forget about them and let your mind wander.

It takes a little will power now and then to plan for and get an adequate amount of sleep, but in the interests of bodily health and to avoid the dark circled, haggard eyed look that lack of proper rest induces, it's up to the individual to see that she gets it. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Friends Blight the Popularity Rating of Girl

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

on the SOLID side

Q.—"Is it true that if a girl goes around with unattractive girls she won't be as popular with boys as she would if she went with more attractive girls? Neither of my best friends is very attractive, and neither of them dates... I do date occasionally. The boy whom I like now is popular and I have dated him several times, but when I am with my friends he pays little attention to me. I have noticed the same attitude in other boys . . ."

A.—You have a date life of your own to live and besides giving your gal friends a helping hand with an occasional blind date or an interesting introduction, you can't be expected to fill their Friday night schedules, too. Most fellows do prefer to be with attractive girls . . . don't make them look thru the crowd to find you.

Q.—"For the last four months I have been going steady with a boy whom I like very much. I have turned down other dates, feeling that I owed him that consideration, but lately he has been going out with other girls. I've asked him several times if he wanted to break up with me but he says 'Don't be silly.' More recently he has been dating my best girl friend, and to make things worse she keeps saying [after a date with him], 'What's the matter—losing Bill?' And yet I still feel that he likes me best . . ."

A.—To you, as it must to all gals, is coming that first big brush-off. For every girl, right from slinky Cleopatra down to pretty Judy Garland, runs into at least one boy in her dating lifetime who insists in slipping out of the moonlight-and-roses department while she is still looking at him with stars in her eyes. If you're a smart character you'll save yourself from a more serious hurt by finding yourself another Joe to date while this one is still near at hand. Without him Saturday night may still be the loneliest night in the week — but not if you already have big plans for next week-end.

Notes on Names That Make Surprising News, Along with Books and a "Du Barry" Postponement

You don't have to be on a quiz program to find it pays to keep posted on the news. Not long ago, I'm told, a voice teacher conducting a class in song repertory was none too pleased with a student's critical thesis on various methods of voice production, submitted with bibliography of 150 source books. "You read too many books," she scolded, then proceeded to dismiss the past in favor of the present by demanding that the culprit name 10 modern Italian song writers.

"Respighi," he began hopefully, then dried up. For the life of him he couldn't remember another modern Italian who wrote songs. The teacher implacably demanded the other nine. In desperation he glanced down at the chair beside him, and there was a newspaper open at an account of the execution of Mussolini and his hapless retinue. He took a chance.

"Alessandro Pavolini," he offered cautiously.

"Very good," said the teacher, "go on."

Encouraged, he took the bit in his teeth. "Francesco Barracci," he read, "Paolo Zerbino, Fernando Mezzasoma," and straight thru the list.

"Very good!" exclaimed the teacher, adding, "Now name me one modern Italian woman writer of songs."

It was the perfect cue. The student looked at his pony and came up with the name of Mussolini's mistress.

"Clara Petacci," he announced in triumph.

"Excellent!" praised the teacher, who then turned to the class and drove home her point. "You see," she said, "it is possible to be familiar with these names."

Books and Prizes

Nice to know that even a Pulitzer committee can succumb to an invisible rabbit named "Harvey," and to a score as beautifully named as Aaron Copland's "Appalachian Spring." Skipped in the prize giving and just available on the book shelves [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50] is John Van Druten's "I Remember Mama," adapted from Kathryn Forbes' "Mama's Bank Account." It's a tender, amusing, altogether charming play I hope we get with the original cast next season. Meanwhile, Bennett Cerf reports that Random House will publish "The Glass Menagerie" just as soon as it can get the play in print.

Dedication

When the Paulist Choristers sing at Orchestra hall Sunday they will dedicate Bach's "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" to Corp John Reddington, a member of the choir since 1934, who was killed in action in Germany April 13.

Notes

"Mme. Du Barry" has postponed its Civic Opera house opening from Saturday to next Monday night. . . . "The Voice of the Turtle" plays its 250th performance at the Selwyn Friday night. . . . Jussi Bjoerling recently was decorated by Gustav of Sweden. . . . Lulu Vollmer, author of "Sun Pup," soon will be trying out a new play called "And Shadows Fall."

A tip-off on something extra they're showing now.

Two colors are much smarter than one in this super-smooth summer day time dress of cool rayon mixture. The dress has a yoke and skirt of butter yellow to contrast the center half of dull black. Even the fetching appliqued coarse lace is of yellow. Available in a Chicago store.

Mount Holyoke Club Plans Annual Meeting

When the Chicago Mount Holyoke club holds its annual meeting and luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Saturday in the Women's Athletic club, among the special guests will be graduates of the college who have canceled their usual reunions in South Hadley because of war time travel restrictions. Presidents of out of town alumnae groups in this area also have been invited.

Rabbi Silber Is Honored with Testimonial Dinner

A testimonial dinner was given in the Belden-Stratford hotel last night for Rabbi Saul Silber, founder-president of Hebrew Theological college, in honor of his quarter of a century leadership of the school. The occasion also launched the 1945 million dollar endowment campaign led by Allen B. Gellman, Chicago manufacturer. Dr. Abram L. Sachar, national director of the Hillel Foundation, was the principal speaker.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 9—In our town people listened to President Truman's V-E day suggestion that they keep right on working. From my office, which overlooks Hollywood and Vine, I never heard the blowing of any horns, didn't see confetti, heard no cheers, no fuss. People just went about their daily routine as they'd always done. And with all the words that spilled over the air, the ones which struck me forcefully came from the lips of the Canadian correspondent who had been covering the war for nine months. She said, "It's such a great story. It's difficult to put it into words!" . . . Brock Pemberton is going slightly off center trying to find another "Harvey" so he can open the show in Chicago. He kept asking me to suggest some one for the Frank Fay part in "Harvey." After sleeping over it, I decided the perfect person to play the part was none other than Jimmy Dunn, who proved in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" that he has that fey quality, and I don't mean Frank Fay—fey as in Irish. But the question is: Could Dunn be pried away from 20th Century?

His Weakness Now

Bogey bought Baby [Bacall] a modern house which was designed and built by a Frenchman as a love nest. Bogey didn't like it. He wanted something simpler. But Baby just adored it, so 45,000 smackers were laid on the line. . . . Andy Russell bought Leslie Fenton's Encino home for his bride. He's renamed it "Rancho Amour." . . . Life in Hollywood must seem dull to Acquanetta after the flurry given her in Mexico City.

Now It Can Be Told

Three men did the piano sequences in "A Song to Remember." Iturbi played and Cornel Wilde acted, but the hands of Edward Rebner [John Charles Thomas' pianist] were used for the close-ups. . . . Martha Raye may get into "Tars and Spars" if and when it gets under way again. Strike is holding it up. Navy gals are only on 40 day furlough, so most of them don't know whether they'll ever get their faces in the picture or not. . . . Harriet Parsons tells me Mady Christians will do the film version of "I Remember Mama." I'm glad. She's a fine actress. I hope when picture's made, Oscar Homolka will repeat the fine performance he's been giving on the stage. . . . It's not true that Clark Gable's "Strange Adventure" is being held up because Greer Garson thinks her part is not important enough. Her part isn't as important as Clark's. Metro didn't want her to do it, but she insisted.

He Gets His Way

Sam Wood will make "Tatania" in France as soon as he finishes "Heart-Beat" with Ginger Rogers. He wants Bergman for "Tatania." . . . My own Wendell Niles and side-kick, Don Pringle, and Dale Evans open the Helldorado bond drive and lead the western parade at Las Vegas May 17. Niles is trying deperately to borrow Roy Rogers' finery, but to date his chassis hasn't been able to wiggle into it.

Cranky Baby Often May Be Tired, Hungry

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"How's my grandson today?" asked his grandmother noting the rather harassed expression on her daughter's face.

"O, he's all right, I guess, but he certainly is cranky."

"Well, you go along and do your shopping and I'll look after him. Since he's perfectly well, he must be either hungry or tired," said her mother, practically.

"He can't be hungry because he had his lunch about three quarters of an hour ago," answered the baby's mother.

"I'll pop him into his crib, then, and I'm sure he'll be his normal, happy self when he wakes up," said his grandmother, lifting the little fellow from his high chair.

And sure enough the baby was happy and full of fun after his nap.

A healthy baby is a happy baby, the saying goes. Granted that he has normal activity and is understood, a healthy child is a happy child.

To be sure, as individuality develops, situations occasionally arise that may disturb the serenity of his days and ways. But on the whole, a healthy child is a happy child.

When a child we know is healthy but not happy, it's a good plan to look for some small detail of his physical condition to account for it, as did this grandmother.

I know one small boy who says: "I'm hungry—that's what makes me such a pest, mom."

And I know a little girl who ordinarily gets up in the morning sunny and affectionate. When she doesn't, her mother knows what the trouble is—she's tired, just hasn't had enough sleep. Crossness with her at any time is almost invariably a sign of fatigue. She's a pretty intense child who uses up a great deal of vitality in anything she does and she needs lots of rest.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Agnes V. Dean, 5948 S. Maplewood av.]

THE QUESTION.

If the job you held for one day were permanent what ideas of yours would you like the city to adopt?

WHERE ASKED

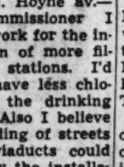
Continental hotel luncheon [asked of youths chosen to "run" the city for a day.]

THE ANSWERS

Robert Farley, 17, mayor, 4238 Van Buren st.—One of my main objectives would be clearance of slums. I'd try to accomplish this along the lines of the federal housing projects, tearing down the old buildings and replacing them with modern units. Then I'd concentrate on cleaning up alleys to cut disease to a minimum.

Doug Kelley, 16, corporation counsel, 8149 Jeffrey av.—For the security of the employe's future I suggest that employes of the department of law be appointed thru civil service, as in all other departments. However, I feel the corporation counsel should be allowed to choose the close associates directly under him.

Jerry Lamet, 15, commissioner of public works, 7441 N. Hoyne av.—As commissioner I would work for the installation of more filtration stations. I'd try to have less chlorine in the drinking water. Also I believe the flooding of streets under viaducts could be done away with by the installation of proper drainage systems.



John Morrice, 16, police commissioner, 319 N. Latrobe av.—I'd try to get the city council to vote money for fieldhouses at various sites thruout the city. This would greatly reduce juvenile delinquency because children who are interested in sports don't have time to get into trouble.

Raymond McLaughlin, 13, fire commissioner, 6401 S. Carpenter st.—There should be more fire boxes in the city. In addition to fire prevention week I believe lectures should be given more frequently in schools to instruct students in fire prevention and the method of using fire extinguishers.

Engagement News

From New York City the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Clifton Grant, formerly of Evanston, send word of the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Jean, to Laurence Chalmers Tombs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Tombs of Montreal, Quebec. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hardie of Pasadena, Cal., formerly of Chicago. Her father, who is connected with the Union Theological seminary in New York, formerly was rector of Trinity church, Chicago, and then dean of Seabury-Western Theological seminary.

Mr. Tombs, who holds B. A. and M. A. degrees from McGill university, is a doctor of political science of the University of Geneva, Switzerland, where he was a member of the league of nations secretariat. A former officer of the Province of Quebec executive council, he now is acting secretary of the International Air Transport association in Montreal. The wedding is planned for June.

FRESH CREAM DEODORANT STOPS PERSPIRATION

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin
By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

FUN ON MOTHER'S DAY

Whisperings and giggles among Dad and the young fry always precede Mother's Day. And what fun they have planning the dinner menu and doing the marketing for this important day. Today's column is planned to give them assistance, so you might be wise to call it to their attention, Mother.

Frankfurters and Scalloped Potatoes

1 lb. Certified Frankfurters
6 cups sliced potatoes
1½ tbsp. minced onion
3 tbsp. Certified Margarine
3 tbsp. flour
3 cups milk
1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Reserve 5 frankfurters for top of dish and cut remaining ones in ½ inch pieces. Pare and slice the potatoes very thin. Brown the onion lightly in the Certified Margarine, blend in flour and add milk gradually, stirring constantly over medium heat until boiling point is reached. Add salt, pepper, cut frankfurters and potatoes. Mix well and transfer to a margarined casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., for 1 hour, 15 minutes. Uncover the last 20 to 25 minutes to brown. Pierce whole frankfurters with a fork and place on top for the last 5 minutes. Serves 5.

PLAN AN EASY MENU

A simple meal is more likely to be a success than an elaborate one when the cooks are not experienced. This menu is one that can be prepared easily even if there is only one child and Dad to do the honors. (The time given after each dish indicates length of cooking time.)

Frankfurters and Scalloped Potatoes (1¼ hrs.)
Margarined Green Beans (¼ to 3 hrs.)
Asparagus and Egg Salad
Thousand Island Dressing
Corn Bread (½ hr.) Apple Butter
Ice Cream.

FOLLOW THESE DIRECTIONS

Drop fresh beans which have been sliced, cross-wise or length-wise, into a small amount of boiling salted water (1 tsp. salt for 1 lb. beans), cover and boil until tender—15 to 30 minutes if you like them slightly crisp; 3 hrs. if you're a Southerner (in which case, add small pieces of Wilson's Economy Pork Jowl Bacon or salt pork at the beginning of cooking period and decrease the salt). If you cook the beans without meat, add 3 or 4 tbsp. Certified Margarine after draining off excess liquid from cooked beans, cover and place over low heat to allow margarine to melt. Mix well before serving.

Thousand Island Dressing

Combine 1 cup Wilson's Mayonnaise, ¼ cup chili sauce, one hard-cooked Clear Brook Egg, diced, and (if available) a tbsp. each of chopped green pepper and chives.

Use Mother's corn bread recipe. You may increase the oven temperature to 400° F. during the last half hour while baking it. Be sure the casserole used for the potatoes is large enough to allow the potatoes to boil without running over. Plan ahead so everything will be cooked at the same time. And have fun doing it, won't you?

Cordially,
George Rector

SOX DEFEAT ATHLETICS, 6-4; CUBS LOSE, 5-2

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THIS may be your night with somebody else, but for 500 supporters of this column it's their night with Hilda Butler Farr and her committee in charge of the fourth annual Wake of the News banquet. . . . This evening of fun with the men and women who make up America's oldest continuous sports column was suggested by contributors and has been promoted entirely by their efforts. . . . They arrange the program. . . . They foot the bill. . . . They tell the conductor of this space about his mistakes and how he can improve the column in the year ahead. . . . The first gathering in 1942 attracted 136. . . . The number jumped to 258 in 1943 and last year it totaled 352. . . . Mrs. Farr, who heads the committee, reports that she has had more than 800 reservations for tonight's party in the Mural room of the Morrison. . . . The hotel would handle only 500. . . . That's why many have been disappointed. . . . Assisting Mrs. Farr in the arrangement of the fourth banquet are Anne Korpics, Catherine T. Farrell, Virgie the Receptionist, the Duke of Paducah, Bruce Caldwell, Sarbee from Gawgia, and Clif of Canterbury. . . . The committee personnel has changed thru the years, but Mrs. Farr has served as chairlady continuously. . . . Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern will be the speaker of the evening, provided the committee has granted his request that he be seated next to Virgie the Receptionist. . . .

Rudy York's Detroit roommates always wait to retire until he has fallen asleep. . . . He has a habit of dozing off with a lighted cigaret in his hand. . . . One of the most forthright statements on intercollegiate athletics to come to the attention of this department was made by President Franklyn B. Snyder of Northwestern university in a letter to the parents of Northwestern students. . . . He said: "Northwestern believes in competitive sport as a valuable part of student life. We believe that the Western Intercollegiate conference can cut a pattern for athletics after the war which will appeal to even the harshest critic of some features of athletics in the past. We recognize the danger of uncontroled expansion of athletics and shall be on guard against it, but we shall continue to maintain such schedules as are consistent with the size of our student body and we shall try to win our fair share of games." . . . Cleveland is the only club in the American league not broadcasting play by play accounts this season. . . . Doors have been removed from the phone booths at the Polo Grounds and Yankee stadium in an effort to discourage betting. . . . Frazier Thompson is the first Negro athlete who has represented Notre Dame in intercollegiate competition. . . . He ran the 100 yard dash at the Drake relays.

Canceled Cheques

In the routine of banking business,
So that both they and we may
"keep track,"
There is, as you know, an inflexible rule,
All canceled cheques must come back.

Make them out to whomever you
please,
Be it business, a gift, or a treat,
In due course of time they return to you
As a memo or handy receipt.

Looking over one's canceled cheques
Ofttimes brings dull regret,
Too many indorsed to Pleasure & Co.
Prompt the thought, "And what did I get?"

In expending the riches of our lives
We should never the foresight lack
To keep this in mind, for one day we'll find
That all canceled cheques come

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

James Dykes' White Sox took their first look yesterday at the eastern portion of the American league and to all appearances quickly convinced themselves that they haven't seen anything yet. Following along the same lines that made them surprisingly successful against the western clubs, they polished off Connie Mack's Athletics, 6 to 4, thereby maintaining their first place rank. Of course, the Macks now have lost eight of their last nine but what of it.

The Sox were in a more or less free for all batting mood and this attitude made season's victory No. 3 comparatively easy for the well aged Thornton [Lefty] Lee. Even the frigid weather failed to disturb the veteran. He took things in stride for the first few innings, meanwhile picking up a 3 to 0 lead over his opponent, Don Black.

Fumble Fills Bases.

When the Sox did their first scoring in the second inning it was mainly at the insistence of George Kell. After two more out, Mike Tresh singled to left and Lee walked. Wally Moses slapped a grounder to Kell and this should have been the finish of the inning, but the young man refused to have it that way. He fumbled the ball, filling the bases and the situation was such that Oris Hockett couldn't resist. He slapped a single into center, Tresh and Lee scoring.

The Sox were strictly on their own in the third when they expanded themselves into a 3 to 0 lead. This was done on a single by Bill Nagel and two bagger by Le Roy Schalk, who was doubled off second when Dick Siebert speared a line drive by Cass Michaels.

A's Score in Fourth

Roberto Estalella and Frank Hayes led off with singles in the fourth, this slight disturbance leading to the A's first run. The Sox replied to this with two runs in their half. Tresh and Lee opened with singles and moved up on Moses' infield out. Hockett was intentionally passed filling the bases with one out. Tresh ran home while Dickshot was forcing Hockett at second and Lee counted when Edgar Busch, in attempting a double play, heaved wild past Siebert.

Lee was plunked for two hits in the sixth, one of them a double by Hayes that drove in the A's second run. The Sox took this back in the same inning when Moses, Hockett, and Dickshot singled in succession after two were out.

Lee Hits Two on Feet

What ever it was that caught hold of Lee in the eighth is questionable, anyway he tossed such fancy curves that he plunked both Cicero and Estalella on the foot. Hayes is more or less dangerous so was passed even tho it filled the bags with none out. Joe Cicero hiked home and Estalella took third on Siebert's fly. Irvin Hall rolled to Schalk who was so determined to pull off a double play that he started it before picking up the ball, Estalella scoring on the error. But good old Kell then grounded to Cuccinello and the needed double play was completed.

PHILLIES DEFEAT PAUL DERRINGER AND CUBS, 5 TO 2

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9—Paul Derringer, twice victor over the Cardinals and twice conqueror of the Pirates, got his first 1945 dose of defeat today—and in ample as well as surprising abundance as the tail-end Phillies whanged the proud Cubs, 5 to 2. The winning pitcher was the long time Cub, Bill Lee, who had won none of the Phillies' three victories and had suffered two of their 13 defeats going into the afternoon's affair.

The defeat was the third straight for the Cubs, their fifth in six games played since they reeled off six successive victories in what now seems a long time ago.

DiMaggio Hits Home Run

In the first half of the second inning, it appeared Manager Charley Grimm's brand new batting order had been a happy inspiration. Phil Cavarretta, newly installed as No. 4 in the batting order, led off with a double and promptly scored on a line single by Mickey Livingston, elevated from No. 8 to No. 5 in the batting order. Frank Secory, making his first start of the season, smashed a line single to left center and Livingston apparently forgot that Vince DiMaggio is playing center field for the Phillies this year. Livingston easily was thrown out when he tried to run from first to third on Secory's hit. Andy Pafko, restored to the lineup in the second game in St. Louis Sunday, bounced to Glenn Crawford and Johnson flied to DiMaggio.

The Cubs' 1 to 0 lead was of short duration. Jim Wasdell opened the home end of the second inning with a double to right and DiMaggio banged a homer into the upper deck

Minnesota Plans Sports for All in Post-War Golden Era

[Tenth of a series concerning war time athletic activities of Western conference schools, the problems faced and conquered, and their post-war plans.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

There's going to be a transition period in athletics in the Western conference and elsewhere. This comes on good authority—Bernie Bierman, who served as a marine early in the war, giving opponents a breather by leaving his post as football coach at the University of Minnesota.

"In many ways there will be a certain amount of confusion," says the molder of many conference championship gridiron teams, "and it may be several years after the conclusion of the war before the situation is stabilized. I expect that after this period arrives interest in college athletics will be greater than ever before. This also applies to athletics at all levels from playground and corner lot up thru the highest plane of professional athletics."

Then Bierman becomes specific.

Outlines Possibilities

"It's impossible for me or any one," he declares, "to predict at this time the end of the war with Japan or the rate of speed with which young men now in military service and who intend to compete in college sports will return. It also is difficult to predict when the time will arrive that 18 year olds no longer will be called by their country.

"If the majority of these boys returning from service get back within a relatively short time, and this time coincides with the period when 18 year olds again are entering college in pre-Pearl Harbor fashion, there will be a period for several years when there will be a super-abundance of material available. If this process does not happen to be timed this way, or if it extends over a long period, concentration of material obviously will not be great. Of course, if universal conscription is introduced, the process will be set back the length of time required of each young man in military service."

Veterans Must Start Over

Likewise, Bierman sees difficulty for returning service men to regain their athletic skill. He does not look for super-performances from players who established themselves as stars before going off to war. In fact, he believes they will have to start all over again and gradually regain their prowess.

Dr. Lou Keller, the Gophers' acting director of athletics, has his sights aimed high for the future of competitive sports. He expects veterans' organizations, such as the American Legion, to sponsor campaigns for a more comprehensive physical education program in high schools, colleges, and universities. And Minnesota, he says, definitely is making big plans.

Plan Winter Sports Arena

"We know we will need more outdoor and indoor facilities on a considerable scale," he reports. "We are planning now on a large winter sports arena which will enable us to carry on simultaneously intercollegiate, intramural, and individual student and faculty activities. We hope to see speed skating, figure skating, and curling developed on an exhibition and intercollegiate competitive scale."

Minnesota has its own evidence that service men will return. Twenty athletes who went off to war are back as Gophers. The 1944 football team had six discharged veterans. Seven members of this year's baseball team have done their bit for Uncle Sam.

Eight Letter Men Killed

Eight "M" men have been reported killed in service. Three other athletes, who did not win letters,

CHICAGO AREA TRACK OFFICIALS READJUST SEASON SCHEDULES

Winn Checks Dates for Running of 71st Derby

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Thorobred racing will return to Chicago Saturday at Sportsman's Park, the half mile plant in Cicero. Officials of the five Chicagoland tracks, Sportsman's, Arlington and Washington Parks, Hawthorne, and Lincoln Fields, met with the Illinois racing board late yesterday afternoon and set new dates for the season made necessary by the loss by Sportsman's Park of most of its 13 day spring meeting which had been scheduled to open on April 28.

The conference was called by Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the board, immediately after War Mobilization Director Vinson yesterday lifted the ban on racing imposed last Dec. 23 by his predecessor, James F. Byrnes.

Here Are New Dates

Representatives of the Chicago tracks, after an hour discussion, presented a new schedule which immediately was approved by the board, Chairman Williams, Frank Mandel, William Fay, and Secretary Clement Nance.

The Sportsman's Park spring meeting which originally called for 13 days, was cut to nine with the closing set for May 22. Lincoln Fields' 30 day session was cut to 28, starting May 23 and ending June 23. Arlington Park will have 34 days instead of 36 and will open June 25 and close Aug. 2. Washington Park will open on Aug. 3 and run 30 days, or until Sept. 6, a loss of one day. Hawthorne, originally allotted 35 days, will operate 32, starting Sept. 7 and ending Oct. 13. Sportsman's Park then will close the season with its regularly scheduled 18 day meeting opening Oct. 15 and closing Nov. 3.

Washington Park, of which Benjamin F. Lindheimer is executive director, an office he also holds at Arlington Park, gave up one of its Saturdays to make the rearrangement of dates possible. Washington Park also will divide the profits of the last day of its meeting with Hawthorne.

Name Meet Officials

John L. Keeshin, president of Sportsman's Park, announced that a $2,500 event will feature Saturday's program, the first race of which is set for 2 o'clock. The starting time of the first race on week days will be 2:15.

Keeshin also announced the following list of officials for the meeting: Stewards, W. A. Hamilton, J. J. Graddy, and T. J. Brown; racing secretary; W. R. Dahlstrom; placing judges, W. J. Shelley, W. A. Reagan, and Frederick Grafton; clerk of scales, Ralph Stubbs; patrol judges, George Swain, A. Nun, and Harold Hoffman; paddock judge, J. J. Gruber; starter, Roy Dickerson; timer, A. Heffernan.

Charles Bidwill, chairman of the board at Hawthorne, represented Lincoln Fields, and Charles Krutckoff, president, represented Hawthorne.

Sportsman's and Narragansett Park at Pawtucket, R. I., will be the first tracks to open, inaugurals being scheduled for Saturday at each establishment. Then come Pimlico, Md., on May 16, Keeneland at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 16; Jamaica, N. Y., May 21; Fairmount Park, Collinsville, Ill., May 26; Delaware Park, Wilmington, Del., May 29; Garden State Park, Camden, N. J., July 13, and Longacres, Seattle, Wash., June 23.

Williams Issues Statement

Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs and executive director of Lincoln Fields, spent most of yesterday at the telephone assembling data from other track operators that he may set the date for the 71st running of the Kentucky Derby. The Derby date, originally set for May 5, will be announced in the next couple of days, Winn said, adding nominations will be announced Saturday.

Maj. Williams, who besides heading the Illinois racing board, is president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, issued the following statement:

"Racing people kept faith with the government and cheerfully com-

Turf Takes Old Spot in Sport Field

New York, May 9 (AP)—Thorobred racing, which swings into action Saturday after an absence of more than four months in the United States, reached its financial peak last year when $1,209,973,122 was wagered, of which approximately $56,000,000 went to the treasuries of 17 states.

New York, which in recent years attracted about 25 per cent of the total betting in the country, broke all records as $410,230,402 poured thru the parimutuel machines and the state received $28,000,000 during the 189 day period.

$75,000,000 Invested in Tracks; Horses Represent $60,000,000

When the national ban went into effect Jan. 3, figures showed an investment of $75,000,000 in tracks, $60,000,000 in horses and $20,000,000 in breeding farms.

Some 1,800 jockeys and trainers handled 6,000 horses in training on 100 tracks while another 15,000 persons were employed as stable help, 10,000 as racing officials, mutuel betting operators, track and clubhouse attendants and 10,000 as employes on 880 breeding farms in 39 states.

Raise $17,000,00 for Charity in Three Years of Racing

During the three racing seasons since Pearl Harbor, the sport contributed approximately $17,000,000 to various war relief organizations. More than $50,000,000 in war bonds was sold at the tracks.

The ban created the first complete national shutdown of the sport in this country. Racing began in the United States in 1665 in the Long Island area, but racing of a type approaching that known today grew from Saratoga's opening in 1864. It survived the Spanish-American war and World War I. with only regional curtailments until the Byrnes ban.

GOLF STUDENTS AWAIT OPENING BELL OF SCHOOL

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The 13th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE in conjunction with the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America will open officially tomorrow night, the whimsies of that unpredictable citizen, the weather man, permitting. This largest system of mass education in the rudiments of the tee-and-green sport was to have begun last Monday, but you may recall that a slight case of moisture descended most of that day, causing officials to call off the first regular lesson.

That first lesson, on the grip, will be held tomorrow night, along with the stance. Since the school's inception in 1933 the officials have been able to adapt its pattern to changes in weather because of the very simplicity of the curriculum. From the start of the lessons 13 years ago the Illinois P. G. A. men have based all of their instructions on making the A. B. C.'s of the game easily assimilable by novices.

Two Classes in One

Thus, when the class opens tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock on the four courses of the Chicago park district, the faculty will be able to include the teachings on the grip, intended for the first lesson, along with instructions on the stance.

When the school was first held in 1933 the professionals agreed that their first chore should be to interest the beginner in the game and then to make a sincere effort toward bending his or her steps into the game gradually and easily. How well they succeeded is revealed in the record of the 463,500 free lesson which have been given to golf minded men, women, and children of Chicago in the last 12 years.

All Classes Start at 7:15

Tomorrow's classes will begin simultaneously on all four courses at 7:15 o'clock, but each prospective student is asked to appear at that course nearest his or her home or office by 15 minutes before that hour in order to facilitate the opening of the classes.

The locations of the four courses are: Jackson park, east of 63d st. and Stony Island av.; Columbus park, west of Central av. and Jackson blvd.; Diversey, in Lincoln park at the foot of Lake Michigan and Diversey blvd., and Marquette park, Kedzie av. and Marquette rd. The method of enrolling in the school is as simple as its mechanism. Merely bring a golf club to the course most convenient to you and be prompt.

BOOKIES CHEER RACE REVIVAL WITH BIG HOPES

Gamblers Recall Earlier Halcyon Days

BY JAMES DOHERTY

Forgotten yesterday in the city hall and near-by gathering places of the gambling gentry was the report of the $15,000 dice game holdup by six bandits with sawed off shotguns, the report that a patron lost $20,000 in a swank night club playing chemin de fer, and forgotten also were the losses and the police crackdowns on boom days of last year.

For it had been announced officially in Washington, D. C., that horse racing would be allowed to resume. The word was out: Sportsman's park will be open to the public with horse racing Saturday, and on that day, too, there will be racing at Narragansett Park in Rhode Island.

Bookies Ready for Action

Chicago handbook experts were ready and willing to resume their former occupations, and at the old stands, if there is no interference, it was being heralded along the Rialto.

When horse racing was banned by the government as a war measure last Jan. 3, horse parlors had been outlawed in Chicago, but there were some places operating, it was recalled. The so-called gambling syndicate was still in business—and there were numerous 'commission houses' doing business, race bettors also remembered.

It was presumed that Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman had not changed their attitudes toward handbooks, according to the conversation of those interested in the subject; nevertheless, there were many who said they were going to take a chance, open handbooks and "see what happens."

Hope for Skidmore Successor

The gambling racket in Chicago was said to have fallen into evil days because of the imprisonment, first, and then the death of William R. Skidmore, the man regarded as the fixer who kept peace in the business and who handled collections. No one has appeared to take his place, it was bemoaned yesterday by those who said they were still hopeful.

The recent robbery of a gambling house at 121st and Halsted st., in which several patrons were beaten with the bandits' guns, caused some of the gamblers to be fearful of what may happen if they open "horse parlors" promiscuously in the near future. However, there were those who said they would chance anything to be back in business.

Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said he would have investigators watching to see if resumption of racing means a resumption of old time activities here.

plied with all regulations. The government has kept faith with us, for we were promised racing would be resumed when war conditions permitted. Racing people will, as always, comply strictly with regulations and requirements and will continue to give the public the best racing possible."

Lindheimer said:

"Now that War Mobilization Director Vinson has authorized resumption of racing, Arlington Park and Washington Park are prepared to go ahead with their traditionally high grade racing programs. We feel that American racing has complied completely with the original request of the former war mobilization director, James F. Byrnes, and we consider that racing was privileged in having assisted in the war efforts of our government.

Willing to Surrender Dates

"In a spirit of coöperation for the general good of the sport Arlington and Washington Parks willingly gave up some of their legally alloted racing days. Horsemen are assured that this readjustment will not in any way affect the high standard of our stake and purse programs which we believe have been highly beneficial in the building of Chicago racing."

The state of Illinois' revenue from racing last year was $3,917,834 which broke the record of $2,808,168 set in 1943. The parimutuel handle was $148,964,367 while war relief and charity agencies received $1,170,227.

COURT MARTIAL 1ST IN ENGLAND'S 2,000 GUINEAS

NEWMARKET, England, May 9 (AP)—A jubilant crowd of V-E day celebrators saw Viscount Astor's Court Martial, at 13 to 2, win the 2,000 Guineas mile today. He defeated the even money favorite Dante by a neck, with Royal Charger, an outsider, third. There were 19 colts in the field and the winner's time was 1:40 4-5.

New York May 9 (AP)—Mel Ott's New York Giants passed their first intersectional test tonight with flying colors as Harry Feldman turned back the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1, for his fourth straight victory before 23,303 fans.

Five singles and an error by Frank McCormick gave the Giants four runs off Arnie Carter in the first inning and homers by George Hausmann and Ott in the fifth added the other scores. It was Hausmann's first of the season and No. 5 for Ott, whose lifetime total of 494 now equals that of the late Lou Gehrig. of the left field stand, scoring behind Wasdell. Coaker Triplett singled to right and stole second. John Antonelli, just obtained from the Cardinals, struck out and Mancuso grounded to Johnson.

The three hits the Cubs made before anybody was out in the second inning proved half of their total for the day. Livingston singled again in the fourth and Secory got his second hit in the seventh, later scoring on a pinch single by Heinz Becker. This was the second time a pinch batter has come thru this year for the Cubs, the other was Paul Gillespie who singled with two out and nobody on, a week or so ago.

What proved to be the winning run was scored by DiMaggio. He walked in the fourth and scored on a single by Antonelli.

Derringer was blasted from the scene in the sixth. Vance Dinges led off with a single. Wasdell flied to Nicholson but DiMaggio singled to left. Triplett doubled to left, scoring Dinges and Di Maggio. Jorge Comellas replaced Derringer. Antonelli beat out an infield scratch, but Mancuso hit into a double play. Mack Stewart pitched effectively in the seventh and eighth.

The teams will meet tomorrow in the middle game of their three game series. Claude Passeau will try for his second victory of the season and will be opposed by Charley Sproull, Rockford, Ill., resident who was with Milwaukee last season and who was first choice in the baseball draft last winter.

have given their lives, three are missing, and four are prisoners of war. Six are known to have won decorations. Minnesota lists 185 who were athletes at the outbreak of war as now in military service, plus 150 from the freshman squads. Since then, 250 Gopher athletes have gone to war.

Its coaches have played a part in whacking the axis. Frank McCormick, athletic director, is a colonel in the army special services division. Bierman was a lieutenant colonel in the marines. Eight other members of the staff are working for their country.

Attendance Increases

Minnesota has risen from third to second in football attendance since Pearl Harbor. Before the war the Gophers drew 704,221 in a three year period, third to Michigan and Ohio State. In the three seasons since 1941, Minnesota's crowds at home games have totaled 595,399, second to Ohio State's 794,391. Michigan, the leader in the pre-war period with 839,570, has dropped to third with 583,100.

TRUCK LEAVES; BOYS FIND BODY OF PLAYMATE, 4

When Richard O'Neill, 16, of 4358 Kenmore av. passed an alley at 4416 N. Ashland av. yesterday, he noticed several youngsters of pre-school age milling around in the passage way. He investigated and found the body of James Spoto, 4, of 4357 N. Hermitage av. From the children police learned there had been a vegetable truck in the alley, over which they had been climbing and playing. After the truck drove away they found James' body. Police said the child apparently had not been run over by the wheels, but probably had fallen from the truck to the pavement. They said they did not believe the driver was aware of the accident.

Mrs. Josephine Kuidis, 61, of 2137 S. Drake av., was killed last night when she was struck by a hit and run automobile in Cermak rd. at Drake av. Police found fragments of a head lamp on the pavement and thru them hope to trace the driver.

William C. John, 68, of 9620 Irving Park rd., Schiller Park, died early yesterday in the Oak Park hospital of injuries suffered Monday night when he was struck by an automobile driven by A. G. Ginsberg, 4254 Kimball av., at Prairie av. and Irving Park rd., Schiller Park.

William Jeffreys, 19, of 5147 S. Wolcott av. was freed by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court on a charge of manslaughter for the death of George J. Tikalsky, 20, of 5132 S. Honore st., a coast guardsman, who was killed April 16 in Jefferys' car when it struck a tree at 6109 S. Damen av. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death on Monday.

CIO'S SENIORITY RULE BARS VET FROM AUTO JOB

Needs Work Record to Be Hired

BY PHILIP HAMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., May 9—Thousands of veterans who entered service directly from school or worked only briefly in war plants since closed will find it difficult to obtain work in automobile factories because of union seniority rules, industry spokesmen said today.

The CIO United Automobile Workers "model contract clause" covering veterans provides that servicemen with no employment record shall be granted seniority on the basis of the length of military service, but that such seniority is not effective until the veteran has found a job and should not be considered a basis for hiring, the spokesmen explained.

Must Take Place in Line

This means that army and navy veterans who left classrooms or plants now abandoned must take places in line behind workers hired since the war began, they said.

"We will have many boys coming back after four or five years military service with no seniority," one representative of the auto manufacturers said. "They were about 20 when they left home. Now they are 24, 25, or older. Many other veterans will find their jobs gone because the plant in which they worked, one such as Willow Run, will have been closed by changing war requirements.

"Many boys have learned to do the kind of work done in automobile plants. They are the kind of men we like to hire, but we are unable to because of seniority rules. Of course, it would make an impossible situation were we to engage in mass displacement of the comparatively new plant workers, but labor should consent to an arrangement which would permit us to employ those veterans having the qualifications we wish regardless of union seniority rules."

Larger Output Essential

Under these rules the automobile industry must expand production substantially above pre-war levels before any appreciable number of veterans can be hired, a spokesman said.

It is estimated, for example, that employment at Ford Motor company's River Rouge plant must be at least 90,000 before the plant can take on new workers without violating the seniority rule. This is an extremely large pay roll for normal times. Before the war 60,000 was considered large at that plant.

Release of a large number of such veterans has created a problem in Detroit and a like one will face Chicago and other industrial centers, spokesmen predicted. Now that Germany is defeated the number of veterans is expected to be increased by thousands.

Men who left established and continuing automotive plants for the battle fronts are in a more favorable position. Under the GI bill of rights they retain their seniority which precedes that of new workers. Their position is secure

BELL & HOWELL TO RUN TRAILER REPAIR ROUTES

Bell & Howell, Chicago manufacturer of cameras and motion picture projectors, yesterday exhibited the first of a fleet of auto trailers which will be used to service and repair its products in all parts of the country.

The trailers will be equipped to provide every service operation performed at the factory and will travel on a fixed schedule over designated routes in all areas.

Their principal purpose is to provide "preventive service," including inspection, cleaning, lubrication, and parts replacements before breakdowns occur, the company said. Users will be saved the trouble and expense of packing machines for shipment to the factory and will not be deprived of the use of their equipment for more than a few hours, it was said.

Trade Group Backs Tariff Bill and Loans

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States gave congress its views today on pending international legislation, indorsing the administration's proposal for additional tariff cutting power, but approving only a part of the Bretton Woods monetary agreements. Representatives of the chamber appeared simultaneously before the house ways and means committee on tariffs and the banking committee on Bretton Woods.

Clark H. Minor of New York City, speaking for Chamber President Eric Johnston, who is ill, said the business organization's directors had approved unanimously the bill extending the reciprocal trade act for three years, with an amendment giving the President broad new authority to cut duties in trade agreements with other nations.

Says He Has Learned

"I am a Republican who has learned thru bitter experience that if we want prosperity and full employment with a rising standard of living we have to cooperate with other nations in promoting the exchange of goods and services," Minor said.

He also indorsed the legislation in behalf of the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

John J. Rowe, Cincinnati, O., banker, told the banking committee the chamber approves the Bretton Woods proposal for a 10 billion dollar world bank for reconstruction and development loans, but recommends deferment of action on a separate international currency stabilization fund.

Doubt Adoption of Bills

Rowe said the chamber proposed, instead, a temporary broadening of the bank's responsibilities to include currency stabilization. Action on the fund would be delayed until the board of governors of the bank could make a study of international monetary problems, with a view to "reconciliation of the conflicting opinions" on the fund.

Administration men conceded they were doubtful about winning the tariff and Bretton Woods battles.

A. T. & T. CUTS SOME RATES FOR LONG DISTANCE

New York, May 9 (AP)—American Telephone and Telegraph company today announced that reductions amounting to 21 million dollars a year for calls over distances of more than 790 miles had been agreed upon with the federal communications commission, effective July 1. Charges for calls between New York and San Francisco will be reduced from $4 to $2.50, and between New York and Denver from $3.25 to $2.35. Walter S. Gifford, president, said the FCC had ruled the company's interstate earnings produced a return larger than could be justified.

EARLY TAX REDUCTION NEEDED TO PRESERVE ECONOMY: SEN. GEORGE

Sen. Walter F. George

Washington, D. C., May 9 [Special] — Substantial reductions in corporate and individual income taxes, some of them applying to pre-VE-day earnings, must be effected at the earliest possible date despite the continuing war with Japan, "if we are to preserve the American economy," Sen. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, told a news conference late today.

Only a few hours earlier today War Mobilization and Reconversion Director Vinson had advised President Truman that it had been recommended that "no general reduction in taxes be made until after Japan is defeated." Vinson added that "new tax payments are being planned for the post-VJ period to stimulate reconversion and new enterprise."

Sen. George, on the other hand, tonight met other members of the joint committee and treasury department and congressional tax experts to work out proposals for a program of "interim" tax revisions now.

LIFT BUSINESS TRIP CURBS TO BRITAIN, FRANCE

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—The state department announced today relaxation of its regulations on American business trips to the British Isles and France.

Joseph C. Grew, acting secretary of state, said American business men may travel freely to the British Isles and to the inner zone of France. They also may go to Switzerland if they have business of national interest. Previously national interest had to be shown for trips to France and England before passports would be granted.

No tourists will be permitted to travel to the continent, Grew said, but he added that every effort will be made to reunite families who have permanent homes in the British Isles.

Perry Phelps, vice president of the district corporation, said yesterday. The company makes forgings of carbon, alloy, and stainless steel, and monel metal for general industrial, automotive, farm, and railroad use.

HOLDS MANAGING OF DEBT IS MAIN TREASURY TASK

Debt management rather than debt reduction will be the important problem before the treasury in peace time, Simeon E. Leland, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said yesterday. He predicted the national debt will continue to rise for years.

He spoke before a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman.

"To pay off a debt of 300 billion dollars in 30 years would require an annual charge of about 13 billion 395 millions, the effective interest rate being 2 per cent," Leland said. "The annual cost of carrying a 300 billion debt will require approximately 6 billion for interest.

"When the choice is between taxes aggregating 13 billion 400 million for debt retirement and 6 billion for carrying the debt as it is most people can be expected to prefer the lower tax bill."

MATERIALS SENT RUSSIA IN MARCH EXCEED PLEDGE

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—Shipments of war materials to Russia from the western hemisphere totaled 5,436,000 short tons in the nine months ended March 31, the foreign economic administration reported today. This exceeded by 10 per cent the materials promised Russia under the fourth protocol.

Except for some cash purchases and some materials lend-leased by Canada or transferred by the British in this hemisphere, all the shipments went as United States lend-lease aid.

Shipments in March were valued at 337 million dollars or 35 per cent of all lend-lease aid to the allies. They included 357 planes, 342 of them flown away by soviet pilots. This brought to 13,475 the number of American planes sent to Russia.

MARCH RETAIL STORE SALES AT ALL-TIME PEAK

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—Retail store sales in March reached an estimated all-time high of 6 billion 350 million dollars, the department of commerce reported today.

It said the record sales were influenced by the April 1 date of Easter, throwing all holiday buying into March and concern of consumers over the possible disappearance of higher quality apparel because of a WPB order relating to textile products.

CERTAIN-TEED FIRST QUARTER SALES AT PEAK

Budd Mfg. Expects Post-War Gains

Net sales of Certain-teed Products corporation in the first quarter were approximately $5,561,000, largest for any first quarter in 10 years, Rawson Lizars, chairman, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday in Baltimore, Md. He said the rising trend continued thru April, when billings were $1,982,000.

Lizars said net earnings before federal taxes in the quarter were $529,556, against $434,351 a year earlier. A. J. Hettinger Jr., member of Lazard Freres & Co., New York, was elected a director.

Budd Predicts Big Sales

Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company stockholders were told at the annual meeting in Philadelphia by Edward G. Budd, president, that the company expects annual post-war sales of more than 100 million dollars, compared with pre-war annual volume of between 35 and 40 million. He said the increased volume would continue long enough to warrant substantial expenditures for additional plant facilities.

Stockholders approved a financing program under which the company can borrow up to 25 million dollars for general business purposes.

Post-war output of Budd Wheel company also will far exceed pre-war volume, largely thru new lines of manufacture the company has introduced, Budd said. He also is president of this company which also held its annual meeting in Philadelphia. He said a start already has been made in production of agricultural equipment, which will take up any slack from cutbacks.

Acquires Budd Induction Heating

Budd said the wheel company had acquired all the stock of Budd Induction Heating, Inc., and explained a "vigorous development of this line" after the war, was planned.

Richard J. Cullen, chairman of International Paper company, said good markets for kraft paper and paperboard products were expected after the war. He forecast a strong long term newsprint market. Profits in the first quarter this year were slightly below a year ago, he said.

Great Western Sugar company's beet crop this year is off to a good start and larger production than in the last two years is hoped for, Frank A. Kemp, president, said at the annual meeting in Flemington, N. J. He said beets planted now can be "put on the table in the fall" if an adequate labor supply is available and the farmers get some encouragement from the government.

Ickes Reports Progress Toward Anthracite Pact

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Ickes said that some progress toward a hard coal contract had been made at his conference today with John L. Lewis and anthracite operators. The conference will resume at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The mines, all in Pennsylvania, are idle despite "seizure" by Ickes.

OPA Moves Anew to Curb Illegal Meat

In a move designed to take hundreds of thousands of pounds of meat out of the black market and restore it to normal retail channels, Marion W. Isbell, area director of the office of price administration, yesterday ordered all slaughterers not operating federally inspected plants to apply for renewal of their permits by Sunday or face cancellation.

The order applied to class 2 permits, which are held by nonfederally inspected commercial slaughterers and retail slaughterers; and class 3 permits, which are held by those who live on and operate farms and do slaughtering.

Produces Locker Book

"With slaughtering quotas for such permits reduced 25 per cent in beef and 50 per cent in pork, and a chance to give these permits a thoro review we should be able to plug a lot of loopholes," Isbell said.

Meanwhile Rudolph Malz, co-owner of the Dutch Dairy Frozen Food Locker plant, 3316 Devon av., Lincolnwood, turned over to Edward Jordan, OPA investigator, a book which he said was the missing record of his locker plant cutting room. Malz will appear before Federal Judge John P. Barnes tomorrow to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to produce his plant records as he had been ordered.

In other court actions the OPA sought injunctions against small slaughterers and also went after produce distributors to try to cut down what OPA price experts said was a potential million dollar a week black market in fresh fruits and vegetables.

Other Suits Filed

Other suits filed in federal court in Chicago included four asking the court to determine treble damages. Defendants are:

Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., 18 S. Michigan av., one of the country's largest hardware wholesalers, accused of selling toys at extra legal prices; Samuel Chevlin company, 2721 N. Halsted st., maker of garment hangers and coarse paper products, charged with overceiling sales; J. S. Nudelman, operator of the Emblem Manufacturing company, 666 Lake Shore dr., charged with overceiling sales of household furniture, and Dorothy Flicek Enterprises, 2445 Harrison st., accused of selling toys at illegal prices.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Declares $2 Dividend

STOCK MARKET REACTS IN LATE SELLING BURST

Only Aircrafts Hold Early Advances

New York, May 9 (AP)—The stock market reacted from recent highs today in a late burst of selling which drove prices down fractions to more than 2 points. The downturn came in the last 20 minutes on expectation of a technical correction after advances which had sent some pivotals to highs for nearly eight years. Profit taking was also a factor.

Until the sell-off dealings had been quiet and prices irregular, altho aircrafts, rails, and selected industrials had risen fractions to more than 2 points. The only group showing improvement at the close was airplane manufacturing and these issues were below the highs.

Farm Implements Decline

Extreme losses were in farm implements, motors and certain industrials. Transfers were 1,490,000 shares, compared with 1,580,000 yesterday.

Brokers accepted as good news War Mobilizer Vinson's statement that governmental agencies did not intend to retard industry from a return to civilian output, but this did not stem the late increase in selling orders.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was down 0.6 at 64.5. Of 798 issues traded 634 were off, 172 up, and 172 unchanged.

RAIL BONDS LOWER

New York, May 9 (AP)—Selling pressure against a sizable group of secondary rails pushed the bond market irregularly lower today. Declines of major fractions to more than a point were plentiful among rails and offerings of individual issues tended to increase in the final hour. Industrials and utilities were mixed and investment rated issues held close to steady.

Sales were $12,340,000, less than the recent average, compared with $15,090,000 yesterday. The Associated Press rail average lost 0.2 at 100.4, but other groups were unchanged.

CHICAGO LIST SAGS

Prices declined and turnover was 40,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Chicago Corporation, down ¼; Commonwealth Edison, unchanged; Central and Southwest Utilities, down ⅝; Miller & Hart, up ⅛; and Spiegel, Inc., off ⅝.

GRAIN FUTURES DECLINE, LED BY WHEAT SELL-OFF

Weaker Cash Market Is Depressing Factor

Grain futures were lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat led the decline and closed ⅝ to 2⅛ cents a bushel lower. Favorable crop reports and evidence of weakening in the cash grain market provided the background for commission house and professional selling. Rye lost ⅝ to 1⅜, corn finished unchanged to ¼ lower, oats lost ¼ to ⅝, and barley was unchanged to 1 cent lower.

Reports that hard winter wheat for deferred shipment to Kansas City was selling slightly under the ceiling, and at a price that permitted reshipment to Chicago at a small profit had influence on professional operations. A department of agriculture report on winter wheat to be issued today was expected to show a prospective yield of about 850 million bushels.

Sells Wheat Against Rye.

A professional trader was selling wheat futures against purchases of rye, tending to depress wheat.

New crop No. 2 red or hard winter for shipment from the country by July 20 was quoted 2 to 2½ cents a bushel over July, equal to about 9 cents under the ceiling price.

Trading in rye futures was active, but commission houses were persistent sellers and offset professional support. No new export business was disclosed, altho traders had expected a good demand would follow announcement of peace in Europe. Cash rye sold at the highest price since 1924 which was said to be a factor in inducing speculators to cash their profits.

Corn Trade Is Quiet

Little interest was shown in corn futures and prices have held in narrow limits for several days. Cash corn was in active demand except grain of poor quality. Despite expectations that large quantities of American feed grains would be required in liberated European countries, brokers said there were no bids in the market.

Cash oats prices broke ½ to 1 cent a bushel and are at the lowest level since early last fall. Effective today the Canadian export tax will be reduced 1 cent to 17 cents a bushel. Tenders of 10,000 bushels of cash oats were made on May contracts.

STEER DEMAND SLOW DESPITE SMALL RECEIPTS

Despite declining beef production the market for steers yesterday was draggy and steady to 25 cents lower. Receipts of 12,000 were below average for a Wednesday. The three day total this week of 32,700 was smallest since November.

Top steers and heifers reached $17.90 a hundred pounds, equaling the 1945 peak. Most steers brought $15.25 to $17.50 and most heifers sold steady. Other cattle were steady to strong.

Hog receipts dipped abnormally low on V-E day, but increased yesterday to above average for a Wednesday. However, the supply was far below trade requirements and buyers eagerly paid ceiling prices for all that farmers offered. Mostly steady prices were paid for sheep and lambs, altho some weakness appeared near the close.

BANK EARNINGS HIGHEST SINCE START OF FDIC

Washington, D. C., May 9 (AP)—Net earnings after taxes of the 13,268 insured commercial banks in 1944 were 751 million dollars, the highest since deposit insurance began in 1944, Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, said today.

Profits were 18 per cent above 1943 and 70 per cent above 1942. They represented a return of 9.7 per cent on average total capital accounts, compared with an 8.8 per cent return in 1943.

Net profits before income taxes were 954 million. Total income taxes were 203 million, including 187 million federal and 16 million state.

Court Orders 14 Story Mozart Apartments Sold

Judge Robert J. Dunne yesterday ordered that the Mozart apartments, a 14 story building at 102-6 E. Chestnut st., containing 130 furnished one room apartments, be sold at public auction in his Circuit courtroom June 7 at 2 p. m. The sale was ordered in response to a petition filed by the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee of the property, asking court instructions concerning a bid of $232,500. Certificate holders last October rejected a $220,000 offer.

EXEMPT FROM REPRICING

I note that railroad earnings are reported without reference to possible renegotiation of war contract prices. Are the carriers exempt from renegotiation?—F. O.

Common carriers are exempted from renegotiation by a regulation of the war contracts price adjustment board. This ruling was issued under discretionary authority granted the board by the renegotiation act.

The exemption applies to contracts and subcontracts for transportation not only by rail but by motor vehicle, pipe line, or air, if made at published rates or charges fixed by a public regulatory body or subject to its regulation. It would be difficult to segregate railroad profits attributable to war contracts from those earned in rendering other services. The board is authorized to grant exemption "in cases in which it is not administratively feasible to segregate profits." In exempting common carriers, it cited this and other provisions of the act.

As the law stands, profits of all war contractors earned after June 30 next will not be subject to renegotiation unless the termination date is extended by congress.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, May 9 [AP]—A few scattered lots of print cloths and sheetings were sold in the cotton textile market today. An insistent demand came from the shoe trade for drills for linings. Trade quarters awaited further WPB action to increase production. The first step was an order raising the man power rating of industry to the equivalent of munition makers to recruit more labor for the mills.
